1321: The first person to appear before magistrates this morning, Alexis Bailey, 31, of Wye Street, Battersea, south London, was committed to Wood Green Crown Court, along with the majority of others. He pleaded guilty to burglary with intent to steal at Richer Sounds in Southend Road, Croydon on Monday. The BBC's Clive Coleman at Highbury Corner magistrates' court says his case is typical in that the magistrate committed him for sentence at the crown court. The reason for this is the magistrates' bench felt the riot was such an aggravating feature to the burglary that the crown court ought to sentence because they have additional powers. The ## Beginning of the end for skyscrapers in Japan?

20 September 2011 Last updated at 04:11

One of Japan's richest men, the billionaire property developer Akira Mori, has called for a halt to the building of skyscrapers.

Since the devastating earthquake and tsunami in March, sales of high-rise apartments have plummeted. Some renters have even moved to lower apartments.

From Tokyo, Roland Buerk reports.
