

Wednesday Walk at Alison Hone Reserve – 28 October 2009

Alison Hone Reserve is between Goulburn and Crookwell, NSW. It was established to protect a rare orchid – Calochilus imberbis (the beardless, bearded orchid). We have visited the Reserve several times and have built up an extensive plant list. It is mainly woodland with a power line easement running through it which provides a different array of plants. We saw good displays of peas – Daviesia leptophylla, Dillwynia sericea, Pultenaea subspicata, Pultenaea microphylla – and some orchids, but not C. imberbis. Other flowers included Rhytidiosporum procumbens, Leucopogon muticus, L. virgatus, Leptospermum multicaule, Patersonia sericea.
