Between Us . . .

We just completed Purim and now on to Pesach. I don't know about you but each time Purim comes I know that spring is right around the corner. The anticipation of Pesach is like waiting for a beautiful flower to blossom.

This year, especially, we need Pesach and spring. Between the activities in Congress and the terrorism in Israel the concept of renewal and hope and goodness is certainly a welcome one.

At the same time, we balance our rejoicing with thoughts of memorial. This year, especially, when we recall that fifty years ago the Holocaust came to an end.

A special kind of memorial has been created for us this year. In addition to the Zachor buttons that we usually send to you, this year we have special Holocaust memorial candles. They will be distributed to the children in our Religious School and also available after Shabbat services and through the Temple office. We ask that you light these Zachor candles on the eve of April 26 and keep them lit throughout April 27. Together, with fellow Jews all over the world, we will kindle lights of memorial and send forth the message of renewal, hope and the promise of a joyous tomorrow.

Joan, Ellie and Carrie, join me in wishing you and your family a very sweet and joyous Pesach.

WORSHIP SERVICES

Friday, April 7 - The Gifts and the Call of God Are Irrevocable

This Shabbat evening we honor the memory of Rabbi Nathaniel Keller. Rabbi Keller served as the spiritual leader of our congregation for 33 years. To honor his memory we welcome Dr. Norman Kansfield, president of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. Dr. Kansfield will discuss his reflections on Isaiah 49 and Romans 11.

Friday, April 21 - Teaching Torah from the Text

Rabbi Miller will lead us in Torah study as we conclude Pesach and move on to Spring.

Friday, April 28 - Youth Group Service

Our Shabbat service to commemorate Yom HaShoah will be led by AETY. Come hear the creativity, enthusiasm, and ideas. This year AETY is hosting the JFTY Spring Conclave. Joining us for the weekend will be over 150 young people from New Jersey. It is always meaningful to see and hear the next generation of Reform Jewish leaders.

BABYSITTING AVAILABLE!

During April, babysitting will be provided during Shabbat Services on April 7 and April 28. Please call either Ann Thayer-Cohen at 819-0580 or Sara Levine at 297-3864 to let them know you will be bringing your children so that we can be sure to have enough sitters.

Please join us for the last MiniMester of the year.

April 24 and May 1

Cantor Roskin-Coleman

While we are very familiar with the melodies of Passover, Sukkot and Shavuot are festivals whose songs we may not know. Cantor Roskin-Coleman will share the modes that make these holidays familiar to us.

Join us Shabbat Mornings when Religious School is in session for any of the following:

Torah Study with Rabbi Miller	9:30 A.M.
Celebration of Jewish Life with Rabbi Dubowe	10:30 A.M.
Shabbat Minyan	10:30 A.M.
Religious School Tefillah Services	11:15 A.M.

Officer's Column

On Friday evening, May 12th, a new President (Lee Livingston) will be installed. My two years in office have come to an end. Frankly, I will miss the job. It has been a very rewarding two years as President of Anshe Emeth Memorial Temple. The job of Temple President, here at Anshe Emeth, is not as bad as one might think.

Thanks to Rabbi Miller, Rabbi Dubowe, Cantor Roskin-Coleman, Susan Kushner, Gail Kroop, and of course, the office, clerical, bookkeeping, and janitorial staff the President's job here is an easy one. I have yet to have a late night call that the burglar alarm was going off, and to the best of my recollection I have only been called one time by a member with a complaint or problem. Anshe Emeth is a tight ship, it runs smoothly and it operates using all the technology of the 90's.

A farewell would not be complete unless I also acknowledge the Trustees and fellow Officers. Their dedication to Anshe Emeth has created what we have today, a thriving and growing center in which to experience Jewish life. It is my intention to remain an active member of Anshe Emeth and perform in any capacity that I am asked.

The highlights of my term include the transition of the High Holiday Campaign into an Annual Campaign (raising over $75,00.00 this year), the Jubilation Festival held last spring and the Debbie Friedman Concert this past fall. What an exciting two years it has been!

A position of leadership at Anshe Emeth can be truly rewarding and enjoyable. We need more leaders, and are always seeking volunteers to become involved in Temple activities. Please consider getting involved, call me if I can help you to do this.

Under your new Temple leadership, President Lee Livingston will continue with the proud traditions of our religious institution, now celebrating its 135th Anniversary. I know Lee will go on to become a great Temple President.

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to serve as your President!

The Rabbi Nathaniel M. Keller Memorial Lecture

Rabbi Nathaniel M. Keller served as the spiritual leader of our congregation for 33 years. He was active in community affairs as well as being dedicated to Anshe Emeth. He was the president of the local Zionist chapter and worked with Jewish students at Rutgers University, before the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation was organized on the campus. Rabbi Keller dedicated his entire life to bringing the message of Judaism to all through his teaching, preaching, and counsel.

Concert

The West Point Jewish Chapel Choir

Saturday evening April 1 at 8 p.m.

The West Point Jewish Chapel Choir was established fifty years ago when the number of Jewish cadets increased. The choir sang primarily at prayer services and began to give concerts in the New York metropolitan area in the 1950's. Today, the 30 Jewish cadets in the Choir make up more than half the Academy's Jewish enrollment. The Choir's repertoire includes West Point tunes, selections from Fiddler on the Roof, favorite Jewish standards, and contemporary tunes.

The Concert is free and is open to the public.

Dessert Reception to follow the concert.

For more information call the Temple office at 545-6484.

ANSHE EMETH ENDOWMENT FUND

for the future

Did you remember Anshe Emeth in your will?

Consider being a part of the Temple and its future by establishing a bequest or other charitable gift to our Endowment Fund for the future.

This fund was created to enable members of the Temple to provide for our long-term future, to ensure our continuity as a dynamic synagogue in our community. Call Dr. Norman Reitman at 572-1414 or Rabbi Miller at 545-6484 if you would like more information.

Consultation on Conscience

April 30 - May 2

Washington, DC

On April 30th the largest national Jewish Conference on Social Justice convenes in Washington DC. The Conference, run by the Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism, will bring together key senators, representatives, and other national policy experts to brief you on current issues and critical legislation. This Conference is your opportunity to learn about the major issues that face today's Jewish communities.

For more information call Jane Cantor at 821-1499 or the Temple office at 545-6484.

What Are Some Of Your Neighbors Up To?

If you have been wondering why the sound of music and dancing have been coming from Reitman Hall nearly every Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons, it's because many of your friends and neighbors are busy rehearsing for the upcoming presentation of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat. Joseph, which is written by Andrew Lloyd Weber and Tim Rice (the folks that gave us Sunset Boulevard), is the first musical production to feature members of Anshe Emeth to be presented in several years. It is being presented in commemoration of Anshe Emeth's 135th Anniversary.

Joseph is being produced by Jerry Wichinsky, directed by David Goldstein and choreographed by Karen Goldstein. Cantor Roskin-Coleman is serving as Musical Director. Sets are being designed by Barbara Sigman, Sandy Deckman, Aron Zalkin and Ellen Merer will handle stage manager responsibilities.

Appearing in the production are: Paul Smilow, Mark Fuerstein, Laurel Dickinson, Jay Rollins, Regis Bulman, Jane Bulman, Erica Bruskin, Sara Bruskin, David Bulman, Molly Bulman, Merv Dickinson, Sue Dickinson, Linda Edelstein, Stephanie Friedman, Rachel Goldstein, Jennifer Goran, Barbara Klausner, Susan Kushner, Michael Kushner, Lori Levine, Ronnie Merer, Keith Pasichow, Danny Payne, Rachel Scales, Lewis Scheller, Caren Schonthal, Rick Snepar, Rachel Warzala, Nicole Wichinsky, Jerry Wichinsky, and Lee Zektzer.

The show dates are Saturday evening April 8th at 8:00 PM (desert reception will follow), and Sunday afternoon April 9th at 2:00 PM. Tickets may be purchased at the Temple office.

The Anshe Emeth production of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat: promises to be an entertaining evening (or matinee.)

We hope to see you there!

Call the Temple office at 545-6484 to reserve your seat for this wonderful production.

News from the Gan

The children have had a wonderful time shaking their groggers, parading in their costumes and making and eating hamentaschen. The parsley we planted for Tu B' Shevat is ready to go home and be a part of our seder plates. We have a lot of work to do to prepare ourselves for the holiday of Passover.

The children will learn about the historical reasons surrounding the celebration of Passover. Through songs, stories, and arts and crafts they will learn about Moses, Pharaoh, and the plagues. We will clean our room very carefully in order to be sure that there is no chametz. We will discuss which foods we are allowed to eat, and why we cannot eat foods containing leavening agents. This will give us the opportunity to cook some of our favorite Passover specialties including matzah brei and apple fritters.

We will be having a very special Passover seder. The children will sample a variety of foods from the seder plate including matzah, eggs, maror, charoset, parsley, and salt water. Our toddlers and preschoolers will be learning the Four Questions.

There are still some openings available at the Gan for our summer camp and fall programs. Please call Helene Chelton at 545-6555 if you need an application.

AETY

IS THE PLACE TO BE

Anshe Emeth Temple Youth
Anshe Emeth Memorial Temple
222 Livingston Avenue
New Brunswick, New Jersey 08901

March 10, 1995

Dear Congregant,

Shalom. It is my pleasure to inform you that our Temple has been chosen to host the North American Federation of Temple Youth's New Jersey region's Spring Conclave, from Friday, April 28 through Sunday, April 30. It is the last conclave of the year, and AETY wants to make it the best one yet.

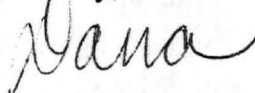

In the coming weeks the Spring Conclave Committee and I will be busy writing programs, preparing services and social activities, and organizing the entire Conclave. This is a great time for you and your family to get involved with the Temple, because we need your help. For this Conclave we are expecting over 150 teenagers, and we will need some place to put them all! We are asking for you to contribute your home and hospitality for this weekend. Hosts are asking to house anywhere from two to as many participants as your house can hold.

Housing for this event requires the following:

- * Providing a place for the participants to sleep (not necessary to have beds or bedrooms.)
- * Transportation to and from the Temple throughout the weekend.
- * To provide tow meals at your home, Friday night dinner and Saturday morning breakfast.
- * To provide a safe, warm, and friendly home for the participants. This means following the Code of Conduct (on the back), and not allowing such things as house parties.

I hope that you and your family will be able to join AETY this spring during the Conclave. I have a questionnaire on the back of this letter to see what you can provide and to ensure that you will be as comfortable as possible with your decision. Please complete and return it as soon as possible. If you have any questions regarding the Conclave, please call me (Dana) at 572-1350 or AETY's advisor Marcus Burstein at 545-6484. Thank you and I hope you are looking forward to becoming a host family!

Sincerely,

Dana Vetrecin
Spring Conclave Chairperson

NFTY CODE OF CONDUCT

1. The drinking and/or possession of alcoholic beverages, other than the ceremonial use of sacramental wine, even if the participant is of legal drinking age, is strictly forbidden.
2. The possession and/or use of any illegal drug, including marijuana, and/or the supplying of drugs to any person at the event is strictly prohibited.
3. No gambling is allowed, except for fundraisers approved by the supervising faculty.
4. Vandalism, disturbing the peace, or other inappropriate behavior, as determined by the supervising faculty, will not be tolerated, and damage must be paid for by the person(s) who caused it.
5. No participant may fail to attend part of the event or leave the location of the event without the consent of the supervising faculty.
6. Curfew announced by the supervising faculty is to be observed. Curfew is defined as being in one's own room with the lights out. For home hospitality, this means going directly back to your host's home and arriving by the time of curfew.
7. Any act by a participant that is violation of Federal, Provincial, State, or Local law will be in violation of this code.
8. Late arrivals and early departures must be approved by the supervising faculty of the event in advance.
9. There are no guests allowed at the meeting unless the supervising faculty has given permission in advance. Unauthorized guests will be asked to leave.
10. Each participant must have signed this Code of Conduct and completed the medical information and release form prior to attending the event.
11. Any additional rules pertinent to the specific event shall be announced and shall be considered as written rules.

PASSOVER SUPPLEMENT - 5755

What is Passover?

Passover is a major Jewish Spring festival which commemorates the Exodus from Egypt over 3,000 years ago. During this period Jews all over the world abstain from eating foods that contain leavening; instead we eat matzah and other non-leavened foods. Passover actually has five names, each one explaining another significance of the holiday.

Chag Ha-Aviv

The Spring Festival

In the book of Deuteronomy we are commanded to offer a Passover sacrifice and to abstain from eating anything with leavening in it. This is to remember our departure out of Egypt. The name Aviv is the old name for the spring month and which later became known as Nisan.

Chag Ha-Matzot

The Festival of Unleavened Bread

In the book of Exodus, we hear that the Jews did not wait for their bread to rise because they had to leave in haste; therefore, we are commanded to eat matzah to commemorate this event. However, before the events tied to the Exodus from Egypt, Jews and other people of the region made and ate matzah to thank God for the spring crops. Therefore, eating matzah is also part of a spring thanksgiving tradition.

Chag Ha-Pesach

The Festival of the Paschal Offering

Before the tenth plague, the Jews took the blood of a sacrificed lamb and smeared it upon their doorposts to safeguard their homes from the angel of death. The sacrifice of one lamb from a flock was a spring time tradition in agricultural societies. Thus another agricultural tradition is associated with this festival.

Zeman Cherutenu

The Season of Our Liberation

During the Seder we are reminded that we were once slaves in Egypt. We eat reclining to emphasize the fact that we are now free. Modern seders refer to those who were victims of the Holocaust, and more recently, to Soviet Jews who want to emigrate to Israel. This year the Soviet threat is gone; however, we all realize and pray for those Jews around the world who are subjected to anti-Semitism and persecution.

Pesach

Passover

Pesach, the common name for this festival, is derived from Moses' promise to the Israelites that God would "pass over" their homes during the night of the killing of the first born. This name also unifies the concepts symbolized in the other four names.

In Israel, Passover is celebrated for seven days, as commanded by the Torah. Reform Jews all over the world also celebrate Passover for seven days. Outside of Israel, Orthodox and Conservative Jews celebrate Passover for eight days. This tradition originated in 700-600 B.C.E., when people were notified of the holiday's beginning by means of a network of bonfires. To ensure that the holiday was observed on the correct days, an extra day was added. By the time a reliable standard calendar was adopted in the fourth century C.E., the added day was so ingrained in tradition that it became law.

A FEW SEDER SUGGESTIONS

prepared by Rabbi Bennett Miller

° As you prepare your home for Passover, involve the children in the pre-festival house cleaning and general preparations. The memory of the sights, sounds and smells of the food and home around holiday time remains with us as Jews throughout our adult lives. Children should have the opportunity to share in the anticipation.

° Make your Seder table as elegant as possible. Spare nothing in order to make the service superb, the setting breathtaking and the floral arrangements thrilling.

° Be sure to have an adequate number of Haggadot. Each person capable of reading should have a Haggadah.

Be sure that they are all the same.

° Whoever is to lead the service should prepare in advance to be familiar with the order and the material. The tone that the leader sets will establish the tone of the service. The leader should assign portions of the service in advance. Enable the participants to become proficient in what they will read. The leader should personally study "The Four Questions" with the youngest child who will recite them at the Seder.

° Hiding the Afikomen can be a delightful game and activity. In some families, the children "steal" the Afikomen and hold it for ransom. However, in most families today, the leader hides the Afikomen, and the children must find it. To enhance the fun, prepare symbolic warning signs using Jewish content. Instead of using the words "hot" and "cold," use names from the Haggadah. Although many families reward the finders with gelt (money), Jewish books or ceremonial objects (a Mezzuzah) are even more appropriate.

° "Who Knows One" and "Chad Gad Yah" are two songs that easily can be turned in to skits. These would be fun to prepare for the younger children who do not read so that they can feel that they are contributing to the Seder.

° Do not end the evening with the meal. Be sure to complete the Haggadah after the meal. The most entertaining and joyous part of the Seder is near the conclusion.

° Singing is a great activity for the Seder. Especially appropriate are songs about freedom and about Israel.

REMEMBER: The Seder table is a stage on which is re-enacted, in symbolic fashion, many of the events that we associate with the deliverance from Egyptian slavery. Understanding the symbolism is important if we are to celebrate Passover properly, namely, by reliving the experience of the Exodus.

MAZON

Our congregation is a partner with Mazon, a Jewish organization that helps to feed the hungry. The Haggadah says: "Let all who are hungry come and eat." Unfortunately, in this day and age, few of us are prepared to open our door for anyone to walk in. Instead, Mazon suggests that we donate to them the cost of feeding an additional person at your seder. Donations can be sent to the Temple office with checks made out to Mazon.

ORDER OF THE SEDER

In Jewish homes all over the world, the Passover Seder is conducted in the same order; in fact, the word "seder" means "order". The following are the sections of the Seder in the order in which they occur:

Kadesh - Sanctifying the holiday with the prayer over the wine.

Urchatz - Washing the hands with no prayer. This section is optional.

Karpas - Dipping the green vegetable in the salt water.

Yahatz - Breaking the middle matzah.

Maggid - This section contains the Four Questions and four renditions of the story.

Rohtzah - Washing the hands with a blessing.

Motzi Matzah - Blessing the matzah and eating it.

Maror - Blessing and eating the bitter herbs.

Korekh - Making the Hillel Sandwich, which is bitter herb and charoset placed between two small pieces of matzah.

Shulhan Orekh - Eating the Passover feast.

Tzafun - Finding the Afikomen

Barekh - Saying the blessing after the meal.

Hallel - Singing songs of praise and opening the door for Elijah.

Nirtzah - Concluding the Seder.

PREPARING FOR PASSOVER

All foods that are not permitted for Passover must be removed from the home.

These foods include: leavened bread, cakes, biscuits, crackers, cereals, coffee substances derived from cereal, wheat, barley, oats, rice, dry peas, dry beans and all liquids which contain ingredients or flavors made from grain alcohol. (There are some variations on these prohibitions among Sephardic Jews). Not only must they be removed from the home, but, traditionally, a Jew may not own these food products during Passover. Thus, some people "sell" the food to a Gentile friend only to "buy" it back after the holiday; others give the food away.

After the house is scoured, the search begins for hidden chametz. This occurs the night before the first Seder. One parent should place at least one piece of chametz in each room on a window sill or in a corner, make sure you keep count of the number of pieces you have hidden. Then the children, led by an adult, go from room to room by candlelight to find the chametz. When a piece of chametz is found, it is placed in a wooden spoon and dropped into a cloth; then a feather is used to brush up all the crumbs. After all the chametz is found, the feather and wooden spoon are wrapped in the cloth with the chametz, and the whole bundle is burned. The blessings that are said at the beginning of the search and before the bundle is burned are found in the Haggadah. All chametz must be out of the house by 10 a.m. of the day of the first Seder.

THE SEDER TABLE

The Seder Plate is a beautiful symbol of Passover. The items that are placed on the Seder Plate are listed below:

Z'roah (Roasted Lamb Bone) - This symbolizes the animal sacrifice that the Israelites made to God on the night they left Egypt.

Betzah (Roasted Egg) - The egg symbolizes the sacrifices made in the Temple; it is also a symbol of life, the coming of spring, and also the loss we feel at the destruction of the Temple.

Maror (Bitter Herbs) - This is usually horseradish. It reminds us of the bitterness of slavery.

Charoset - This is a mixture of apples, nuts, wine, and cinnamon. It symbolizes the mortar that the Israelites used when slaves in Egypt.

Karpas (Green Vegetables) - Usually we use celery or parsley to symbolize spring. We dip the vegetable in salt water to remind us of the tears shed by the Israelites.

Hazeret (Bitter Vegetable) - This vegetable, usually romaine lettuce or another bitter green, is used for the same symbolic purpose as the Maror. Some Seder Plates do not include Hazeret.

Elijah's Cup - Elijah the Prophet is symbolically welcomed at every Seder as a sign of hope for the coming of our ultimate redemption in the Messianic Era.

3 Matzot - The symbolism of Matzot has already been mentioned. Aside from what may be eaten by individuals at the Seder, 3 are used symbolically, and will often be placed in an ornate Matzah cover.

HAGGADOT

There are many beautiful Haggadot that are available. Look through a Haggadah to make sure that the language is appropriate for the age groups that will be assembled at your Seder. Also, make sure you have copies for each person at the Seder; make sure that you have one edition of the Haggadah so that the page numbers will be consistent for each copy. Our Judaica shop has several Haggadot from which to choose; you may also obtain them at Jewish book stores or through Jewish catalogues. Here is a list of some of the Haggadot that are currently in print:

A Family Haggadah by Shoshana Silberman. This volume has activities and questions for children. A cassette that is cued to the Haggadah is also available.

The New Union Haggadah prepared by the Central Conference of American Rabbis. This contemporary Haggadah based on tradition has easy-to-follow large print. A leader's copy is available. It contains beautiful drawings by Leonard Baskin. It also contains a full section of Passover songs, words and music.

A Family Seder in 20 Easy Steps by Maida Hoffman. This contemporary Haggadah based on tradition has easy-to-follow large print. A leader's copy is available.

On Wings of Freedom by Rabbi Richard N. Levy. This Haggadah, distributed by the B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation, includes many readings that help make the experience of the Exodus more current.

We Tell It To Our Children by Mary Ann Barrows Wark. This Haggadah is set up as a play that children can participate in. It includes outlines for puppets that can be made in advance to help provide greater meaning for children.

GAMES FOR PASSOVER

The custom of distributing nuts to children on the eve of Passover to arouse their curiosity may well account for the origin of playing games with nuts during the festival. Another reason for this traditional and favorite pastime is that the numerical value of the Hebrew for nut is the same as that of the word for good. Some of the games given below have been played by Jewish children for many generations while others are modern adaptations of popular pastimes.

LEFT OR RIGHT?

One player puts both hands behind his back and places a nut in one hand. He then brings forth both hands and the other player must guess if the nut is in his left or right hand. If he guesses correctly, he takes the nut.

ODDS OR EVEN?

One player holds a number of small nuts in a closed fist. He asks the second player to guess if the nuts in his hand are an even or odd number. If the second player guesses correctly, he takes all the nuts in the hand of the first player. Failing to guess, he forfeits the corresponding number of nuts that the first player held.

NUT-PITCHING

An open box or other receptacle is placed on the floor. Each player is given five nuts and, standing at a fixed line, tries to pitch the nuts into the box. He collects those that did not fall into the box and awaits his next turn. The first player to pitch all his nuts into the box is the winner and he receives all the nuts in the box.

NUT-BOWLING

Place a two-foot board with one end on the floor and the other end leaning on one or more objects so as to form a triangle. Set ten nuts about two feet from the bottom of the board. Each player is given three walnuts which he rolls, one at a time, down the board, aiming to "bowl over" the ten nuts on the floor. He wins all the nuts that his nut hits directly or indirectly. If he fails to hit any nuts, his nut remains on the floor.

MUSICAL QUIZ

A few bars of a Passover song are played on the piano. The first player who calls out the name of the tune is given a point. The player who has the most points is the winner.

RECIPES

KNEIDLACH (MATZAH-BALLS)

4 eggs	6 tbsp chicken fat
1 tsp salt	1/2 tsp cinnamon
1/2 tsp white pepper	(optional)
1/2 cup soup stock or water	1 cup matzah meal

Beat the eggs with the salt, cinnamon, pepper and chicken fat. Add the matzah meal and the soup or water. Mix thoroughly. Cover and allow the mixture to stand in the refrigerator for one hour or more. Bring four quarts of water to a boil. Shape the mixture into matzah-balls and drop in boiling water. Cook covered for half an hour. Balls are then ready to be added to soup. Twelve large matzah-balls can be made with these ingredients.

CHAROSET

2 apples	1/4 cup shelled almonds
1/4 cup shelled walnuts	1/2 cup raisins
1 teaspoon ginger	1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup sweet wine

Quarter and core the apples. Grind the apples, raisins and nuts, and then add the ginger and cinnamon. Blend in the wine. The above quantities allow enough for twelve portions. The finished haroset will keep in the refrigerator for a couple of weeks.

MATZAH BREI

4 matzot	1 1/2 tsp. salt
4 eggs	butter or shortening

Soak the matzot just enough to soften them. Break the eggs in a bowl and beat with the salt. Add the soaked matzot. Heat the butter or shortening in a frying pan over a moderate flame. Pour the mixture and fry until golden on underside, turn over with spatula and fry on the other side. Serve with sugar and cinnamon. Four servings.

ALMOND MACAROONS

4 egg yolks	2 cups ground almonds
1 cup sugar

Beat the egg yolks well; add the sugar and beat until lemon-colored. Add the ground almonds and mix thoroughly. Chill for easy handling. Take small pieces of the mixture and shape into small balls. Place the macaroons on a greased baking sheet. Top with half an almond, if desired. Bake 350 oven for ten minutes. 50 macarons.
