ANNUAL REPORT 2022

For Optometry Giving Sight, 2022 was a year of discovery.

We started the year with a search for a new executive director, and we found that in Lois Schoenbrun, a 25-plus-year veteran of optometry. Although she agreed in April to fill in temporarily as interim executive director, Lois quickly developed a passion for the cause and we soon dropped “interim” from her title.

While Lois has been in this role for a relatively short time, we are confident the organization will make great strides under her leadership. Her experience and knowledge of the profession, as well as her years of proven organizational, leadership, and interpersonal skills make her well suited to represent OGS with our global partners.

Our leadership transition offered an opportunity to examine operations and processes, which led to several improvements. For one, the team worked to develop an enhanced grant-making process. This new process is being implemented for our 2023 grant cycle.

In addition, our review identified the need for advanced international project management and program assessment. The OGS team is currently working to develop relationships with individuals and organizations with this expertise as we look to make progress in this area in 2023.

We also re-discovered—and shined the light on—the generosity and loyalty of some of our most long-standing donors. In September, at Vision Expo West in Las Vegas, we hosted our first-ever Beacon of Light dinner to honor individual and corporate donors who have gifted more than $100,000 to Optometry Giving Sight over the lifetime of the organization. More information about these honorees and event can be found on pages 6 and 7 of this report.

As always, our donors made it possible for Optometry Giving Sight to do some incredible work in 2022. This year, we awarded $860,000 to 20 projects with 16 partner organizations to help give the gift of sight to people in 38 countries. It is your support that allows us to make such a significant impact! As there is still unimaginable need around the world, we hope to continue to support even more projects in the coming year.

If you feel called to be even more involved, we are actively seeking to engage and add new board members. We would love to speak with you about the opportunities to join us in driving the growth of Optometry Giving Sight in every way—especially in the impact we are able to make.

We offer sincere thanks to all of our donors and partners who contributed to making 2022 another successful year and encourage you to continue supporting Optometry Giving Sight in our mission to eradicate uncorrected refractive error through the growth and expansion of optometry around the world.

All around the world.

Thank you to all our donors for helping us make an impact.

FIVE THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT

1

OGS IS OPTOMETRY'S CHARITY. We are the only organization dedicated to eradicating uncorrected refractive error through the growth and expansion of optometry around the world—and that's made possible by all of you. The projects we support are almost entirely funded by eye care professionals, optometry practices, and companies working within this industry.

2

OUR GOAL IS TO ERADICATE BLINDNESS AND VISION IMPAIRMENT. OGS has a mission to raise funds to support ending preventable blindness and vision impairment due to uncorrected refractive error.

3

OGS FOCUSES ON LONG-TERM SOLUTIONS. Rather than grant funding to short-term mission projects, OGS funds the establishment of optometry schools, vision centers, and optical labs. Individuals receive education and training to become optometrists who then stay in their communities to provide ongoing eye care for years to come.

4

OUR IMPACT IS LONG-STANDING AND SIGNIFICANT. For 20 years, OGS funding has provided basic eye care services to more than 8 million people, assisted with training more than 14,000 eye care professionals, established more than 130 vision centers, and served people in more than 40 countries.

OGS CREATES OPPORTUNITY THROUGH OPTOMETRY. In addition to the thousands who become optometrists, OGS funding contributes to creating opportunities for the millions of people who receive vision care. The gift of vision enables children to learn, parents to support their families, and elders to maintain their independence.

OUR HISTORY OF GIVING SIGHT

Optometry Giving Sight was established in 2003 as a joint initiative of the World Council of Optometry, the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness and the Brien Holden Vision Institute to address the debilitating problem of vision impairment worldwide.

With the support of the optometry industry, optometry professionals, patients and donors, Optometry Giving Sight funds programs to deliver desperately needed vision care, train local eye care professionals, and develop sustainable infrastructure in developing countries.

Optometry Giving Sight established offices in the United States and Canada in 2007, and continues to operate with the vision of its three founders.

BEACON OF LIGHT

At Vision Expo West in September, we hosted our inaugural Beacon of Light dinner, honoring more than 40 individuals and corporations who have each gifted more than $100,000 to Optometry Giving Sight over the lifetime of the organization.

“At Optometry Giving Sight, our generous donors allow us to continue the necessary work of providing sight—and hope—to thousands of people around the world. Some, including those honored, have stood with us from the beginning, consistently and loyally giving to OGS so that we can continue our mission to end preventable blindness,” said Lois Schoenbrun, CAE (Ret.), FAAO, OGS Executive Director, North America.

The evening’s highest honor was bestowed on CooperVision—the largest donor in OGS history—for its total contribution of $3.8 million. The company is an annual sponsor of OGS and provides additional support through employee fundraising activities and a consumer rebate donation program. CooperVision will continue its partnership with OGS as a global platinum sponsor, having committed to donating an additional $300,000 per year through 2025.

DEVELOPING LONG-TERM EYE CARE WHERE IT'S NEEDED MOST

As eye care professionals, we know the power of optometry. Every day, we see the effect vision correction has on the lives of our patients. Beyond our exam rooms—in some of the most underserved areas of the world—the most basic eye care keeps kids in school, people at work, and can even bring communities out of poverty.

This requires more than mission trips to provide eye exams and glasses. While these efforts are absolutely a piece of the puzzle, the greatest and most long-term impact is made through the establishment of optometry schools and clinics in places where they have never existed before. I have seen this firsthand.

For years, I have been involved with VOSH/International, participating in more than 50 projects outside of the U.S., and there is incredible demand for eye care. Take Nicaragua for example, where the incidence of blindness is seven times higher than the global average. In 2011, in partnership with Optometry Giving Sight, we played a leading role in developing an optometry school at the National Autonomous University in Managua, Nicaragua (UNAN). The five-year program graduated its first class in 2016 and produces approximately 30 new eye care professionals each year.

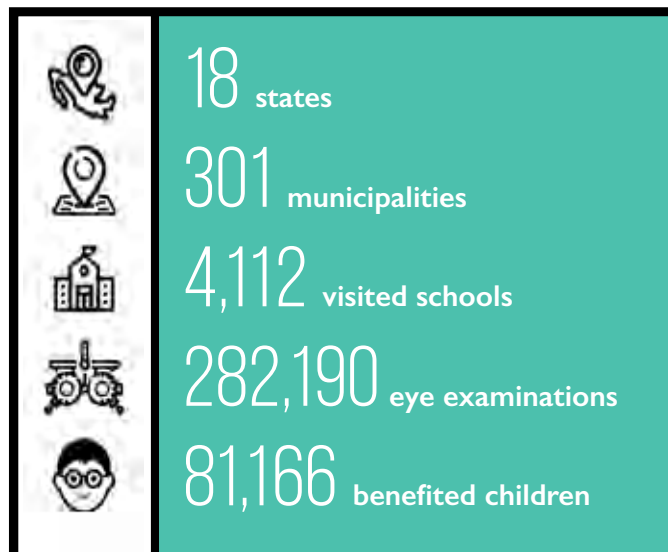

Let's put that into perspective: Nicaragua has a population of 6.8 million people. The average one-week mission trip provides 1,000 eye exams. After completing optometry school at UNAN, each of these graduates cares for approximately 4,000 people annually. Multiply that by 30 graduates and this school results in 120,000 more eye exams in Nicaragua each year. And that impact only compounds as more students progress through the program, which since its inception has already educated more than 220 eye care professionals dedicated to providing eye care in their communities. Now we're talking about nearly 900,000 more eye exams per year!

This cause belongs to us in optometry. We are the only ones who will address this, and it is easy for us to do so. Optometry is one of the most affordable health initiatives available in terms of impact per dollar. Many practitioners think the only way to get involved with this type of work is to take time from their practice and commit to a mission trip, which can be a big ask. But the truth is that the most effective and efficient way to provide these communities with long-term solutions is to donate to Optometry Giving Sight, which is dedicated to expanding optometry around the world. And we already know what kind of impact is possible with just one optometry school in Nicaragua.

Optometry, we can do this together. If every one of us donated even one day of eye exam fees each year, it would change everything. Learn more at givingsight.org.

Imagine a population of 11 million people and only two optometrists.

This is the reality in Haiti, a country that has faced significant continuous hardships including political instability, a poor economy, natural disasters, the COVID pandemic, and more. Access to eye care outside of the major cities depends almost entirely on services delivered during medical mission trips.

In 2017, Optometry Giving Sight (OGS) partnered with Université d'Etat d'Haiti, Université de Montréal, VOSH/International, Charity Vision, and the Brien Holden Foundation to establish the Haiti School of Optometry. The partners set out to establish an Academic Vision Centre to provide hands-on optometric training and increase the number of locally trained optometrists.

Today, about 60 students are enrolled in the five-year program, which will graduate its first class of optometrists despite very real roadblocks. Due to civil unrest in Haiti, in-person clinical training is difficult to obtain. COVID made it difficult for foreign optometric educators to travel to Haiti, and OGS' financial resources were needed to repair and upgrade internet service for online learning.

In addition, there is uncertainty around government recognition of optometry as a licensed profession. Yet the Haiti School of Optometry continues to operate, and its students remain committed to receiving their education and ultimately, providing eye care in their communities.

OGS, VOSH/International, VOSH-Pennsylvania and partners were able to secure additional in-person teaching clinics at the New Hope Hospital in Cap-Haïtien. Eleven fifth-year students from the Haiti School of Optometry spent a week there, where they were able to refresh their knowledge and skills. The students saw a total of 289 patients—an average of 26 patients per student—and completed patient records for each.

"I arrived at Cap-Haïtien stressed because it had been a long time since I had seen a patient. But by the time we left, I realized that although there are things to improve, I am ready," said one of the students in a post-clinic survey. "The stress I felt about obtaining my diploma has completely disappeared and I know now that I'm made to be an optometrist."

The students' time in the clinic also reinforced the impact optometrists can have on the lives of their patients and confirmed for the students the positive difference they can make with eye care.

"In the first clinic, I saw what the job of the optometrist is," remarked another student. "In the second clinic, I saw what I can do as an optometrist. Thank you to each of you who contributed to the efforts and time availability to make this clinic possible."

The Haiti School of Optometry is currently backed by an OGS-supported international consortium composed of Université de Montréal, Brien Holden Foundation and Université d'Etat d'Haiti.

Optometry Giving Sight will continue to provide financial assistance and other resources into the foreseeable future.

TRANSFORMING EYE CARE

for the homeless in Montreal

To provide quality eye care to people experiencing homelessness in Montreal, the Regard Collectif project reaches this population where they are—in shelters and day centers.

The School of Optometry of the University of Montreal first launched Regard Collectif, a mobile community eye care clinic, in 2017. It was the first mobile eye care unit in Canada.

Optometry Giving Sight provides funding for the project, which also includes training the next generation of optometrists about eye care for marginalized populations, and research to understand the eye care needs of the homeless in order to advocate for sustainable solutions.

Regard Collectif is managed by Dr. Benoit Tousignant, Associate Professor at the University of Montreal.

“For years, I’ve been wanting to help the homeless and others in need to be able to see. That dream is being realized with our mobile clinic, eliminating barriers by bringing eye exams right to the communities we serve,” said Dr. Tousignant. “The homeless can’t come to us, so we go to them. Our continued work reducing treatable or preventable vision impairment and blindness would not be possible without the support of Optometry Giving Sight.”

Visual impairment among the homeless in Montreal is four times that of the general Canadian population, according to a study published in the Canadian Journal of Public Health that was co-authored by Dr. Tousignant.

The Regard Collectif mobile clinic visits community organizations twice a week to set up a temporary full-scope optometric clinic. Fifth-year optometry students complete internships with the project under the supervision of academic optometrists, which gives them real-world experience providing high-quality, comprehensive eye exams to people experiencing homelessness in the Montreal area.

The supervising optometrist and students perform 500 to 600 eye exams per year. More than 95% of patients examined since the program’s inception needed refractive error correction. Roughly 45 students take part each year.

Funding from Optometry Giving Sight enabled the purchase of a newer vehicle for the mobile clinic to transport equipment, staff and students. Regard Collectif had been using a 2010 minivan which had been extensively driven, so a more reliable replacement was needed.

IN HER VISION

EXPANDING EYE CARE

for women, children, and the LGBTQ+ community

When people worry about necessities like food, shelter, and employment, their eye care often falls to the wayside. In North Carolina, 12% of the population lives in poverty and many are also uninsured. In HerVision is dedicated to empowering women, children, LGBTQ+ and gender non-binary individuals in underserved communities to live their lives with confidence by providing access to basic vision services.

With the help of grant funding from Optometry Giving Sight (OGS), In HerVision is working to expand its mobile eye care services.

The non-profit works with other community organizations to provide free eye examinations and eyeglasses. These organizations include homeless shelters, domestic abuse shelters, recovery homes for women, youth at-risk programs, and more.

In HerVision started its work on a small scale, reaching non-profit status in 2022. Currently, the organization runs one mobile clinic per month. Anywhere from 10 to 20 patients at each clinic receive comprehensive eye exams and are fitted with a free pair of glasses on site.

Thanks to the support of OGS, In HerVision is able to hire additional personnel, allowing them to expand to four clinics per month and serve up to 40 patients at each event. Through the funding, 3,200 people every year will benefit. The OGS funding also enabled the organization to hire a driver, expanding its reach beyond its current 20-mile radius to those living in surrounding counties.

Based in Durham, In HerVision was founded by Dr. Mojgan Besharat, a queer woman of color and first-generation immigrant. Dr. Besharat has been in clinical practice as an optometrist since 1997.

“We know there is inequity in treating certain groups of people such as women and children of color, queer and gender non-confirming individuals,” said Dr. Besharat. “Every bit of help will allow us to continue to expand our work for those who are underserved, and we are thankful for the support of Optometry Giving Sight.”
