The Only One Piece Flanged Front and Back Air-Chamber Safe in the Market

We claim that we make the best Fire Proof Safe in the market today, and we base our claim on the following important features: A solid one piece back and front formed by flanging a square steel plate on our patented process which has been accomplished by years of study and experiment, although it was placed on record by scientists as impossible. The illustration and description of this SUPERIOR improvement is shown on previous page, which gives you the various points of advantage of this new method over the old. Built in numerous styles and sizes.

VAULT FRONTS.

Entire front made of one piece, with no mitred corners, making a one-piece continuous frame all around.

The strongest and most rigid vault front on the market.

Standard size made to fit opening 77 inches high 34 inches wide, for an 18-inch wall.

Inside clearance of door 28 inches wide x 74 inches high.

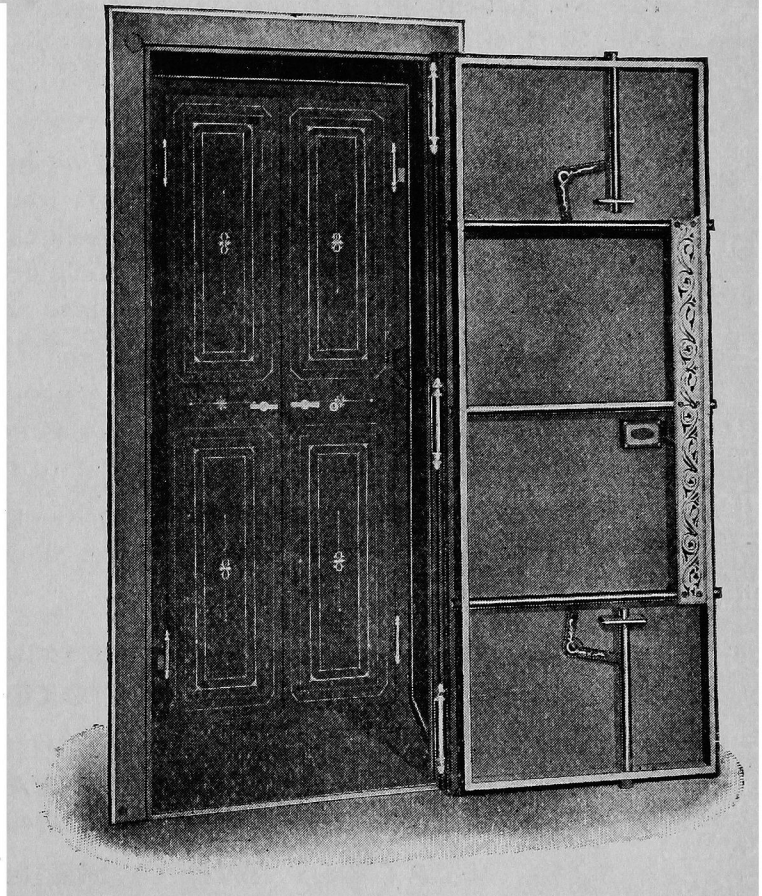

Door hung on two or three strong hinges, to suit purchaser.

Boltwork in different styles.

Description sent on application.

Inner doors made in two folds, batten-barred and fitted with flat up and down bolts. Locked with a flat key lock.

Rear flanges can be unscrewed and vault placed in position and leveled. To complete setting, it is but necessary to fill up all crevices after leveling, then place on back flanges and the vault is ready for use.

MANUFACTURERS OF THE ONLY

One-Piece Back and Front Safe on the Market.

1. The new method is a plate made of No. 165 gauge iron steel and larger, which is flanged into a solid form as per No. 2. This makes the back of the safe. No. 3 is the same piece, but it shows the door died out, and the mark in the center shows how the door plate can be cut in half for small and large double door sizes. By making the safe in this manner of one piece, it does away with the mitred corners; it does away with riveting the back, as you will see in No. 7 in the old method. It eliminates using angle iron bars mitred out at all corners like No. 4, bent into a frame as per Nos. 5 and 6. It does away with drilling hole to rivet the back as per No. 7, also the front mitres. It obviates using a lapped bar to connect the frame as per No. 5, also the mitred joint at all four corners as you see in No. 5.

Should any of the corners be melted off in the old method, the safe will fall apart, but on the new style, if the corners were melted off, or should any part of the safe be melted off, the flanges will hold the body of the safe together; there is no part to let go, as it is all one solid piece, therefore the entire part would have to melt off before the safe would lose any of its strength.

By making the safe in this new method, the material used for the back and door plate is much heavier than other concerns use, on account of our flanging the entire sheet. We can afford to make same in this manner and still compete with other concerns, by saving the labor of riveting and fitting.

We are the first to manufacture a square flange on plates heavier than  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch thick. We invite comparison. Our safe, placed alongside of any other make of the same size, will speak for itself.

WILLIAMS' CINCINNATI

Street and Avenue Guide

and

Directory of Householders

Copyright, 1923, by The Williams Directory Co.

The following is an alphabetical list of the names of the Streets and Avenues of the city with a description of where each Street or Avenue is located. Vine street, which runs north from the Ohio River through the center of the city, is the dividing line for streets running east and west, and buildings on these streets are numbered east and west from Vine street. Buildings on streets running north and south are numbered from the Ohio River, north.

The number of each building on the street is given in numerical order, and opposite the number is placed the name of the householder. In business blocks the occupant of each room is shown by number where practicable. The profession, business, etc. of individuals and firms are only given at their respective place of business; for occupation of householders, refer to Alphabetical Arrangement of Names.

Even numbers appear on the north or east side and odd numbers on the south or west side of the street. The names of intersecting streets are given in the order in which they intersect.
