TV Listening Systems

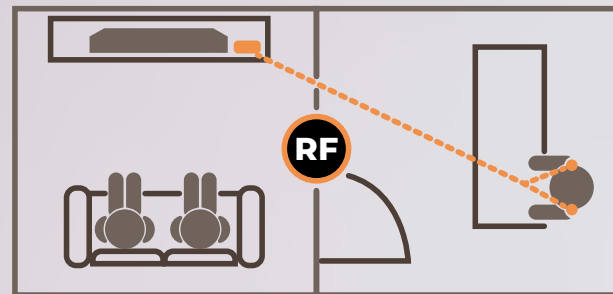

How they work: TV listening systems allow you to listen to the TV at a volume that's comfortable, without disturbing anyone else in the room. They consist of two main parts—a transmitter and a receiver. The transmitter connects to your TV and transmits wirelessly to the receiver worn by the listener.

Infrared (IR) systems transmit sound through infrared light. These systems tend to be less expensive than RF systems, but have a limited range since their signal cannot travel through walls.

Loop Systems (LP) allow those with telecoil equipped hearing aids to enjoy watching TV through the comfort of their own hearing aid(s), without needing to wear a separate receiver!

Radio Frequency (RF) systems transmit sound through radio waves and have a range of 100–300+ feet. The main benefit to these systems is that their signal can travel through walls and ceilings, so you can hear the TV no matter what room you're in!

Bluetooth® systems have a range of up to 30 feet, and can be used for cell phone calls as well as listening to the TV.

Choose from different styles: Television amplifiers come in a range of options and styles, to meet different needs. Whether you wear hearing aids or don't, watch TV alone or with other people, and prefer to amplify the sound just for you or for the entire room, there's a device that can help make television watching easier and more enjoyable—for everyone.

Headphone

The headphone-style receiver can be worn with or without hearing aids by simply wearing it like a traditional pair of headphones.

Stethoscope

The earpiece goes directly into the ear canal. Great if you do not have hearing aids or take them out while watching TV.

Neckloop

For those with t-coil equipped hearing aids. The receiver is worn around the neck, and sends sound directly to your telecoil-equipped hearing aid(s) through a magnetic signal.

TV Speakers

TV speakers are nice if you find other receivers uncomfortable or isolating. The speaker is placed near you and amplifies the sound from the TV.

Voice-Activated Phones let you make and answer calls without needing to walk to the phone. Perfect if you need mobility assistance.

Emergency Response Systems instantly connect you to loved ones or emergency assistance. Choose from wireless wrist or neck pendants for everyday peace of mind.

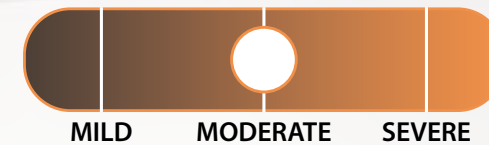

Landline Accessories alert you to incoming phone calls and help make your conversations clearer and easier.

Office Phone Solutions work with your existing office phone to amplify your conversations and help you hear better.

Picking an amplification level:

Choosing the right amplification will make a big difference in the quality of your results. Once you determine the level that's right for you, look for these icons to make sure you're picking the best product. And remember, your hearing loss may become more severe over time, so it might be good to get a phone with higher amplification and turn down the volume.

Mild: You're missing words or straining to hear conversations, but still manage to get through it.

Moderate: You find yourself constantly asking the speaker to repeat themselves.

Severe: You've decided to stop using the phone altogether because it's too difficult to hear.

Personal Amplification

Choose your style: There are many different types of personal amplifiers made to give you a little extra boost in difficult hearing situations—whether that's one-on-one conversations or large settings.

In-Ear Personal Amplifiers amplify sound 15dB – 30dB and filter out background noise, making them a discreet and affordable option for those who need a little extra boost.

Hand-Held/Body-Worn Personal Amplifiers are less discreet than in-ear models but provide more amplification (up to 60dB). Simply place between you and the person speaking, throw on a pair of headphones, and adjust the volume and tone to your desired setting.

FM/Digital Systems are ideal for hearing from a distance and generally work up to 75–100 feet. A transmitter with microphone is used by the speaker and wirelessly sends sound to your receiver.

Loop Systems let you hear directly through your telecoil-equipped hearing aid. Placed around the room and plugged into an amplifier, they transmit sound as soon as you switch to your t-coil setting. Permanent or portable systems are available.

Digital assistive listening devices

for home and leisure time

For many people with a hearing loss, there are situations where a hearing aid is not enough. It may be in the shop, in the car or when the family is gathered around the TV or dinner table.

With a wireless assistive listening device, disturbing background noise and hum are reduced thanks to a shorter listening distance, allowing what is said to be heard more clearly.

Comfort Contego

A transmitter and a receiver that can be used with hearing aids, head- or earphones.

A Sonova brand

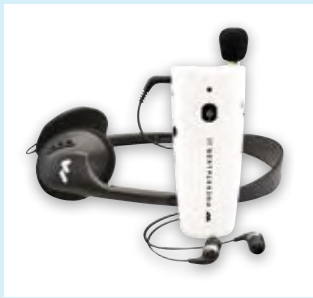

Comfort Duett

A simpler alternative for conversing. It consists of one unit with a microphone and is used with head- or earphones.

Alarm Clocks

Wake up how you want: Finding an alarm clock that fits your hearing needs—and actually wakes you up—can change the way you start your day, whether you're at home or on the road.

Home Alarm Clocks

are bigger and easier to read, and plug directly into an AC outlet, eliminating the need to replace batteries.

Travel Alarm Clocks

are smaller and easier to pack, but usually require batteries, which means you will need replacement batteries every so often.

Look for these special-feature icons:

Extra-Loud Audible Alarm with adjustable volume and tone control. Included with most of our alarm clocks.

Bed Shaker placed under your mattress or pillow. When the alarm activates, the bed shaker vibrates to wake you up. Included with most of our alarm clocks.

Lamp Flasher allows you to plug a lamp into your clock. When the alarm activates, the lamp flashes on and off.

Alerting Systems

What they do: Alerting systems (or signaling systems) use flashing lights, loud audible alarms, and/or vibration to let you know when certain events are happening around you, like the phone or doorbell ringing, a baby crying, weather alerts, or smoke/carbon monoxide alarms.

How to shop: To ensure your system works properly, it's important you follow this three-step process:

Choose a system. Unless otherwise noted, system parts are not compatible across brands. Select the brand and system you would like and then shop for components within that section.

Select your transmitter(s). Different transmitters alert you to different things, like the doorbell, telephone, alarm clock or fire alarm. Choose one for each type of event you need (e.g. one phone transmitter and one baby cry transmitter).

Get one receiver per room. You must purchase a separate receiver for each room you want to be notified in. Pick one that best meets your needs (flashing lights, vibrating, etc.). Each receiver will work with all of your transmitters, as long as they are the same brand and frequency.

Medallion™ Series Smoke Detector with Transmitter (SD4-MC) [US]

Where there's smoke, there's the potential for danger. Become aware of it and the potential for fire with the Medallion™ Series Smoke Detector with Transmitter. When the photocell detector senses the presence of smoke, the built-in transmitter broadcasts a signal to any Medallion™ Series Mini Receiver. Easy to install in any room, it is powered by a long-life, 3-volt lithium battery for round-the-clock, 24-hour protection.

Medallion™ Series Wireless Carbon Monoxide Detector with Transmitter (CO5-MC) [US]

Emergency Products

How they work: Having time to react during an emergency is critical to keeping you and your family safe. These lifesaving products are specifically designed to alert you to emergency situations, using audible alarms, strobe lights and/or bed shakers. Choose your installation preference, and then find the products that best fit your needs.

Plug & Play products are ones that can be installed on your own. Great for small-to-midsize homes or studio apartments.

Hard-Wired Alarms require professional installation. Alarms go off at the same time, regardless of which room the original detection occurs in. Best for larger buildings or homes.

Look for these icons:

Listen & Alert products are designed to “listen” to your existing smoke/CO detectors and alert you when they activate, using vibration, flashing lights, and/or loud audible sound.

Battery Backup keeps you safe even during a power outage. Only works for the audible aspect of the alarm unless otherwise specified.
