Between Us . . .

Soon we will observe two sweet moments in our congregation. As you probably have already heard, our Religious School Director, Susan Kushner will be leaving us at the end of June. While we are certainly disappointed in Susan's departure, we are also excited for her as she will be entering into marriage with our former Cantor, Gershon Silins. Susan will be joining Gershon in Washington D.C., and we will miss her creative and special spirit. These have been ten precious years since Susan first joined us and all of us have been enriched by her creativity, commitment, and devotion. She has touched the lives of so many young people, and we are extremely grateful.

So join with us at Education Shabbat on Friday, May 5 when we will honor Susan and thank her for her years of service. We wish Susan and Gershon Mazel Tov and many wonderful years ahead as they unite their lives in Kiddushin.

This is also a time of honor for us as a temple. This year the Temple has initiated a Crown of Torah Award, to be given to members of our congregation who exemplify the best and finest in Jewish tradition through service to congregation, community, and humanity. Turbi and Paul Smilow have been selected as the first recipients of the Crown of Torah Award because they exemplify the very best of our tradition in so many ways.

Turbi and Paul, together and each in their own way, have touched the lives of so many through their commitment and devotion to the Temple and community, to learning and the arts, to Israel and all humankind. They have been associated with so many worthy causes and have taken leadership roles in many. They came to our community over twenty-five years ago and made this their home. They have certainly enriched it and given to it much more than they have received. That is why we have selected them to receive the Crown of Torah Award. Join with us on Thursday, June 8 for a night of tribute and honor. It will be a very special evening for all of us.

Bennett F. Miller

WORSHIP SERVICES

Friday, May 5 - Education Shabbat

Join us in honoring our teachers and students who have excelled in the past year. We will be honoring Susan Kushner, our Religious School Director for her ten years of service.

Friday, May 12 - Installation of Officers and Trustees

We will install our new officers and trustees who lead and guide us during the years ahead. Our new president, Lee Livingston, will share with us his vision of the Temple as he looks to our future.

Friday, May 19 - Our Role in the Middle East Peace Process

We welcome Dr. Nurnberger who speaks extensively on American policies in the Middle East and Jewish roles in the American political process. He will discuss the role of American Jews and the Peace Process. This speaker was arranged by the State of Israel Bonds.

Friday, May 26 - Graduation Shabbat

We celebrate and rejoice with the families of each of our graduates who will complete our religious school program. This is an occasion, not only for the families of the graduates, but for the entire congregation as we watch our young people conclude this time in their lives and emerge into the future.

BABYSITTING AVAILABLE!

During May, babysitting will be provided during Shabbat Services on May 12 and May 26. Please call either Ann Thayer-Cohen at 819-0580 or Sara Levine at 297-3864 to let them know you will be bringing your children so that we can be sure to have enough sitters.

ANSHE EMETH ENDOWMENT FUND

for the future

All too often a will of our member fails to contain a bequest to the Temple. Generous gifts are left to hospitals, universities, and charitable organizations, each of which performs work of significance; and these institutions do deserve recognition and support.

The Temple's role begins at the time of our birth and continues without interruption throughout the entire course of our lives. By remembering Anshe Emeth in our will, we can do our part to assure future generations that their religious home will be there to serve them.

Dues and fund raising events sustain the various programs of our congregation for the present. If we are concerned about the future of Judaism, we must project its influence - and our influence - beyond the grave. Few memorials are more worthy than that provided by an endowment to Anshe Emeth through a gift or bequest.

The Endowment Fund was created to enable members of the Temple to provide for our long-term future, to ensure our continuity as a dynamic synagogue in our community. Call Dr. Norman Reitman at 572-1414 or Rabbi Miller at 545-6484 if you would like more information.

Officers' Column

A difficulty of dealing with deadlines is that sometimes one has to write or produce something well before the actual event. That is a problem I face as I write this column. I am writing a president's column while I am still the first vice-president, and am writing it for a Bulletin that you will receive around the day of my official election ... and I still have an installation address to write.

Thanks to our immediate past president, Ken Gordon, I have had the opportunity to be intimately involved in almost every aspect of the Temple. Ken has been most gracious in allowing me to do what I enjoy and to work closely with him on many major issues facing Anshe Emeth.

As first vice-president I was chairman of the religious school committee. Frankly, I did not look forward to this committee assignment. However, it is one that the first vice president has historically held. I didn't feel that I had the background nor expertise that I felt the post required. Additionally, my two sons have long been out of religious school. I am glad that my misgivings were put aside; it has been a rewarding experience. The religious school committee afforded me the opportunity to work closely with Susan Kushner. Before my involvement with the committee, I knew Susan the way most of us do - as an energetic, terrific religious school director and a wonderful teacher who our kids love. Working with Susan gave me the privilege of seeing her deep love of Judaism and her true love of children. Susan has impressed me with her willingness to examine the curriculum and ability to embrace change. Her work with the committee to revamp the curriculum in the high school quickly earned my respect. Where some would have been protective of a program that had been in existence for years, Susan was a vocal advocate for change. The continued improvement of our religious high school program and the retention of students after Bar or Bat Mitzvah remains one of my top priorities. I join the rest of the congregation in wishing Susan all the best.

I would like to thank all those who serve on the religious school committee. They are people who are committed to the most important asset we have - our children. I owe a special debt to Cary Cherniss who often helped guide me with his expertise and knowledge as an educator.

As president I am challenging the religious school committee and the adult continuing education committee to begin multi generational educational programs. I would like to see our classrooms filled with children, parents, and grandparents, all interacting and learning together.

I am proud to call Rabbi Miller my friend. He has taught me to challenge myself and to reach for something larger than daily comforts of life. Much of the anticipation of the next two years is working with the officers and the trustees of our congregation who share that same feeling of challenge and commitment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ITEMS

Marion Bruskin and Ann Zar, members of the Confirmation Class of 1944, have undertaken to train a children's choir. The rehearsals take place every Wednesday at 3:45 and all interested children are urged to come out and sing. Marion and Ann also lead the Sunday School in song during the assembly period.

The children of the Hebrew School held a Chamisho oser B'Shevat party. Martin Edenbaum and Eliot Rubenstein made up the committee.

Report cards have been issued. Interested parents will discuss the grades with their children and sign the cards and make sure that they are returned promptly to the school.

LEADERSHIP SHOULD BE JEWISH IN MORE WAYS THAN NAME

"What American Jewry needs more than anything else today, more than its defense activities, more than its large organization, in addition to its celebrated philanthropic endeavors, is a rebirth and rededication to its Jewishness," said Dr. James G. McDonald, newly appointed member of the Anglo-American Committee on Palestine, at a Conference-Luncheon sponsored by the National Women's League of the United Synagogue.

Dr. McDonald pleaded for Jewish leadership which would be Jewish in more than name—leadership with a real conception of the breadth, depth and meaning of Judaism. He also suggested the study of Jewish classical literature in the home and in the school.

News from the Gan

We had a wonderful time learning about Passover. The children enjoyed hard boiled eggs, charoset, and gelfelte fish at their seder. They did a great job asking the Four Questions as well as singing songs which helped us learn about Passover.

In May we will celebrate Israel Independence Day, Yom Ha'Atzmaut. We will be making Israeli flags, and learning songs and games about this holiday. We will learn about the sun, the moon and the constellations in preparation for our trip to the Raritan Valley Community College Planetarium. And, of course, a special project is in the works for Mother's Day.

We still have openings available for our summer camp and fall session. Please stop by for a brochure and a registration form. For more information call Helene Chelton at 545-6555.
