

Sculpture in Context 2019

National Botanic Gardens, Glasnevin, Dublin 9

5th September to 18th October 2019

Opening Times—Monday - Friday 9am to 5pm. Saturday & Sunday 10am - 6pm

Admission Free

Sculpture in Context returns to the National Botanic Gardens in Glasnevin. This year, selected artists have responded to the natural and architectural landscape of the gardens to create site specific works. The wide and evolving range of materials, methods and ideas reflect the unlimited creative imagination of artists in their attempt to interpret our environment.

The Botanic Gardens have been transformed into a sculpture park where you can enjoy beautiful figurative, abstract and modern sculptures in a range of media including bronze, ceramic, glass, stone and steel.

The diversity of work on show can at times challenge the viewer, engaging him or her in a mental dialogue with the artist on the nature and meaning of the work. Such is the scale of the exhibition that perhaps the greatest challenge to the visitor is to see all one hundred and thirty-five works, while enjoying the many diversions offered by this beautiful location.
