

LEFT: Menzi Ngubane and his wife Siki were happy to pose for us.

LEFT: TV sexpot Noluthando Meje showed off her figure. ABOVE: Actress Katlego Danke dazzled in a satiny blue number.

BELOW: Motlatse Mafatse is heavily involved in SAVuka. He attended with gorgeous wife Mimi.

STARS SUPPORT SAVUKA TV LAUNCH

IT WAS CERTAINLY a day to remember for the South African entertainment landscape: SAVuka TV, SA's new video-on-demand (VOD) app, was launched with great fanfare by its creators Pecil Productions, a local film production house founded in 2010 by Percy Mithethwa and Siphamandla Kunene.

"The app allows content providers ownership of the content they produce, while consumers get the very best of local entertainment on the go," said Pecil Productions in a statement.

"The videos – dramas, reality shows, documentaries and other lifestyle programmes – are typically eight minutes in length and the content partners benefit from a profit share model."

Held at Pecil Productions studios in Northcliff, north of Johannesburg, the launch was chockfull of Jozi's leading actors, including KATLEGO DANKE, SONIA SEDIBE, MENZI NGUBANE, and many more.

"I'm here to support my friends who are involved in the project. SAVuka will be a game changer," Menzi commented.

Also spotted at the launch was former Generations actor ATANDWA KANI. "I'm here to support my friends, Thato Molamu and MOTLATSI MAFATSHE, who are heavily involved in the project," he told us.

Atandwa is engaged to actress Fikile Mthwalo, but will the wedding bells be ringing anytime soon? "I could marry her like yesterday," he announces when we ask about his love life. "I'm ready to get married."

But he's not about to spill the beans without Fikile's blessing. "I can't give you the date yet because it's something I have to chat to her about first. She can't find out about it in the press."

– MPH0 TSHIKHUDO

LEFT: Former actress Miranda Ntshangase looked great in a party frock. RIGHT: From left, former Generations stars Mandla Gaduka, Thato Molamu and Atandwa Kani.

RIGHT: Sonia Sedibe, formerly of SABC1's popular Generations, was in great spirits and figure-hugging black pants.