Road Commission Ready Let It Snow, Snow, Snow

The Ingham County Road commission is all ready if Old Man Winter tries to get rough this year.

Frank "Tex" Evans, superintendent engineer of the commission, said all equipment is ready to roll and if that isn't enough there are other reinforcements available.

The commission operates out of 5 strategically located garages throughout the county.

In Lansing on Aurelius road just south of Jolly road which serves the metropolitan area of Lansing--5 underbody scrapers, 3 snow plows with trip blades, 3 one-way plows, speed vehicles for open country plowing and 3 sanders.

In Mason at commission headquarters on N. Cedar street, which serves Ingham, Vevay, Aurelius townships, the garage is equipped to provide additional equipment in any county area required--5 underbody blades, 7 one-way plows, 3 sanders and 2 trip plows.

In Williamston, which serves Williamston, Wheatfield, Leroy and Locke townships--4 underbody floats, 4 one-way speed plows, 2 trip plows and 2 sanders.

In Stockbridge, serving Stockbridge, White Oak and Bunker Hill townships--3 underbody blades, 4 one-way speed plows, 2 trip plows and one sander.

In Onondaga which serves Onondaga and Leslie townships--2 underbody scrapers, 3 one-way speed plows and one sander.

The commission also has a motor grader in each of the 4 out-county locations and 2 in Mason.

If the snow becomes too heavy "V" plows are available to attack the drifts. And if all this isn't enough the commission can reach out for more equipment from private contractors.

Poor Paul!

Paul Zimmerman, owner of Poor Paul's Sunoco station, had a bit of bad luck Tuesday when an engine he was moving slipped and fell on his leg.

Zimmerman, who lives at 2450 Coy road, Mason, was treated and released from Mason General hospital. Employees said he is expected back at work in 3 or 4 days.

Selection is made by a committee composed of the president of the Kiwanis club, president of Mason ministerial association, superintendent of schools, mayor and a representative of the Ingham County News.

Nominations should be made in writing to Frank Guerriero, secretary of Mason Kiwanis club.

The Reverend Brendan Ledwidge of St. James Catholic church will give the sermon. His topic will be "Why We Should Be Thankful to God."

Other ministers will also be participating in the service. Special music will be supplied by a choral group from Mason High school under the direction of Warren Emrick.

Also the First Church of Christ Scientist of Mason will hold a Thanksgiving service open to the community at the church, corner of Oak and Barnes streets, on Thursday, November 23, at 10 a.m.

Transmitter To Be Built In Onondaga

Mason residents will be receiving a new television channel in the near future under the call letters WKHM television, channel 18.

The station will be located in Jackson and serve an area including Lansing, Battle Creek, Jackson, Hillsdale, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor, as well as all the areas between these cities.

Transmitting tower for the station will be located in Onondaga. A possibility of switching the tower site to a location south of Charlotte is being considered, but a construction permit has been issued for the site near Onondaga. The tower will stand 960 feet high.

Local programming for the station will emanate from a studio at the WKHM radio transmitting facilities in Jackson county. The station will be affiliated with Jackson's WKHM am and fm radio station.

Mason viewers will be able to receive channel 18 without an outside antenna. A rooftop antenna will be required only by people in the areas around Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor.

To receive Channel 18, residents must have television sets manufactured after April of 1964. Channel 18 is part of the UHF system and handles channel numbers 14 through 80.

According to Edwin Huse, president of the Jackson Television corporation and owner of the station, the lower the number the better the transmitting power, thus Channel 18 has a prime position. Those residents owning sets without the UHF selector would have to purchase an adaptor to receive channel 18.

The new station will have a power of 1,100,000 watts. "As far as we know this will be the most powerful television channel in the state and in this part of the country. It undoubtedly is one of the most powerful in the entire country," Huse said.

The station has received its Federal Communications commission license to transmit and is working on a network affiliation but a date for beginning transmission has not been set Huse added.

St. Nick To Visit In Mason

Santa Claus is busy at the North Pole this week preparing his itinerary for the 1967 Christmas and Mason is on his list for a call.

He is scheduled to fly into Mason in a helicopter on his advance journey around the earth. The whirly bird will land on the roof of the Ingham County News building at 1 p.m. on Saturday, November 25.

He will be greeted here by a band and a parade will form immediately upon his arrival. Santa will mount a Mason fire truck and the procession will move through downtown streets and wind up at the court house where the Old Gentleman will hold court for all the youngsters of Mason and the surrounding area.

Santa's bag will be filled with candy which he will present to each child who visits him.

Merchants of Mason and the Ingham County News are sponsoring Santa's appearance.

The coming of Santa will launch the Christmas season here. Streets will be decorated in Christmas finery.

Stores are stocking up with Christmas gifts in expectation of a thriving business during the season.

Holiday Closings Planned

Mason's merchants, county workers and bank employees will have a holiday to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day.

Most Mason merchants are expected to be closed for the day. Ware's and Chesley's drug stores will be closed from 1-6 p.m., but open in the morning and evening.

All county offices will be closed for the day but open for business as usual on Friday, November 24.

Banks and libraries also will be closed for the one-day holiday.

Post offices will observe the day by picking up mail from deposit points and processing it for outgoing dispatch, but there will be no regular window service and no deliveries made. Special delivery service will be available and post office lobbies will be open for mail deposits and post office boxes.

Attorney General Kelley Will Speak about Crime

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley will be speaking in Mason Thursday evening, November 16, about what he has termed the most corruptive influence in our society today--organized crime.

The official will be speaking at the first general fall meeting of the Mason Area Democratic club. The meeting will be at the Ingham county court house beginning at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Frank J. Kelley

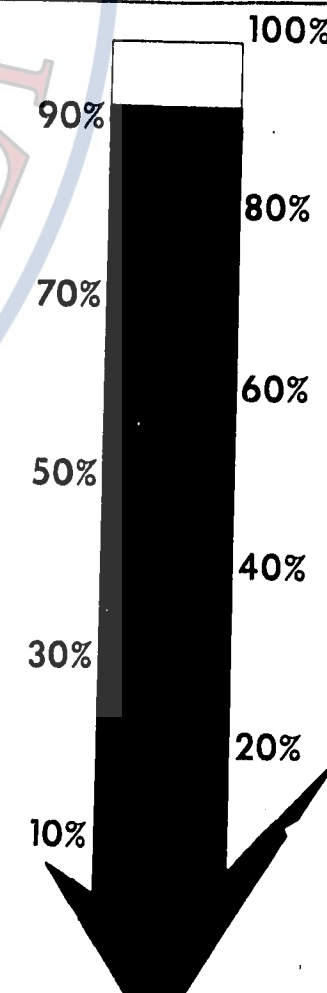

Kelley was the first attorney general in the nation to establish a special intelligence unit within his office to deal with organized crime. This organized crime division recently helped smash a $100,000-a-week football betting ring by coordinating the activities of the state, local and federal officers involved.

The attorney general points out that the core of organized crime activity is the supplying of illegal goods and services--gambling, loan sharking, narcotics, prostitution, and other forms of vice--to countless customers.

But organized crime is also extensively involved in legitimate business and labor unions, according to Kelley.

Here it employs illegitimate methods--monopolization, terrorism, extortion, tax evasion--to drive out legitimate competition and to exact illegal profits from the public.

And to carry on its many activities--free from governmental interference, organized crime corrupts public officials.

EDGING CLOSER--United Community Chest Contributions in the Mason area have edged up to 93 percent of the goal.

Mason's Youngsters are Good Kids, But--- Malicious Destruction is Growing Problem

Mason's kids are good kids, but...

This appears to be the opinion of most Mason school, police and government administrators when asked about the growing problem of vandalism in the community.

In the words of Robert Prudon, Mason high school principal, "we haven't noticed any great increase in the area of malicious destruction, but I sense an undercurrent of growth in vandalism crimes.

"There is a greater tendency for increase of minor acts of vandalism such as paint on sidewalks or driving across the school lawn," Prudon said. "These things generally happen on the weekends in the early hours of the morning.

"Mason is lucky in that the student body as a whole takes pride in their school and the school is always working through the students to encourage this pride not only in their school, but the community too," he explained.

It is very difficult to catch a vandal in the act of destruction but generally he or she appears to be the youngster who is having adjustment problems in areas other than school--the youngster with too much free time on his hands.

"Free time coupled with the accepted use of teens driving autos and an individual alienated to authority can create a real problem," Prudon said. What can be done to help prevent the growth or outbreak of additional vandalism in Mason?

The school principal suggested a liberalization of the present child labor laws, reorganization of the school academic program to better meet the needs of the potential dropout and those with too much free time.

"We need a whole new concept of what school is and a work-experience program at the 9th and 10th grade levels to help these youngsters," Prudon said. "This program would also include greater group guidance and small group classes so that individual learning problems can be dealt with effectively."

From a personal point of view, City Attorney John P. O'Brien said: "Vandalism is certainly getting to be a terrible problem and I don't know the reason for it." Regardless of the reason, O'Brien said that a new statute was passed which now makes parents of vandals liable for damages up to $1,500--this is an increase of $1,000.

PRUDON

On Halloween night vandals roamed the streets of Mason smashing pumpkins and warnings lights on construction barricades. There were some 47 lights broken. O'Brien said: "The city is morally obligated to reimburse the contractor for this damage. If we didn't make this right it would be very difficult to get contractors to come to Mason."

Vaughn Snook, Mason high school counselor, is often called to assist the police in talking with students suspected of committing crimes, such as vandalism.

Why do youngsters commit crimes of malicious destruction?

"Those I have talked with so far this year indicate they don't know why, lack of something to do or the act was purely impulse," Snook said. According to Snook, Mason can expect more vandalism simply because of a population increase, but also because today's youth seem to have a general lack of

Associate Professor Asks: Where Do We Go from Here?

Where Do We Go From Here? I have been in the teaching profession for about 30 years. I have taught elementary school, junior high school, senior high school, college and university classes. As I've thought back over these years, plus some years spent on a school board, I've had to conclude:

1. Our schools of the past did a pretty good job, even our one room country school; but we could have done better.
2. Our schools of the present are doing a pretty good job; but we must do better.

I missed the recent Special Board of Education meeting, as I didn't know until 9:30 p.m. that it was to be held. But I have a notion that consideration of a bond issue vote is too unrealistic at this point, especially since the recent millage vote was defeated. In the first place, a bond issue now would seem to me to be an effort to force our people to accept pre-determined plans for our schools. In the second place, I'm not sure that many of our people (at least I'm not) are satisfied that adequate consideration has been given to alternatives to the present proposal to build a new junior high school building, and perhaps another elementary school.

Let me suggest a pool of questions; and if any of our citizens wish to get together to discuss any, or all, or other questions, count me in.

Remember, now, that I have heard many of these questions asked before, and I am aware of the "stock answers" to most of them. But at this point we don't want "stock answers"; we need some creative, realistic, cooperative thinking to arrive at the best answers of which we are capable.

What do you think?

1. Would it be desirable for the junior and senior high school students to be more able to share athletic fields, equipment and facilities?
2. Would it be desirable to have junior high school students have better access to (even share) auditorium, cafeteria, library, and other facilities?
3. Would it be more desirable to reduce the number of bus stops for unloading, and provide other economies in transporting our students?
4. Would it be advantageous to outstanding high school students (probably only seniors), junior high school students, and teaching staff to have those outstanding seniors assume some responsibilities for the junior high school students?
5. Would it be desirable to operate the schools (all of them possibly) on a year round basis, with one month of vacation, paying the teaching staff, administrators, maintenance personnel, etc. accordingly?
6. If the expansion of Mason goes through, and so finding an additional 600 or so housing units added, would present proposed school plans be adequate?
7. If the industrial park plan materializes, could the industries making it up work out a co-operative plan with the schools (as has been done effectively elsewhere)?
8. If the additional 600 housing units are built, would it be desirable to make it mandatory (and legally possible) that those parents (or owners) of the housing units are rented instead of sold build their own elementary school and/or make up the evaluation difference between the now $9,000 per student and their added $1,000 per student?
9. How much contractor bidding (real competition in bidding) has been used?
10. Could we use two sessions of school per day, to handle the additional students?
11. What could be done to better utilize the school day? Are there subjects to be cut out, reduced, or used only for "needed" students (like physical education)?
12. Why not build the new junior high school building on top of the senior high school building?
13. Why not use land already available, rather than buying a new site on which to build a new junior high school building?
14. Why spend the money needed to build a more pretentious building? Why not a less expensive one?
15. Should we have more non-college oriented courses—maybe two types of schools running simultaneously?
16. Should we find our school dropouts, and find out why they dropped out, then determine our needs to cut down—if not eliminate—the number of future dropouts? What kind(s) of schools would we then need?
17. A United States Survey indicated that of the students who were questioned only about 18% considered school as a place to learn, but 82% looked upon it as a social affair. Why?

18. Are we too pre-occupied with what is done elsewhere, then trying to emulate, be as big as, even surpass other school districts in kinds, types and costs, etc.?

19. Should every student pay a specified tuition, then let the school district make up the rest of the cost to educate the students?

20. Would it be desirable to extend high school to a fifth year, and use this last year for expanded vocational courses, to gain some student maturity before college, study professions, and/or have this added year provide courses usually taken in community colleges, or colleges and universities?

21. Etc.

These are some questions I have asked myself. I now ask them of you. What do you think? And, what other questions do you have in mind?

St. James Parish Joins Vatican Council Talks

St. James parish in Mason will join with the rest of the 115 parishes and missions throughout the diocese of Lansing in an 8 week series of discussions on the pronouncements of the Second Vatican Council.

This year's program will center on the decree on the "apostolate of the laity," the daily living of the Catholic religion. This is the second year of a 5 year program. The diocese-wide education program is headed by Rev. William J. Rademacher, former pastor of St. James. Dr. Milton Bergeon is the local director.

Dr. Bergeon estimates that 60 adults and 80 students will take part in the parish discussions. High school religion classes will use the decree as its main teaching theme this year.

In preparation for the program 12 adults and 6 students participated in a 7 week leadership training program. These 18 people will lead the discussion groups.

Special services will be held Sunday, November 12, followed by a potluck dinner to kick off the program. The first discussion meeting will be a parish assembly following the dinner. Later meetings will be held in individual homes.

In February, representatives from each of the discussion groups will meet with the Most Reverend Alexander Zaleski, bishop of the Lansing diocese, to report on the parish program.

Last year approximately 60 parishioners participated in the Vatican Council discussions which focused on the constitution of the church.

Police Blotter

Three property damage accidents were reported to the Mason police department this week.

Doris J. Kohfeldt, 2198 Coolridge road, Holt, received a ticket for failure to stop in an assured clear distance when she hit the rear end of the car of Mary Ellen Pyle, Route 5, Elkhart, Indiana as she was attempting to make a left turn, police said. The accident occurred in the 500 block of N. Cedar.

Joyce Ambler, 960 E. Rolfe road, received a ticket for failure to yield the right of way when she pulled out in front of a car driven by John Meteshi, 803 N. Dart road. The accident happened at the corner of Ash and Park streets.

Eugene A. Clark, 500 W. Grand River, Lansing, was involved in a one car accident in the 800 block of N. Mason street. He told police he fell asleep while driving and left the road. He complained of bruises and bumps and was ticketed for failure to observe the basic speed restrictions.

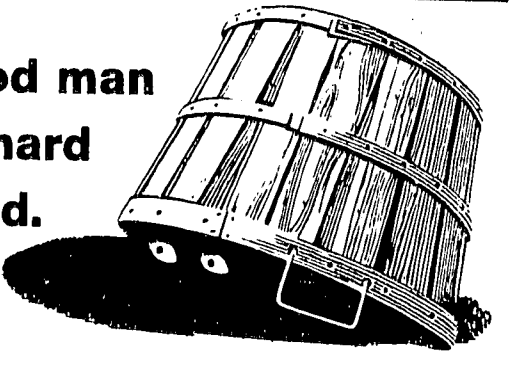

Weather

It was 16 above zero in Lansing Wednesday morning and but it didn't set a record for this date. Back in 1933 the mercury dipped to 7 above. The Weather bureau has promised warmer weather, however, after a very cold night tonight when the mercury is expected to drop to 12 above with a slight chance of brief snow flurries. Tonight however, will be mostly fair.

A warming trend is due the latter part of the week with little change over the week end. Precipitation will total 1/10 of an inch or less in light snow or rain the latter part of the week.

Temperatures in Mason during the past week averaged 38 degrees, as compared with 39 degrees for the same week a year ago. Precipitation during the past week totaled 1.07 inches.

Marion Shepler Is Killed by Falling Tree

WILLIAMSTON -- Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the Gorsline Funeral home here for Marion Pearl Shepler, 51, of 4242 Rowley road.

Shepler met death November 9 when a tree he was cutting down at his home fell on him. The body was not discovered until last Saturday night, when his son, Daniel of Williamston came to visit him and discovered the tragedy.

Shepler was a lifelong resident of Locke township where he was born July 21, 1916. He lived alone at the Rowley road address. His house was along the river about a half mile from the road.

Elder Alonzo Mohr of the Seventh Day Adventist church officiated at the services and burial was in Rowley cemetery.

Besides his son, Daniel Shepler is survived by another son, Paul of Webberville, 2 grand children, a brother, Dale Shepler of Pentwater, and a sister Mrs. Pauline Lamb of Geoviles.

Vandalism

concern for what is public property.

Characteristics of the vandal is one who is not successful or is not being reached in school--the school fails to interest the youth in its activities, he said.

"Generally the kids at Mason are real good--often times if permitted the students would correct violators themselves, but they tend to make the punishment more severe than the crime," the counselor indicated.

How is the vandal corrected? Vandalism like all other people must learn there are laws which have to be followed within a community and through life, Snook said. Correction is achieved by apprehension and a just punishment in addition to better counseling by parents, school counselors and public officials.

"The old woodshed used to be a pretty good counseling place in the old days," Snook said.

Mason's Police Chief Tim Stolz has facts to back up the growing vandalism in the community. In 1966 there were 98 malicious destruction complaints recorded by the police department, while in 1967 there have already been 93 complaints through the month of October. "Mason's vandalism complaints for November have pushed the figure above last year's," he said.

If convicted of vandalism the culprit receives a penalty of fines and costs. Some of the cases are run through probate court while others are settled through the parents of offenders depending on the seriousness of the crime.

Auxiliary Says Thanks

To the People of Mason:
To those few individuals who felt they were ignored and neglected at our recent Pancake Supper, may I be the first one to apologize to them -- to the many who from all appearances were satisfied, I give a great big sincere Thank You. As a popular TV star expresses it, "We prelate it!" We try -- believe me -- we try!

At this time I would like to publicly thank our kitchen crew -- If you don't think they work hard and as fast as they can, just take one minute and stick your head in the kitchen door! I've been told that at Pancake Supper time, it is questionable if it is worth the risk of being a good friend and neighbor of the "Bosses in the Kitchen!" -- To those non members who so graciously and ably help us, the words "Thank You" can't begin to express our appreciation. The same is true of the group of high school girls who do such an excellent job in the dining room. Their young legs and feet are a tremendous help to us. Many thanks girls for a job well done.

I am sure that a big percentage of people may not be aware that since our first Pancake Supper in 1960, Don and Leone Densmore of the local IGA store, have contributed all the food and supplies for our annual event. Every year this generous contribution has increased greatly for two reasons. First of all, our crowd gets bigger every year, and as everyone knows, the cost of food has risen tremendously. Thank you Don and Leone from the bottom of our hearts for being so generous and such good citizens!

May I say a few words now in our defense? We are a very small group, and few of us are young -- but I'm sure I speak for every volunteer when I say, there is no great amount of glory that goes with being a volunteer -- only a tremendous feeling of satisfaction in knowing you are helping people. Ask any volunteer and they will tell you that there is no better way to realize and count your blessings than to spend a few volunteer hours in a hospital. Think it over ladies!

May I again take this opportunity to thank all our loyal volunteers for their help, and the public too, who have so well supported us at this time. We'll keep trying our best to keep everyone happy. That's a promise.

Bailey, Dave Lillywhite, Edna Lillywhite, Margaret Kester, (back row) Agnes Coffey, Mabel Barry, Isabelle Gidner, Goldie Stiles, Pearl Terrill and Nina Carn.

Garden Club Makes Christmas Plans

The Aurelius Garden club enjoyed a potluck supper on Friday, November 10, at the Aurelius town hall with an attendance of 16. The tables were decorated in the Thanksgiving theme by hostesses Mrs. Wilfred Jewett and Mrs. John Powell.

The meeting was conducted by president Mrs. Lawrence Dolbee. Columbia Creek park will be put to bed for the winter next week by some of the members, so stated Carl Topliff.

The 1968 Federation engagement calendars arrived in time for the meeting. Mrs. A. B. Ziegler will handle the sale of them.

Mrs. Carl Topliff displayed her complimentary copy of the Garden Club Cookbook on desserts put out by the Montgomery Federation of Garden clubs in Montgomery, Alabama. She and Mrs. W. D. Orr each contributed a recipe for the book.

Election of officers for 1968 was held with the following results: president, Mrs. Lawrence Dolbee; vice president, Mrs. Lewis Bugbee; secretary, Mrs. A. B. Ziegler; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Markle.

The next meeting will be a family Christmas dinner at the Aurelius town hall on December 29. It will be held late in the month so that the group can go on a lighted home tour afterwards. The club will use the theme "Christmas Ideas" for the lighting this year.

Mrs. Dolbee brought books from the library on various phases of Christmas. She asked if we could imagine a year without Christmas. In the 17th century England, at the time when the Puritans were in political ascendancy, the observance of Christmas became illegal.

On December 25th church doors were locked, and no worship services were permitted. Later when a new monarch changed this, the Puritans still derided these traditions. The Puritan influence reached to the American colonies. In 1659 a New England law attempted to bar all Christmas observances. Many Yankees did not accept the popular Christmas festivities until well into the nineteenth century.

Methodists Hear Talk on Writing

In order for a writer to produce great literature, he must have stability, identity and a knowledge of tradition, Dr. Barry Gross said here Wednesday.

He spoke to 54 members of the Methodist Women's Society at a breakfast meeting in the church.

Dr. Gross, a native of New York, teaches American literature at Michigan State university. His topic was, "The Quest for Identity: Contemporary Literature."

Dr. Gross predicts that the next dominant voice in modern literature will be that of the Negro questioning his identity.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. H. S. Pulver, plans were discussed for the Christmas bazaar on December 6.

The bazaar will be held in the church from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Proceeds will be used to carpet the nursery.

The women will serve a cafeteria luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and coffee will be served all day.

The women decided to send Christmas boxes to servicemen of the church.

Three new members, Mrs. Larry Quinn, Mrs. Ronald Vaughn and Mrs. Harold Wing, were welcomed by Mrs. Wayne Bullen.

Devotions were given by Mrs. George Dunivon, program chairman was Mrs. Russell Robbins and hostesses were the Miriam and Ruth circles.

Presbyterian Women Plan Circle Meets

Mason Presbyterian Women's circles will have their monthly meetings Tuesday, November 21.

Jean circle plans a program which will include a talk by Mrs. U. B. Shoemaker on the history of the church's stained glass windows.

Benona circle will meet at 1:30 p.m. in the church memorial room.

Eloise circle will hear Mrs. Philip Hirtzel discuss the book of Philipians at its meeting. They will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Jack Pletzke, 355 W. Willow, Mason.

Lois and Jennie circles have no meetings planned.

Visiting shut-ins will occupy the Florence circle on Tuesday, November 28. The group will meet at the church at 7 p.m. Afterward, Elizabeth Pollock will lead devotions.

Area Artists Show Pictures At Women's Club Meeting

Mason area artists displayed their talents at a meeting of the Mason Women's club Tuesday afternoon at the Ingham County library.

The artists, Donis Haynes, Muiretta Dolbee, Vesta Eckhart and George Green displayed approximately 30 oil paintings, water colors and pen and ink sketches.

They talked informally about their hobby and showed their pictures individually.

Of the four artists, George Green is the only one with no formal training. Vesta Eckhart and Donis Haynes have taken art courses at Lansing Community college for 2 years and Muiretta Dolbee attended an adult art education course at Mason and has had some private instruction.

The paintings will continue on display during regular library hours through Saturday.

After the exhibition, Mrs. Carlyle Waltz introduced Connie Howe, who played several piano solos.

A short business meeting was held and refreshments were served. Mrs. Clarence Boles poured at the tea table.

This Is No Ghetto Uprising

Windows are smashed in schools. School buses are damaged. Signs and buildings are daubed with paint. Antennas are ripped off parked cars. Cars on parking lots are stripped.

When all this happens in Detroit, Chicago, Lansing, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, there is a great rush to blame it on the ghettos and write off such acts as demonstrations against economic and social oppression.

That may be true when it happens in the big city. But what is it when it happens in a town such as Mason? We have no ghetto problems. We have no oppressed minorities. Our social ills aren't too serious.

Yet, here in Mason vandalism and destruction of property are on the increase. Somehow, that old balm, "kids will be kids" doesn't fit, either.

In the past few months damage to public and private property has been on the upswing.

In recent weeks the contractor hired by the city to repair city sidewalks has had nothing but trouble. Barricades have been smashed, warning lights have been destroyed and freshly poured concrete has been damaged. It has reached such proportions that the contractor has informed the council that if he ever bids on another city job, the price will reflect the costly damage such a project brings on here in Mason.

It might be well to say that many of the footprints parading through fresh concrete are size 10 or better which would rule out the excuse that the damage was done by some 5-year-old who didn't know better.

Where does the responsibility for the increase in vandalism rest? Is the situation developing because of permissive parents? Is it developing because of a breakdown in school discipline? Are churches failing to reach youngsters with their message? Are law officers and the courts too lenient with offenders?

Whatever the answer or combination of answers, the time has come to reverse the trend--not only for the sake of cutting down on costly vandalism but for the more important reason of nipping an evil before the wrongdoer goes on to something even worse.

An Expensive Fumble

All the fumbles are not made by football teams on Saturdays and Sundays.

Congress and the Johnson administration have bobbed the ball, especially in the game of economy. For the past few months Johnson, backed by the professorial proponents of the new economics, has screamed for additional federal income in the form of a surtax as a means of cutting down inflation.

Congress has dragged its feet on the administration proposal by insisting that the administration cut government expenses. Economy is being demanded as a congressional price for the surtax.

The average taxpayer, the guy who is always in the middle, wants economy and he wants to keep a little of his paycheck.

But, on almost every occasion where congress has an opportunity through appropriations bills to cut government spending, the lawmakers have fumbled the ball.

A good example is the failure of the congress to pare the obvious fat out of the war on poverty. Economy talk is cheap in Washington but failure to take economy action is expensive to the taxpayers footing the bill.

It might be a good idea for congress and the president to listen to the rumblings in the hinterlands over the staggering cost of government and the constant pressure by all levels of government to grab a bigger amount out of the pocketbook of the taxpayer.

Congress has a wonderful opportunity to re-establish the faith of the working American people in the legislative process but unfortunately congress doesn't want to run with the ball and it's clear the administration doesn't want to, either. They prefer to fumble.

If this situation prevails there easily could be a new team named for the 1968 season.

It's the Driver

The auto industry hasn't seen nothing yet.

The federal government has just scratched the surface in auto safety edicts. Transportation Secretary Alan Boyd is reported to have 47 edicts in the hopper with 10 ready to be tossed at the manufacturers for 1969 models.

Getting the danger bugs out of autos is a commendable job but so are a lot of other things which affect the safety of other products. There are farmers who have stabbed themselves with pitchforks but does it make sense to order all pitchforks to be equipped with safety buttons on the tines?

There should be reason incorporated in auto safety edicts. Consideration should be given to the costs of the innovations which the office of transportation is considering. There should be some consideration given to the acceptance of government design standards on the part of the buying public.

Above all else, this matter of highway safety should concentrate on the one part of the driving picture which has barely been touched. That is the control of the most dangerous part of the auto--the nut behind the wheel.

There is no doubt but that by the time all the safety regulations are followed vehicles will be safer. But the person behind the wheel, the real danger, must be dealt with.

Perfunctory physical and mental driving examinations now given barely touch driving ability and skill. Only in 2 or 3 states are drivers examined for reflexes in responding to emergency driving situations.

Testing drivers for license applications should not be the end, either. Those who are involved in accidents should be re-examined. A good start would be a nation-wide uniform licensing law.

Weeding dangerous drivers off the highways is more important than padding the dash or collapsing the steering column.

A Time of Decision

Americans have reached a point where we must make a decision; We must obey laws and rules and stand firm for their enforcement, or we can chuck them as being only so much paperwork. The latter decision would be suicide.

Yet this is what we do and allow. We allow protest marches to turn into riots and we handle them with kid gloves and make apologies for turning them back. We allow statements and actions of treason and are reluctant to prosecute for fear of infringing on a traitor's rights.

Crime has almost become an accepted pastime because we are afraid to prosecute and judge by the intent of the law rather than loop-holed letter of the law. Moral decay among our young people is the result of parents afraid or just plain unconcerned about enforcing the rules of the home and of gentlemanly and lady-like behavior.

These are the symptoms of a sick society. Any doctor will tell you you can't cure a serious illness by lax application of rules concerning rest, food, and proper medicines. And we as a supposedly intelligent people should know that we won't cure this national illness by lax application of national and moral laws.

Our national Constitution guarantees individual freedoms, but those freedoms don't extend beyond the point where they infringe on the freedoms of other people or other groups. We have to realize this, and we have to firmly draw a solid line at that point of conflict.

It's time we stand up and tell our law enforcement agencies to carry out the intent of the law and to tell our courts to judge by the intent of the law. And it's time that we observe the law--of man and God.

Presidential Character Test

In the United States presidential sweepstakes, already under way, there are questions beyond the crucial issues--beyond the candidates' positions on Vietnam and civil rights and anti-poverty--which will be engaging the voters. These queries center around the equipment of the man for the job. Does Nixon or Johnson or Reagan or Senator Darkhorse have what it takes, to deal effectively with the great issues?

Of Richard Nixon, the central query will be: Has this former vice-president matured in his judgments and outlook? Will he pitch his campaign, his concerns, on other issues as well as the familiar one of anti-communism? Is there a discernible "new" Nixon, possessed of fresh insights from his world travels, relaxed, truly experienced?

Of Governor Romney the central concern may be: Has this individual the judgment, the intellectual fortitude, the breadth of vision, for the immensely demanding job at the White House? Is there drive and commitment behind the excellent features? Is his good record in Michigan valid for Washington?

Of Governor Reagan, the focusing question could be: Has this former film star the ability quickly to soak up experience and breadth of outlook? Is he perceiving that all issues are not black and white but sometimes gray and difficult?

Of Governor Rockefeller, the key concern perhaps is whether this wealthy individual, who has so ably marshaled the study groups and learned task forces to aid his New York career and his forays into the presidential conventions--has he the commitment and personal judgment needed in the presidency?

On the Democratic side there is just one candidate, despite futile efforts to nominate Sen. Robert Kennedy. Here the basic question is whether Lyndon B. Johnson has the essential finesse for the job. He surely has the fortitude, and the public has at hand a full presidential term on which to base its judgment as to the rest of his qualifications.

Fundamentally, perhaps it can be said that what the public will be seeking to discern of each candidate, beyond charm and appearance, polish or lack of polish, is: Does this man manifest wisdom, and selflessness, and courage? For in these demanding times, and in this demanding job, these are the essentials.

Improve Policeman's Lot

A policeman catches a stranger loaded with loot climbing out of a second-story window late at night. The policeman had better not ask what he's doing with that bag full of silverware. He might violate the burglar's Constitutional rights.

As Sen. John C. Tower (R., Tex.) reminds, the Supreme Court has held a suspect must be told of his right to remain silent. He must be provided with legal counsel before any questions may be asked. And "legal counsel seldom walk the street with policemen or remain in residence at police stations."

Hardly anyone, we think, would want to permit the police to beat confessions out of suspects with rubber hose and the like but if the edict of the court is to be taken literally it places ridiculous restrictions on law enforcement. Senator Tower's remedy is a Constitutional amendment providing that voluntary confessions may be used as legal evidence against criminals. This is a difficult and touchy procedure which involves inadvisable rewriting of the Bill of Rights.

It seems to us that the Court, realizing the scope of change required by its perhaps inadvertent phraseology, might yet redefine its order to permit use of voluntary confessions so long as they can be proved actually to have been voluntary.

For a court which hasn't hesitated to reverse earlier decisions, including some of its own, this shouldn't be much of a strain. (Stuart Fla., News)

The January thaw ended the best Christmas vacation skating and coasting there has been in years.

Boys and girls who got their first pair of skates at Christmas had mastered the art of skating by New Year's. Roberta Judson and Rosalyn Carl were among second-graders who found skates in their stockings Christmas morning. By New Year's both girls were accomplished skaters, almost ready for figure-skating.

Priscilla Johnson is one of the best skaters in town. She is an old hand at it. August 24, 1950

Probably I am as devoted to my wife as Jim VanderVen is to Josephine, or Ben Weaver is to his wife Betty, but I can't make people, even my wife, believe it. When Jim and his wife or Ben and his wife are together (out in public, anyway) people observe the caressing looks passing between husband and wife. And on the way home the other women ask their husbands, "Why don't you act toward me the way Jim does toward his wife, or the way Ben does? Why don't you smile at me like that? Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a husband anxious to show his affection?" Some day I'm going to try it just to see what happens. September 7, 1950

An encyclopedia salesman came to the house last Friday night to make me one of those special advertising offers they always have to offer. He told how his book was right up to the minute, with the answers to all questions set forth in plain language.

"Do you have your own printing plant, or do you contract for the printing, and where is the book printed?" I inquired of the salesman. He couldn't answer, and the book didn't tell. He declared I was the first person who had ever asked him the question.

I didn't buy the volume. The "special" offer was $200 with a few extra books thrown in. I told him I didn't have a place to put $200 worth of books but did have a place to put that much money.

Barbs and Praise

By DICK BROWN

Down in Stuart, Florida, the editor of the Stuart News came up with an editorial which bears repeating. Not only our elected and appointed government officials should take heed but all American should ponder the editorial labeled "People in Ferment."

It is interesting to watch ants fight, bees swarm and people in ferment around the Pentagon.

The "fermenting people" who riot, march and demonstrate are signs of a troubled time. They form sort of a social yeast working in the body politic. Strikers, protesters, demonstrators, sit-inners, hecklers, rioters and draft-card-burners are but a tiny fraction of the 200 million people in America--but it does not take much yeast to start the dough to rising.

This sort of yeast works best under a weak liberal government. The more it is tolerated, the faster it multiplies. A government that condones riots and bends to the power threats of minorities--with the misguided notion that it is keeping votes--is like a warm stove that helps the dough to rise.

And that is the situation the Democrats face right now. Their sappy liberal policies, the condoning of riots, the issuing of permits for demonstrations that are Communist-led and most oddly aimed against LBJ's war policy, are deeply injuring the party with the silent majority of the voters. The people of the United States are basically conservative--and they are getting fed up with the coddling of leftist and racial minorities. Most people feel forgotten.

So the majority is now "chilling off." It would just as soon see the dough taken from its place by the stove for a while and put in the refrigerator to cool down.

It is sick and tired of the patty-cake handling of draft protesters when brave young Americans, many of them volunteers, are giving their lives in a war few may understand--but which is still every American's war.

The majority has developed a slow burn over the permissive condoning of traitors thumbing their noses at this beloved land while they give aid and comfort to the enemy. It has read with anger the treasonous utterances of the black power militants calling for the burning and destruction of our cities--and noted with amazement that the government's reaction has been supine.

It has gotten a bellyful of hearing that racketeers are running vast segments of our economy with impunity, and that crooked contractors are getting rich by gouging the taxpayers for war materials. It has been shocked by such asinine stupidities as the revelations that inferior ammunition for the M16 rifle has been furnished to our men in combat, and that warplanes won't work after billions have been spent and the country's future staked on them. Such military equipment flops are beginning to cause the majority to wonder whether men who could make bloopers so awful on matters so vital have designed a missile system that will work when needed.

The majority is not dumb. Its instinct for survival cries out against the nuclear dagger of Red Cuba poised over America's heart.

It is revolted by the toleration of marijuana, LSD and love-ins, pornography in movies and magazines and a Post Office Department that allows racketeers to bamboozle the country with sucker schemes. It cannot understand why a terrifying rising crime rate is not halted. It fears rising taxes and inflation and has enough common sense to know that no serious effort is being made to curb either.

The dissatisfaction of the majority is the most potent sign of the troubled time.

Those new Republican governors are symbols of increasing conservative power--the majority power, not the minority. The toppling of local Democratic officeholders all over the land is being done by majorities--as a handy way to get at LBJ, the Supreme Court, lax law enforcement and, sadly, declining morals.

The bubbling yeast may bring about a sweeping social change--and not what it is aiming at but a strong national Republican administration, the last thing that the shrill little leftist "yeasties" want.

Just Thinking

By VERNON BROWN

LBJ must be wondering where he is going to be hit from next. Sunday's well publicized church service must have been a shock to Johnson.

While the preacher was criticizing the U.S. role in foreign affairs Johnson must have wished he would have taken his meditation with nature where only the chipmunks could cry about our problems. I doubt that he would have been bothered because I don't think Johnson could understand a chipmunk. Of course I don't think Johnson would go for being left out in the cold either; he seems to have an aversion against that.

It isn't very fair to throw stones at Johnson's glass house, but it is so thin that it comes tumbling down every time somebody kicks up a little dust.

In an editorial in the Free Press this week James Reston brought out a good point about our sudden worry about the slums. According to Reston, and I tend to agree, this democracy came into being because the colonists worked for it. It wasn't handed to them on a silver platter. Something that a person is given is never held as close to the heart as something that he has worked for. This should be remembered by those who are spending huge amounts of money to bring the poor up to a decent level of living.

Government, and the poor themselves, would be better served if government would help them get started, help them over the rough spots, but not hand them something that they aren't educated enough to accept. The motivation to improve should be left up to the poor themselves.

It seems to be the coming thing for our nation to rely more and more on government initiative rather than individual drive. It is too bad.

We didn't become the great nation that we are by waiting for the government to supply our wants, we became a great nation by deciding what we wanted and going out and getting it on our own.

The Melting Pot

By HAYDEN PALMER

Here we are only a week away from Thanksgiving Day, which will be observed next week, Thursday, November 23.

Thanksgiving is truly an American holiday, observed in no other country. But it is observed in every state in the United States on the 4th Thursday in November.

Thanksgiving started way back in the days of the Pilgrims. The first Thanksgiving was proclaimed by William Bradford, governor of Plymouth colony, in 1621.

It was observed in a spirit of thankfulness by the Pilgrims for the bounteous harvest they had reaped after a winter of hardship and privation.

History tells us the Pilgrims shared their feast with the neighboring Indians who had helped them plant their crops.

And how did the turkey become associated with the holiday? At that first Thanksgiving the Pilgrims served 4 wild turkeys, establishing a custom that prevails to this day.

In its early history, Thanksgiving Day observance was a more or less local custom which was observed on different days in different localities.

The first national Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed by President Washington in November, 1789.

President Lincoln, in 1863, issued a directive that Thanksgiving Day should be observed on the last Thursday of November.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, however, changed the date to the 3rd Thursday of November. This resulted in some conflict between dates set by national and state officials, so in 1941 congress resolved the conflict and passed a joint resolution directing that the nation observe Thanksgiving Day on the 4th Thursday in November.

And so, next Thursday, everyone will take a holiday, eat turkey and visit.

Thanksgiving Day has become a day of journeying to friends and relatives' homes nearby and in far away places for the observance.

This presents a traffic hazard on the highways and the death toll from accidents plays a big part in spoiling an otherwise delightful observance.

So if you plan to drive somewhere next Thursday, drive carefully, won't you, please?

'Holiday' Opening On Nov. 22

Holiday On Ice, which is becoming the favorite ice show on 5 continents, will present its 1968 edition at the Lansing Civic Center, next Wednesday, November 22, through Sunday.

In the show will be many new champions from Oslo, Norway, Paris, and Berlin. It's almost as though the Holiday On Ice officials had moved Europe's ice world to the United States to skate in their two productions now touring the states.

Holiday On Ice has been coming to Lansing annually for about 12 years. The show is like a heart warming compliment--it bears repeating.

Great effort has been made to bring variety and novelty to the new extravaganza.

The show includes seven lavishly staged scenes including "A Venetian Festival," "The Show Must Go On"--a spoof on the old days of vaudeville; "Chinese New Year's-San Francisco"--complete with fireworks; "Ballad of the Streets," starring the dramatic actor-skater, Jimmy Crockett; "Happy Land Village" for kids of all ages; "The U.S. Marines On Parade"--an exciting precision routine featuring the Marine Manual of Arms (coached by Marine Sgt. John Dunn, by special assignment from the Corps) and the stirring finale, "Happy Holiday."

The magnificent costumes, valued at $300,000, were designed by Freddy Wittop, who also did the wardrobe for "Hello Dolly" and the current N.Y. hit "I Do, I Do." Performances will be given nightly at 8 (except Sunday), November 22 through 26, matinees are scheduled for Thanksgiving Day at 4 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The box office at the Civic Center will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sunday from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

Service Is Setting Up Ambulance

LESLIE -- It was reported to the village council Monday night that the first-aid classes were underway, the first step necessary in setting up an ambulance service. It was decided to see the township officials regarding participation by them. George Luecht has announced that he will stop making runs November 30. Eldon Williams appeared before the council to request that the village paint yellow 'no parking' lines to designate the entrance to his new parking lot on the site of the old Hill building. The building is now down and the basement filled in and the lot is available for parking now. His request was granted.

Mrs. Kathryn Farley appeared to ask permission to remove one of the old schools or both of them if removal of the brick one is feasible from the Congregational church property to Tuttle park. A permanent site could be found later if necessary, she said, but the church is anxious to have the buildings off its property. The park was a gift by the late Judge Arthur Tuttle; the Tuttle heirs have been contacted and to date have voiced no objection. Permission was granted.

November 30 was set for a second informational meeting on the pending election to become a fifth-class city. There were only about 25 present at the first meeting so a second one has been scheduled for 8:00 at the High school. The election is December 12.

The treasurer reported that 94.4 percent of the summer taxes were collected and the rest were turned over to the county as delinquent.

The sum of $5,000 was transferred from the water and sewer to the operation and maintenance fund.

Donald Haynes, village marshal, was granted a vacation from November 17 to 24.

A Plan for Selecting Judges

By Elmer E. White

Who are they? This is the Mason second or third grade back in 1931 or 1932. At the top is Don Davison. In the next row are Dorothy Brown, Howard Coon, Herschel Jewett, Dick Jewett, Ruth Myers and Jean Noxon. In the next row are Ted Rathburn, Anna Medcoff, Norm Dart, Paul Scripture, Celand Lamphere and Viola Reedy. In the third row from the top are Charles Clipper, W. C. Hancock, Unknown, Helen Smith, Rex Whipple, Maurice Strickland. In the fourth row are unknown, unknown, unknown, Emmogene Turner, Bill Grieves, Paul Olney. Last row, Kenneth Cline, Rolph Silsby, William Macclam, unknown, unknown and unknown.

Michigan judges could be selected with a minimum of political involvement under a "Michigan Plan" amendment to the 1963 state constitution proposed by a citizens' group. Patterned after the "Missouri Plan," now used in 12 states, the proposal calls for judicial candidates to be nominated by a bi-partisan panel of lawyers and laymen.

Such plans call for seven panel members; 3 attorneys appointed by the state bar association; 3 citizens appointed by the governor; and a judge who serves as chairman. When a vacancy occurs on the bench, this panel screens possible replacements then puts forward a slate of 3 or more whom it considers the best qualified candidates. The governor fills the position from the recommended slate.

The appointed judge serves for 3 years. He is then required to stand for reelection on his record only and without opposition. For example, voters in Missouri are confronted with this simple judicial ballot: "Shall Judge X of the blank court of Missouri be retained in office? YES, NO (scratch one)."

Before each election, lawyers conduct a poll within their profession on the candidates' qualifications for retention. Results receive wide publicity in local news media. Newspapers also publish biographies, record of reversals, and conduct in office.

Voters then decide whether to retain the judge on the basis of qualification and performance rather than popularity, political activity or a famous-last-name.

If retained by voters, the judge serves until he dies, retires or resigns. If voters do not approve his tenure, another slate of candidates is offered by the panel and another 3-year appointment is made by the governor.

Coupled with the proposal for bench selections is machinery for removing or disciplining judges for misconduct or malfeasance in office. A commission is established to investigate complaints about the courts at all levels. Upon recommendation by the commission, the supreme court may hold a public hearing and remove a judge.

Any attorney, public official, litigant or private citizen can report a judge for a disability or dereliction. If the commission staff finds that the complaint has merit, it immediately investigates.

Such a program has been working well in California since 1960. Called the Commission on Judicial Qualifications, the group there is composed of 5 judges, 2 laymen and 2 lawyers. In seven years of existence, the commission has investigated more than 400 complaints, induced 30 judges to resign or quietly retire and recommended one removal.

Resignations and retirements have strengthened the courts, but the power of investigation is also a prod and stimulus to judges to conduct themselves as the office demands.

Michigan needs such a program as now exists in Missouri and California, the citizens' group feels. Sponsored by the Michigan Citizens' Committee for Judicial Selection and Tenure, the League of Women Voters of Michigan, and the American Judicature Society, the group will attempt to obtain 350,000 signatures on petitions by next June to get the proposal before voters in the November, 1968, election.

At a recent conference in Grand Rapids the citizens' committee pointed out that all state judges except the Wayne county district court judge are elected by popular vote.

Edward L. Cushman, conference chairman, said, "If we are going to attract the high quality of judges I know our state can produce, we have to assure our judicial candidates that they won't be knocked around like a political football every 6 or 8 years."

An editorial in the Kansas City Star sums up the proved benefits of such a plan: "A judge doesn't have to borrow and spend money to conduct a campaign. He is not forced to make political promises to men who control votes. He does not have to answer to a political boss, nor does he need to accept campaign contributions from lawyers who will practice in his court. It is by far the best plan yet devised to keep the bench out of partisan campaigns."

The citizens' committee said it will enlist "maximum participation" by individual citizens and organizations throughout the state to support the enactment of the proposed constitutional amendment.

Our Days to Remember

By Douglas Dilday

This last Saturday, November 11, marked the 49th anniversary of the armistice that ended the first world war. It was supposed to be the treaty to end "the war to end all wars," but since that treaty, we have had another world war, a Korean "police action" and the conflict in Vietnam, plus the ever present cold war.

We have Veteran's Day to pay homage to all our servicemen who have been in these conflicts or who are in them. Yet I was wondering, when will we be able to stop adding to the list of remembrances for Veteran's Day? It seems that just about everytime we turn around, there is some reason for our country to get into practically every conflict the world has, thus giving us one more thing to recall on every November 11.

It used to be that our country would get involved when the reason was perfectly clear. But now, or I should say since the "police action" in Korea, the reasons for our involvement are becoming more and more vague. When our country was younger, war was something to shy away from, but when in it, we gave our all. Now that our country has mellowed, we spend more than half our time recalling a November 11, a December 7, or a June 6.

This that I have said may sound disrespectful, and I don't mean it to be, but if these war-like actions keep coming in the world, what has the younger generation to look forward to? I would like to know as I am sure others of my generation would. I do know, however, that to preserve our freedom and the freedom of others, we must always be ready, but when we do enter a conflict let's find out the reason before we start having more dates to remember!

If we could have no more such dates, but still hold the ones we have with pride and respect, I think everyone in the world would be happy. Everyone over and... under 21.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Background of Integrity

There are millions of men in this world whose word is trusted—whose handshake is a binding contract—whose integrity others accept without question.

We've come a long way from the days when a strong man and a stout club were the social graces.

And this growth in man's capacity for integrity has paralleled his growth in religious expression.

Of course, the cynics will point to men and nations who still live by the code of the cave man. Must we believe that the clock of progress has turned . . . is running backward?

The sound, the sensible, the sincere still feel the strength of God's Bible in every handshake. With their children they are finding new spiritual opportunity and hope in the churches they cherish.

Are you with them? Are you, too, pushing forward the frontiers of faith?

Students Hear of Russia

Mason High Open House Attracts 260 Parents

By NANCY BROWN
Mason High School

Open house was the highlight at M.H.S. this week. Approximately 260 parents visited the school Tuesday evening, November 7.

Welcoming the parents in the auditorium was Mr. Robert Prudon, principal. Beginning at 7:30 p.m. he addressed the visitors before sending them out to follow their children's schedules.

Teachers outlined the studies they were planning to present. After this explanation of study materials, parents were given an opportunity to ask questions. This was not, however, a time for parent-teacher conferences. These individual sessions must be made by appointment only. It was a time to meet new faculty and learn the curriculum.

Following a very short six-period day, parents congregated for a social hour. Refreshments of punch and cookies were furnished by the Future Homemakers Club.

Open houses are held only once a year. When asked how things went, Mr. Prudon commented, "It was a very fine evening and we sensed people were happy. We've heard lots of favorable comments and none contradicting these."

A little bit of the U.S.S.R. came to the stage at Mason on November 8. Mr. John D. Shirraef II, a resident of Charlotte, Michigan, gave an interesting lecture assembly to the student body.

Shirraef is a teacher, newspaperman, ex-GI, and lecturer. He has been placed on the Who's Who Roster of top U.S. speakers.

Over a 20-year period Shirraef has spoken 3,912 times about his travels. His journeys have taken him to over 49 states and 21 European and Asian countries.

Speaking at M.H.S., he dwelled on Russia, a country which he has visited 8 times. For one year he remained in a Russian school as a teen. His last trip was in 1966.

Topics of the religion, home, wages, prices, capitalism, marriage, farming and teens in Russia were presented. He sells the U.S.A. by contrast.

The whole student body responded attentively to his words. It was interesting to hear of a country we know so little about.

Finally the 1967 Anchoras have arrived. If they have not already been picked up, they may be after 2:45 in room 31. Photos are also on sale for 5 cents up to 30 cents.

Once again the students in Mr. Warren Emrick's senior effective living classes are being visited. Reverend Philip Hirtzel of the Mason Presbyterian church came and spoke as a marriage counselor. With class members as a hypothetical case, he asked questions which are asked when young couples prepare for marriage. Although he didn't go into all questions, he gave the students a good idea of what lies ahead, after graduation and an education.

Mr. Peter Robinson also came to speak, devoting his hour to life insurance. He explained the importance of being financially ready for an unexpected emergency which may arise when the student is independent of his parents and beginning to have his own dependent.

Both speakers were interesting and helpful. The class (Continued On Page B-12)

Holt Senior Play Proves Profitable And Entertaining

By CANDY BROWN
Holt High School

HOLT - The senior play, "Pygmalion," by G. Bernard Shaw, went very well and the seniors made a tidy sum of money. After the performance Saturday evening, Mrs. Jeanne Pfister, who has been working on costumes for over 6 weeks, was presented with a silver charm for her much appreciated efforts and a dozen long-stemmed roses.

Mr. John McAlear, who really labored to direct and present the play, was given a gift of a watch by the senior class. Mary Jo Glassner, who did an excellent job in her portrayal of Eliza Doolittle, was given roses after the performance.

Ticket sales are still being counted so the winning homeroom cannot yet be announced. The homeroom which has sold the most tickets will receive the mystery prize.

After the Saturday evening closing of the play the members of the cast and those who had worked on the production were entertained at a party at the home of Jerry DeRosa, one of the cast members.

Members of the junior class are proudly sporting their newly acquired class rings, which were delivered Thursday. A representative from the Balfour company visited the junior homerooms, where students paid the balances of the cost of their rings and then received them. Students who are now juniors or seniors and who wish to order a ring were given an opportunity at this time.

Holt High's new Varsity cheerleaders for the basketball season were selected Tuesday night. Those girls selected are Debbie Mulder, Diane Barrett, Jane Drumheller, Elaine Jackson, Pat Burt, Kathae Patton, and alternate, Sally Williams.

The student council has been assessing suggestions and complaints, as well as praises, and is in the process of drawing up plans for various changes around Holt high this year. A committee is working on plans for an activities period to be held once every 2 weeks in the afternoon. This time would be used for such things as meetings of clubs and other organizations.

A fund-raising committee within student council has announced that a project selling brown and gold felt banners to the students - has been organized. Everyone is looking forward to the arrival of these banners.

Some student council members who are supposed to give minutes of all meetings in homerooms are slacking off from their responsibilities. Therefore, plans are being made to attempt to read all council meeting minutes over the intercom to all classes. Suggestion boxes will probably be placed in homerooms for students interested in helping the council improve various situations around the school.

Because there is sometimes difficulty in all the students hearing the announcements made first hour in the morning, the council will attempt to have copies of the announcements dittoed and sent to all the homerooms.

It seems that the hall floors at Holt high are just TOO clean. Students entering the school often slip on the well-waxed floors. Student council has solved this problem by making arrangements for large mats to be placed by all the doors.

Time seems to "fly" at Holt lately. When checking the time, students are often seen to do double-takes as the clock hands spin merrily around. Many of the clocks needed corrections so a repairman has been working on the entire system. The students were overheard to say that they wished the clocks would go that fast from about 8 a.m. until around 3 p.m. and then slow down again!

Volunteers from the Holt Y-Teens were accepted by a representative for the Holt Home, Inc., to work one day a week at the home. These girls, after becoming familiar with the residents, will help the Candy Strippers by reading to the patients, writing letters for them, bringing them magazines and gifts, and perhaps helping in the kitchen occasionally. The Y-Teens who signed up will participate one day a week, from 4 to 6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, or Saturday, according to which day they preferred. This program was instigated by Debbie Shnaver, Holt Y-Teen president. Sponsors of the organization are Mrs. Anne Kressler and Miss Pat Bird.

School will be dismissed at 11:20 a.m. at Holt high next Thursday and Friday, November 15 and 16, due to the annual fall conferences. All parents are urged to attend these conferences.

turned out hilariously funny, although it was to the embarrassment of the persons involved. Everyone there agreed that it was an evening well spent. Friday, during activity period, a concert was given by the band. It was held in honor of Veteran's Day. Songs played were all patriotic. They included: America the Beautiful, God Bless America, You're a Grand Old Flag, a Overture International. At the end of the assembly students honored the day by having a moment of silence while facing our nation's flag. Then as the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" students sang the national anthem.

The beginning of basketball season was marked Monday when the boys started practice. Later on in the week the 3 teams were chosen. Tuesday, November 28, is the first basketball game of the season when we challenge Northwest on our court.

Members of the FTA and FHA have been practicing diligently the past week for this Friday when they meet each other on the basketball court. It looks as though this will be a game you wouldn't want to miss. After the game they are also going to put on a dance.

Students had 2 afternoons this past week of freedom. There was no school Tuesday and Thursday afternoon so that parent-teacher conferences could be held.

EXPLORE '67--Among some 2,000 young people attending a career opportunities conference staged at Michigan State university were (l. to r.) Mary Heincelman, Sally Brail and Ann Coon, all of Mason. They learned of careers in the areas of food, fiber and natural resources. Following the conference the Mason girls attended the Michigan State-Indiana football game.

Talent Acts, Dancing Enjoyed at FHA Mixer

By BELINDA BRADLEY
Dansville High School

DANSVILLE -- The Community Mixer turned out to be a great success last Friday night. Starting off the dance was music provided by the "Mystics" playing a variety of "rock 'n roll."

Next in line was a folk-singing group consisting of Marilyn Chelf, Candy Rabi-deau, and Peggy King. They sang "Cruel War" along with 2 other popular folk songs.

There were dances such as the polka and square dancing along with the popular dances of today. After the square dancing and polka came another folk-singing group, popularly known as the "We Folks". Included in this group are Louise Woods, Lucille Woods, Marcia Taylor, Kree Ann Weaver, Sonja Morris and John Townsend.

Along with such talents as singing, a group of high school fellows proved their talents by appearing in a chorus line, with each one dressed as a girl. By ending this routine each boy put on sort of a "strip-tease" act on his way to the locker room.

Along with all the various other talents, the time seemed to run out quickly and it was soon over. This dance was one of the best ever put on and many thanks should be given to the FHA members, Mrs. Briggs, and everyone who participated in it.

There was a prize for the girl who could sell the most tickets for the dance. The winner, Marlene Sid, a senior at Dansville, will be receiving a turkey dinner as a reward for her super salesmanship.

Seniors are now in the process of selling candy. The variety of candy being sold is as follows: mints, peanut brittle, assorted creams, pecan perks, home, chocolate cherries, and a gift box of chocolates. Any of these may be purchased from any senior at Dansville.

The senior play, under the direction of Mrs. Hunt will be held November 17 in the gym. The play, "Please to Meetcha" is a three-act comedy with mystery scenes in each act.

Included in the cast are Sara Oglesbee, Mike Barker, Trudy Haselby, Sarah Diehl, Marlene Sid, Patsy Clark, Byron Russell, Larry Church, Andy Cornett, Andy Bird, Jim Nottingham, and Lon VanOstran. The play starts at 8 p.m. and the tickets may be purchased from any senior or at the door. Everyone is hoping for a large turnout.

Last week Differential Aptitude tests were given to the entire freshman class. These tests are to help determine in what course or subject each student is highest.

Competitive Scholarship Examinations were also recommended to any senior planning to attend college next fall. The test was given Saturday morning. Some of the students took it at Stockbridge and others at Michigan State.

Sophomores are still selling Zip Code books. These include the codes for any town in the United States and for only $1, who could go wrong? If there is anyone who would like a zip code book, contact any sophomore at Dansville, or write a letter to the sophomore class.

Merlin, the Magician, Helps Erase Report Card Blues at Leslie

By SALLY HAYHOE
Leslie High School

LESLIE -- Friday proved to be a big day for LHS Seniors when their pictures came in. Pictures were received in the morning and all afternoon the exchanging of photos was done.

A day full of emotions at school was Wednesday. That day report cards were handed out, to the dissatisfaction of some students. Then as if to help make up for this a surprise assembly was held.

SALLY

Merlin the Magician came and showed students a preview of the show he was putting on that night for the community. At the show Wednesday night, which was put on by the Lions club, Merlin started by reading minds. Then he answered questions about the future for many people in the audience.

High point of the evening, though, was when he hypnotized 7 volunteers from the audience. He had them fighting off thousands of ants, freezing in below zero temperatures and boiling in temperatures above 100 degrees.

He even had one person eating away at an onion as though it were a delicious peach. A few post-hypnotic suggestions were given which

November's Market Reports Decline in Production of Milk

The early November market report from Dr. John Ferris, agricultural marketing economist at Michigan State University, shows milk production continuing a downward trend in Michigan and nationally; cattle on feed are up considerably, especially at lighter weights; and the hog market continues under pressure.

MILK--Production in Michigan continues to decline as the state-wide estimate for September was 5 percent under 1966. Production in the Southern Michigan market area was down by only 1.4 percent, however.

WHEAT -- Exports of soft wheat from the Eastern U.S. this year was more than double 1966 in the July to September quarter due to stepped up PL 480 authorizations, Passage of the Purcell bill to establish set-aside grain reserves would have some bolstering effect, but there is little in sight to push wheat prices up very much above the $1.30-$1.35 level this year.

DRY BEANS -- Prices on peabeans fluctuated between $8.10 and $8.85 in the first 3 weeks of October seeking levels which would match demands with quantities growers are willing to supply. An orderly marketing plan is advisable with prices at these levels.

Eating is Superb Down on The Farm--But It's Costly

Everyone knows that "down on the farm" eating is superb. But not everyone realizes that it may also be the most expensive item in the family living budget -- perhaps claiming nearly twenty-five cents of every dollar spent.

Truth is that steadily rising food costs sock farm families as well as their city-dwelling neighbors. In fact, the rise in food expense between '65 and '66 was 5.8 percent for one group of farm families -- slightly higher than the Consumer Price Index increase. These are findings of a recent study of the family living expenses of over 100 Michigan farm families. The study by Mrs. Barbara Ferrar, Extension home management specialist, utilized Michigan State University's TelFarm record-keeping system.

seemed to depend on such factors as size of income and family, age of husband, wife, and oldest child at home, as well as education of husband and wife, and the number of years married.

Total family expenditures were found to increase with age of husband, wife, and oldest child at home, wife's education, number of years married, and family income and size. Only the outlay for housing and personal insurance increased with the husband's education.

Most of the farm families studied were from the commercial agricultural areas of the southern half of the lower peninsula. Details are available in the Ag. Economics Report 75, "Farm Family Living Today."

Erosion Problems On Today's Farms

By LARRY TRIPP
 U.S. Soils Conservation Service

Gullied fields, streams filled with sediment, suffocating fish, and declining crop yields could be the result of the intensified agriculture on Michigan farms, except for one fact--today's farmer is practicing soil and water conservation. He knows he cannot stay in business long if top-soil is being carried away by wind or water.

mulched with straw various manufactured products that provide protection while the grass is getting established. In very erosive situations, sodding or even reshaping the area and using structures of concrete or other materials may be the answer.

ones that will be most beneficial and productive for his particular situation is one of the prime jobs of the Soil Conservation Service employees who provide assistance through the local Soil Conservation District. Larry Tripp, Work Unit Conservationist, states that technical help is available to any individual or groups in the district who have a soil or water problem on their land.

The progressive farmer today has a multitude of materials and techniques to choose from to keep wind and water from taking his soil. A conservation cropping system combines crops in the best sequence with the needed cultural and mechanical practices to keep the soil in place and productive on each field. Cultural practices that reduce erosion include plow-planting, management of crop residues, proper fertilization and liming (which produces more plant cover and residues), cover crops, or increased amounts of meadow crops in the rotation. Temporary strips of small grain or permanent rows of trees or shrubs are used where wind erosion is a problem. Mechanical practices such as contouring, strip-cropping, or terracing are becoming even more important as cultivation increases on sloping land. Sod waterways, erosion control structures, and proper drainage practices also reduce soil and water losses.

Pill Proposed for Blitz On Damaging Blackbirds

"The Pill"--for blackbirds and starlings, was one of several proposed control measures considered by farmer-delegates to the recent 48th annual meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau. Birth-control hormones placed in feeds was suggested by a Washtenaw county farmer.

berry grower was quick to take issue. He was joined by a Midland county woman who described the high-operating costs of a modern, irrigated blueberry farm, and of an instance in her area where one such farm was completely destroyed by starlings. Reinforcing her argument was a Genesee county blueberry grower. "Two years ago we trapped and disposed of 7,000 blackbirds and starlings in our fields. The college tells us those birds will eat a pound of berries every week. Since they feed for 6 weeks during the blueberry season, the 42,000 pounds of berries which would have been consumed in this instance can spell disaster to a blueberry grower..." he said.

Involvement is serious damage to crops and property in many areas of the state, plus hazards to aviation and the spread of human and livestock disease.

Sweet corn growers at the meeting reported near total crop destruction in some areas of Michigan, adding that once the ear is punctured the corn can no longer be considered fit for human consumption. They said that in some areas of the state, such as along Lake Erie in Monroe county, sweet corn can no longer be raised.

But dangers to human health was the clinching argument as the delegates endorsed an action program of bird control. In the words of one delegate, "Anywhere the birds congregate in large groups, their droppings contaminate the soil. Disease cycles may follow the birds from city roosting areas to dozens of animal feed-lots and fruit and vegetable fields in a single day... a long list of human ailments can be directly traced to this contamination..."

In discussing a proposed policy statement calling for stepped-up bird control programs and "adequate funds" to operate them, the farmers debated if such birds might not do considerable good along with the damage. One delegate pointed out that birds follow spring-time plows and harrows, picking up grubs by the thousands.

4 State Holsteins Given Recognition

Four Michigan bulls have qualified as Silver Medal Type Sires under the Holstein-Friesian Association of America's new plan of daughter-dam comparisons based on type classification scores.

They were: Wolverine Baron Maple 1422423, owned by B. Dale Ball, East Lansing; Graf Acres Chief Fobes 141-2782, owned by Fred Graf, Graf Acres, Stockbridge; Kierdale Inka Butterboy 141-9017, owned by James McKiernan, Richmond, and Zeldenrust Pure Gold 1326796 (EX), owned by Michigan Animal Breeders Corp., Inc., East Lansing.

The new method involves daughter-dam comparisons similar to those commonly employed in gauging a sire's ability to transmit production.

Under the plan, each cow's type score is converted to a percentage of the breed average for her age group. Comparisons are drawn between the resulting figures averaged for both dams and daughters.

To qualify for the Silver Medal Type award, a sire must have daughters with Ed Voss on every road near Mason was pleased with his crop of red kidney beans this year. His yield of 30 bushels per acre made red kidney beans a fairly profitable crop.

He planted them about June 1st but would like to get them in by May 25th if the weather permits. He plans next year to discontinue soybean production and concentrate on Seaway pea beans and Charlevoix red kidney beans.

In growing red kidney beans, it is important to plant blight free seed. California grows blight free red kidney seed but their variety is 2 weeks later than Charlevoix. Michigan's blight free seed is grown by The Northern Michigan Certified Seed Producers cooperative which was organized in May 1964 to market the seed beans produced in northern Michigan.

The members specialize in growing certified seed of the Charlevoix variety although some foundation seed of Charlevoix and pea bean varieties are also produced. The Association handled the production from about 200 acres in 1964, the acreage increasing to 800 by 1967.

Dirk Maxwell, Hope, is president and Justin Woloszyk, Lachine, vice - president, of the cooperative. Granet Rhode, treasurer, and Allen Schalk, secretary, both of Hawks, handle the sales for the association which represents the majority of the seed bean growers in northern Michigan.

In 1959 several varieties of pea bean, cranberry, yellow eye, and kidney beans were planted on Beaver Island land on the farm of Willie Schmidt through the cooperation of Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County Extension agricultural agent. The test results were excellent and we learned that high quality seed could be produced on Beaver Island.

However, there were some serious transportation problems to and from the island with seed and fertilizer that made it impractical. Other areas were then explored and in 1960 tests were made in Crawford county on the farm of Stanley Hummel.

In the same year 10 acres of an MSU experimental red kidney strain later named Charlevoix was increased on the Peter Winnick farm in northern Charlevoix county. The seed quality from these trials equaled that of Beaver Island. The increase field produced the first foundation seed and the seed bean industry in northern Michigan developed from these beginnings. In 1961, the production in Charlevoix county increased to 400 acres.

Area Entries Reported In International Show

Ingham county is among the many Michigan counties from which entries are reported for the 1967 International Livestock exposition, to be held in Chicago November 17 to 26 in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards.

Michigan State University and Brookshire Herefords, East Lansing, will be showing Hereford cattle; and Omega Farms, Webberville, and Mahogany Farms, Williamston, will be represented by entries in the Angus cattle contests of this event which will celebrate its 68th anniversary this year as the country's largest stock show.

Officials of the exposition report record turnouts in many breeds. A total of more than 7,000 head is anticipated for the competitions that will feature 37 different breeds of cattle, horses, sheep and swine.

Production of foundation and certified seed beans should be confined to the area north of Highway U.S. 10 on account of the possibility of infection with bacterial blight in the area south of this highway.

Foundation and certified seed bean program in northern Michigan is developed steadily and prospects are that the program will contribute at least $3,000,000 annually to the agricultural income of northern Michigan.

Soil Sampling In Fall Helps Farm Planning

While there is widespread agreement concerning the importance of soil testing to determine nutrient deficiencies, the importance of locating nutrient excesses and imbalances should not be overlooked, says E.C. Doll, Michigan State University soil scientist.

The soil scientist listed several reasons for taking soil samples in the fall:

- *Spare time for more carefully selected samples.
- *Quicker laboratory testings.
- *"Reaction" time for lime and potash applications.
- *Early fertilizer orders.

This last point can prove doubly gainful by permitting farmers to make exact fertilizer orders and take advantage of early sales discounts.

"Nutrient levels in the soil vary greatly, from year to year on the same field, and between different fields on the same farm," Doll said. "For efficient and effective soil testing, we need a sample that is representative of the field for which we want lime and fertilizer recommendations."

Soil sampling may be done any time in the year when frost is not present, according to Doll.

Salmon May Spell Trouble To Sport Fish Management

Coho salmon can become one of the greatest recreational assets to Michigan, or the program can backfire and cause serious trouble to our sport fishing management program, according to James L. Rouman, director of Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Rouman observed, "The Conservation Department's introduction of coho in suitable Michigan rivers has demonstrated that this import from the Pacific has great potential for both sport and commercial fishing. But the initial success of the coho program does not necessarily mean that this is a new Great Lakes resource which will stand the test of time. There are still too many unanswered questions. More biological information is needed before a generalized planting program is inaugurated."

For this reason Rouman commended the Conservation Department for resisting the pressures of local communities to plant coho in practically every river in Michigan. He said, "It is true that the value of the coho to Michigan economy may well run into the tens of million dollars. And every Michigan community naturally wants to cash in on this bonanza by getting into the act as soon as possible. This is understandable when agencies like the Manistee Board of Commerce quote figures indicating a double or tripling of local business income as a result of the 'coho fever' now raging in this State. But right now the emphasis should definitely be placed on research and management. Once the soundness of the coho program has been established beyond question, and the many doubtful factors resolved, the economic advantages will follow as a natural sequence."

For example, Rouman said that one of the problems yet to be solved is whether young salmon will coexist with other stream species such as brown trout during the one and a half years before migration to the Great Lakes. During that time they compete with other fish in the stream for food. Research has shown that brown trout will feed on young coho, and that's expensive fish food. Also, research has not yet determined whether brook trout will survive in streams where coho are planted, and brook trout now provide some of Michigan's finest sport fishing.

In commenting on the lack of forethought now being exhibited by many Michigan communities, Rouman quoted from an editorial in the Escanaba Daily Press: "This strikes us as conservation by politics and a poor approach to a subject that calls for the best scientific counsel that is available. The Conservation Department employs some of the best fish biologists available and has backstopping by specialists at the universities. They should decide where the fish plantings should go and also where subsequent plantings should go. The Department fared very poorly with the Legislature this year, even after enactment of the state income tax. It is the greatest orphan of all state departments and it isn't realistic to ask it for cohos when it is so hard pressed for money that it isn't filling job vacancies and is cutting back many programs."

Rouman urged that local groups encourage the Conservation Department to include in its coho plantings only those rivers that are most adaptable for this purpose and without depleting other valuable native species prevalent in the stream.

He concluded, "Communities interested in profiting from the coho would do well to address their requests to State and Federal legislators, as the need for legislative appropriations to underwrite research is truly desperate at this time. The honorable sportsman will see the wisdom of the advice, 'Go slow on the coho' so that the lure of a quick dollar will not override the permanent value of a sound, long-term resource investment."

Nuclear Plant Open Hours Set

New visiting hours at the Big Rock Point Nuclear plant information center will be in effect until spring, Manager Charles R. England said the center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Special group visits may be arranged for other hours by contacting the center. So far this year, 63,051 persons visited the center. The 6-year total is 494,957 persons.

PATRICE LEARY - Delightful young skating star, will be featured in the new International edition of Holiday On Ice coming to the Lansing Civic Center, November 22 through 26. The two-and-a-half hour ice spectacular features 7 lavish production numbers and many specialties and comedy routines.

Hunters Kill 5 Pet Geese At Woldumar Nature Park

There are all kinds of sportsmen and officials at Woldumar. The nature park west of Lansing would like to meet those who shot and killed 5 of the park's pet geese. Sometime ago Woldumar was given 2 pairs of Canadian breeding geese by the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary. The pair produced 6 young, 3 of which survived. All the birds were banded with a plastic colored band and also the nature band of the Fish and Wildlife Service. Their wings also were clipped to prevent them from flying away.

Leonard Stuttman, director of the park which is owned by the Nature Way association, said that on the opening day of the hunting season 5 of the birds were shot on the ground. The geese were in the lagoon area of the park at the time. Stuttman believes they were killed by more than one hunter, possibly 2 or 3. Hundreds of children have visited the park to watch the geese which were a big attraction, Stuttman said. It now will require considerable time to rebuild the flock. Woldumar is to be designated by the state conservation commission as a conservation educational reserve.

Stuttman would like the bands the birds were wearing returned to Woldumar that they may be turned over to the wildlife service. It has been suggested also that the hunters replace the breeding pair they killed.

'Claim Your Freedom'; Christian Science Can Show Way, Speaker Says

Not all prisoners are behind bars, a Christian Science lecturer said here Sunday, and defined imprisonment as any kind of unwholesome limitation or restriction.

"Whether we realize it or not, we're all to some degree in prison," Eugene D. Tyc, of San Diego, California, told an audience in Mason high school auditorium Sunday.

Age, sickness, unemployment--lack of education, companionship, money--alcoholism, drug addiction, lawlessness--fear, hatred, pride--these were some of the "prisons" he named.

"Even our astronauts--and perhaps you've never thought of them as prisoners--even our astronauts are trying to get out of the gravitational field of earth to reach the wonders of the universe," Tyc noted. His lecture was titled, "Claim Your Freedom," and his appearance here was sponsored by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Mason.

What is it that keeps us imprisoned? asked the lecturer. Not walls or bars, he noted, but our own mental attitudes. "We can never be completely free until we overcome in ourselves the restricting mental condition that is the cause of our imprisonment," he declared.

Tyc said that Jesus had told us nearly 2,000 years ago how freedom is to be won: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32). The truth we have to know--and which Jesus knew--is the truth about our real selfhood, Tyc explained. To know this truth, we must first understand the nature of our Creator, he said.

He quoted the definition of God found in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science: "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love."

The Bible explains that man is made in the image and likeness of God; therefore, the real nature of man must express the divine nature of God, Tyc reasoned.

It was through this understanding of the true nature of God and man that Jesus healed the sick, raised the dead, found tax money in a fish's mouth, and fed thousands with a few loaves and fishes, he declared. "No better example of divine Love in action can

Steady Prices Seen in Beef, Pork; Higher Costs Expected for Lamb

By EILEEN BELL
Extension Marketing Agent

While we Americans are gobbling up record amounts of meat during this year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture meat graders are hanging up new records, too. More than 15 1/2 billion pounds of meat are being efficiently graded. Most of it is beef, our favorite meat.

According to the USDA, red meat supplies from now to the end of the year will be slightly smaller than last year at this time. So prices will be higher than a year ago on most meat. The November outlook, however, is for steady prices on beef and pork (or about as they have been) and higher prices for lamb.

Good buys this season are poultry. Eight percent more turkey growing plus lots more than usual in storage give lower than usual gobbler prices. Economists say that much turkey will be sold at the meat counter at prices below the cost of raising the birds. If this happens over a continuing period of time, many turkey producers may be forced out of business.

Anyway, economy wise family food finders are descending on the turkey buys in flocks. The most meat for the money comes from the 16 pound and over birds. Lower prices per pound, the larger birds also give more meat, and less bone, per pound. Double bargain.

About a third of the turkey meat is going into turkey products—rolls, roasts, frozen gravy and sliced turkey, dinners* boil-in-bags, and other new conveniences. It's a real turkey hunt, but can be found in local stores—butter-basted turkeys. The butter is injected under the skin for basting during cooking. And thermometer wearing turkey is available. A thermometer comes inserted in him to tell you when the bird is done "just right."

The Michigan bean crop suffered many setbacks this harvest season so look for higher prices on the lowly beans. A good substitute is dry split peas, an economical, nourishing food which is low priced and harvesting in record supply now.

Egg prices are much lower than usual for this time of year. In past seasons we often switched to small-size eggs to get the most egg value for our money. This year many ignore the economy of the small size eggs because the large size is so reasonable. Law requires refrigeration of the eggs all along the marketing line. But when we home-makers get the eggs home we often mistreat them by letting them set out at room temperature. This lowers egg quality.

And we're enjoying more cheese. At record rate, we each ate a half pound more cheese last year than the year before. Fresh skim milk and low-fat milk also enjoyed new high record drinking.

We're using less butter and lard each year and more margarine. For each pound of butter purchased at food stores, two pounds of oleo-margarine are picked up now. Citrus fruits and juices continually gain in popularity. More citrus fruits are being grown and lower prices encourage our buying.

And we're eating more vegetables than in past years—more canned vegetables and especially more frozen vegetables. You don't eat wheat? You eat about 114 pounds each year, mostly in the form of baked goods. And each of us eats an average of almost 8 pounds of rice. Have you noticed the lower prices attached to dietetic fruits and vegetables lately? They price more nearly the regular items. This is due to larger production of the dietetic items and actually not much more cost to produce. An interesting fact, not in food buying, but for table conversation, is the current worth of chemicals in the human body. We're now worth $800—eight hundred dollars. We remember when it was quoted as 98 cents. This higher worth may add to egos. You see, demand for—and price of—enzymes and nucleic acids has gone up!

Seaman Recruit Willis C. Smith, USN, son of Mrs. Cecil R. Hawkins of 226 E. Elm street, Mason, has been graduated from 9 weeks of Navy basic training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

STOCKBRIDGE--Sonar Technician Third Class Robert H. Mitteer, USN, son of Mrs. Helen B. Mitteer of 704 S. Clinton street, Stockbridge, participated in the recovery operation for the Apollo 4 unmanned spacecraft as a crewman aboard the secondary recovery ship USS Carpenter.

The Carpenter, a destroyer, waited on-station in the Pacific as the Apollo made its flight Thursday. The primary recovery ship USS Bennington, stationed near Midway Island, made the pick-up of the capsule.

Launched by the Saturn V booster rocket, the spacecraft circled the earth twice at an altitude of about 100 miles. As it plunged back to earth and passed the 400,000-foot mark, the Apollo reached speeds up to 24,000 miles an hour.

Sergeant Timothy J. Glynn, son of Mrs. Mary T. Glynn of 803 Dart road, Mason, is a member of the U.S. Air Force defense organization that has been selected as best in the United States.

Sergeant Glynn is assigned to the Air Defense Command's (ADC) 26th Air Division that has won the coveted General Frederic H. Smith trophy. The trophy, which honors a former Air Force vice chief of staff now retired from active duty, was presented at division headquarters, Adair Air Force Station, Oregon, November 7.

The sergeant is a radar repairman with the 849th Radar Squadron at Red Bluff Air Force Station, California. He attended Mason Senior High school. His father, Cameron E. Glynn, resides at 2053 Rolfe road, Mason.

Warren Ransburg, 1817 Hagadorn road, who has been in service for the past 2 years, is now stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He served a year in Korea and has another year to serve. He was home recently on a month's furlough.

WEBBERVILLE - Jonny J. Workman, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Workman, 225 W. Grand River, Webberville, was promoted to Army private paygrade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft. Knox, Kentucky, October 27.

The promotion was awarded 28 months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

Bugs in Camp Bedding Plan

Backwoods deer hunters like straw for tent camp insulation and often haul bales north. But when this involves a trip across the Mackinac Bridge, there are bugs in the bedroll plan.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture reminds hunters that since all of the lower peninsula is under cereal leaf beetle quarantine, straw and hay may not legally be hauled into the upper peninsula unless accompanied by a certificate proving it has been fumigated to destroy the plant pests.

Rather than to track down a source of fumigated straw or risk confiscation at the bridge, the department's plant industry chief, Dean Lovitt, suggests that hunters pick up their straw from an upper peninsula source. "Most farmers or even gasoline station operators across the bridge will know a local straw dealer," Lovitt said.

The beetle quarantine is maintained to prevent spread of the pest to upper peninsula fields and crops. Dealers in hay, straw and other carriers of the beetle have their loads fumigated to destroy the beetles before moving out of quarantine areas.

Last year during deer season, Michigan Department of Agriculture plant inspectors had to seize and burn a considerable amount of hunters' straw headed north across the bridge.

Nostalgically the many friends both on board and dockside heard almost the last will and testament of the 450 passenger, 320 foot long, five-decked cruise ship that has for 53 years taken happy people either on weekend cruises or longer ones.

By CLARA C. STRANGE
News Special Writer

At 4 p.m. on October 16, 1967, the Detroit Fire Boat on the Detroit river, the harbor master's tug, and many other river craft escorted the S.S. South America on her bon voyage cruise to Expo '67 as she glided with grace and dignity away from the Detroit Dock on her last journey carrying passengers.

There was scarcely a dry eye after the departure ceremony at the docks. The heavy rain did not dampen the ardor of the many fans who were at dockside to see her and to hear the Master of Ceremony—William Luke of the Detroit Bank and Trust company introduce the representatives of the Mayors of Detroit and Chicago and other notables. Most important was E.J. Goebel, President of the Georgian Bay Lines, who told many of the interesting statistics of the Venerable Lady, the S.S. South America.

When they went from Detroit to Buffalo and Cleveland or stayed on for a longer time to go from Detroit to Mackinac Island on to Houghton, Michigan and then to Duluth, Minnesota and return to Detroit again for the full seven days cruise, all reported "a wonderful time" and many came back for subsequent cruises.

One passenger from Kansas City used to come with a trunk and stay a month, re-embarking for each successive cruise and enjoying it hugely every time.

Then, when it was announced there would be a farewell trip to Expo '67 friends of the Grand Old Lady tried to rearrange schedules to include this last cruise. Many others who had planned on going on one of her trips hurriedly packed and were "on board" when she made her gallant trip from the Detroit dock that rainy October 16.

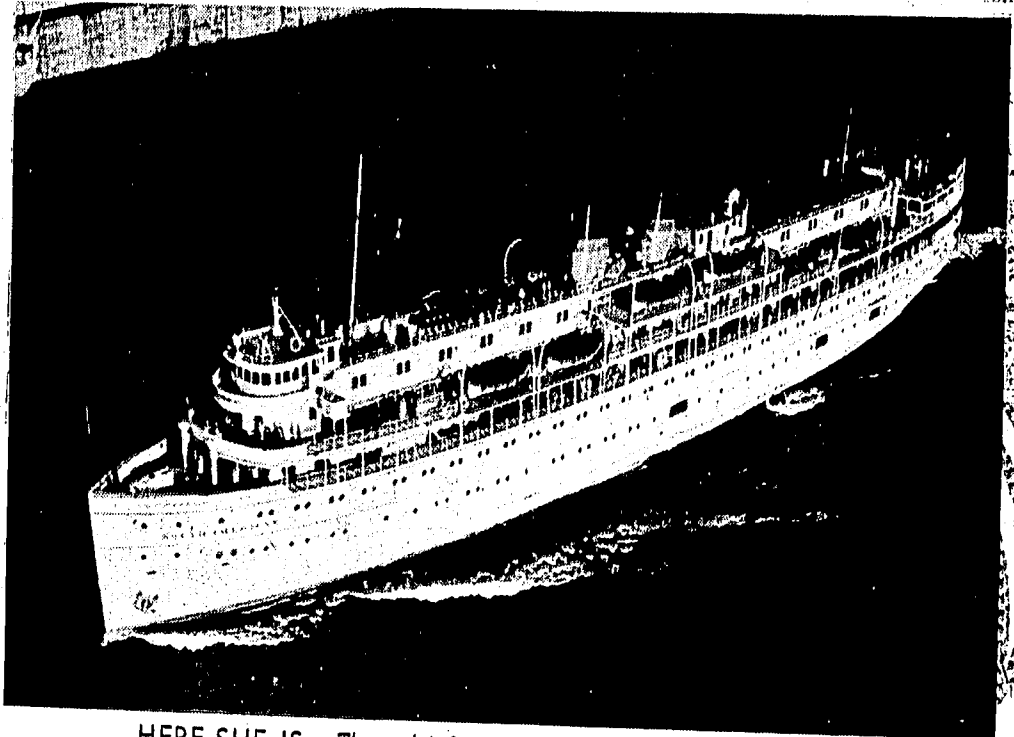

Meeting Miss Mary Lou MacIntyre, social director, and John Wyatt, the cruise director of the Grand Old Queen of the Lakes, made one realize it was like the breaking up of a family. It was more than retiring a beloved boat from Cruise Service.

Said Miss MacIntyre: "A few of us will never be separated. We entertained too many Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois high school seniors taking their class trips to forget each other. Then, too, we are constantly hearing of births, deaths and marriages of cruise people who have sailed with us. We will always feel close to them. Some of them have been on 45 trips with us—and even more. In the 27 years I've been sailing on the S.S. South American and the 24 years John Wyatt has been cruise director we have made real friends.

"We planned 7 cruises to Expo '67 and because of demand we have increased it to 17 but have never regretted having so many more. The only week we have traveled with less than a capacity was the one following the problems in Detroit."

Said John Wyatt: "It has been a delight to meet many new people on this last cruise who had always wanted to sail the Lakes on the Old Queen. This may be called almost an international cruise with a charming passenger from London, England; a young couple from Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Jan R. Bull, who are enroute to Vancouver after they have seen the Expo '67; a family from Mexico City, the Jose Travinos with three young sons. Their oldest son, Alejandro Travino is making his farewell civilian fling and will next go back to Mexico City to enter a Jesuit school. "Travino is a nephew of the late Francisco I. Madero, HERE SHE IS--The old friend who has served cruise members well--the S.S. South American, the grand old queen of the lakes. She has bowed out of the passenger carrying aspect of her career with all the dignity of a great and gracious lady. She carried a capacity of 450 passengers in her 320 feet of length and five decks.

a former president of Mexico who triggered the social reforms of his country. They have had four children as exchange students in the United States and are tremendously interested in our entire social economy. We have many charming guests from Windsor, Ontario which is nearly Detroit."

Many reminiscences could be heard on every side of nostalgic times aboard the S.S. South American. Some thought back to the days when the boat was used as a hotel during the Holland, Michigan Tulip festival; others sighed over special trips with companions not even living today. Mrs. Eleanor Estey from Boston, Mass. was cited for the many trips she and her husband had taken and for the time she waited through the six day tie-up when the Queen was in the mud before the days of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Eleanor was the only passenger going into port.

Others remembered the splendid "Mod" bands the cruise's used to have and thought the farewell entertainment brought them beautifully to mind when members of the crew gave a dancing version of their history first dancing the waltz, the charleston, the jitterbug, the twist and then the hooga loo with an accordionist Nancy Hearsh, recently of the Roosevelt in Detroit doing the musical accompaniment on the accordion. Jean Duquette and John Wyatt gave memory-provoking songs that brought back the "good old days" when a full orchestra and other entertainers were present on the acknowledged "Queen of the Great Lakes."

Goebel asked many members of the crew to stand and receive a last recognition after many years of service but none that was more appreciated than the Chef, in tall white cap and uniform who laughingly said it was the first time he had ever been able to "talk back." Those who had just finished a delicious seafood cocktail and a luscious filet mignon listened with great appreciation.

There was a general feeling of sadness when Mr. Goebel could scarcely proceed with his telling of how both he and his son met their respective wives on "the Queen" and especially when he called the boat "A good and faithful old Queen." He said he was conscious of great feeling not only when the organ at dockside in Detroit played "Sailing, Sailing, Over the Bounding Main" and then "Auld Lang Syne" when flags were flying from decorated masts, the Detroit Fire Boat sending up fountains of water but also when he realized that even the Heavens were weeping for the last passage of the valiant S.S. South American.

Mr. Goebel said he felt the sounding of the farewell and answering blasts from the ships in the Detroit River ended an era for him.

There was one aboard, John Magni, of Detroit, who has made over 50 trips--two this year--that his beloved Italy would perhaps always come first with his adopted United States a close second who said he should be granted an especial tear in bidding Arrivedict, which in Italian is "Goodbye."

Seek to Enlist Thousands In Promotion of Michigan

An invitation to all Michigan people to help tell Michigan's story nationwide and around the world throughout 1968 accompanied announcement today that John Whitlock, public relations manager of the Gerber Products company, Fremont, is public relations chairman for the 15th annual Michigan Week May 19-25.

The appointment was announced by Win Schuler of Marshall, Michigan Week general chairman.

The invitation came from John Whitlock following a conference of the 2 planning a volunteer campaign intended to have literally thousands of citizens at work vigorously and continuously on state promotion during 1968.

"We invite every resident of the state to join Michigan's public relations task force," Whitlock said. "We believe every citizen feels a responsibility for the state's progress and will be proud to help tell the story of Michigan's multitude of advantages.

"There is plenty of work for everyone in this volunteer campaign. We have room for a great many people on the state and local Michigan Week committees that will carry much of the burden. We want business firms, schools and organizations of all kinds to take leadership in the campaign and contribute talent and manpower in their own pursuits and through their own channels of trade and communication.

"Everyone has skills and contacts peculiar to his own field of activity. It is from this great Michigan resource that we plan to draw for promotion of Michigan and its many attributes as never before."

As chairman of the Michigan Week public relations board Whitlock will appoint more than 20 state committees representing all media in the state and various phases of advertising and promotion. His is one of 6 activity boards in which all state committees of Michigan Week are grouped.

3 Universities to File Suit Challenging 2 Legislative Acts

The governing boards of Michigan State University, the University of Michigan, and Wayne State University have agreed to file a joint suit challenging the constitutionality of 2 legislative acts. Purpose of the court action, presidents of the 3 institutions explained, is to "clarify the constitutional responsibility and authority of the governing boards." They believe such clarification will help to develop a more cooperative and effective relationship between the state legislature and the university governing boards in guiding the development of higher education in Michigan.

The two acts to be challenged are Public Act 240 of 1967 and Public Act 124 of 1965.

Both contain provisions which the governing boards believe are legislative infringements upon areas assigned to the boards by the state constitution.

The Wayne State University board gave its approval to the court action at its meeting Thursday morning (Nov. 9). It was the last of the 3 boards to consider the matter, the Michigan and Michigan State boards having approved earlier.

Act 240 is the appropriation act which provided operating funds for the state universities during the 1967-68 year. Among the provisions which the universities believe are unconstitutional is one which forbids the universities to undertake new or expanded programs, including any financed by gift or federal grants, without legislative approval. The act also forbids contracts for self-liquidating projects, such as dormitories, without legislative approval. A further provision states that universities shall not permit more than a 5 percent increase in nonresident enrollment, and no increase at all shall be permitted if current nonresident enrollment exceeds 20 percent of total enrollment. For each out-of-state student enrolled in violation of this provision, the university's appropriation will be reduced by $600.

Act 124 requires that the controller of the State Department of Administration hire the architect to plan university buildings and provides that the Joint Capital Outlay subcommittee of the legislature direct the controller as to priority of projects.

The contention of the universities has been that Act 124 is an invasion of their constitutional autonomy because the constitution gives the governing boards authority over all university funds and physical resources. Further, they point out, campus buildings are best planned by faculty members working with architects of the institution's choosing rather than by a central bureau in the state capital.

The Detroit legal firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone has been retained by the 3 universities.

Deer Processing Rules Outlined

Deer hunters planning to have their venison handled at a commercial establishment will not have much new to worry about in connection with Michigan's statewide meat inspection or food inspection laws, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The meat inspection regulations, in force for the first time during the 1966 season, provide for licensing of all commercial slaughter plants by the agricultural department. Meat processed in these plants is subject to continuous inspection for consumer protection.

The only change this brings, as far as deer hunters are concerned, is that deer and other wild game must not be butchered at the same time that commercial meat is being slaughtered.

As before, under food inspection laws, deer may not be kept with hides or in rooms where commercial meat or foods are stored. Slaughter and locker plant operators are familiar with these regulations, the department says, and there should be no problems for hunters.

Department food inspectors recommend that deer be promptly and carefully dressed after killing. The body cavity should be flushed with clear water or wiped as free of blood as possible. After dressing, prompt chilling and protection from freezing or warm temperatures is recommended. Meat should be frozen only after it is cut up into meal-sized portions and packaged for storage.

Dart Haynes Is Attending Judson College

Dart Duane Haynes, the son of Leo Haynes of Route 1, Mason and a 1967 graduate of Mason High school, is attending Judson college in Elgin, Illinois.

Judson is a small, coeducational, liberal arts college, founded in 1963 and affiliated with the American Baptist convention. Its 10 new buildings of colonial architecture are located on 61 picturesque acres in a midwest setting of rolling hills and trees, a small lake and winding walks with bridges crossing a meandering creek.

The school features a trimester schedule which permits students to earn their AB degrees in 3 years.

is a semester course designed to help the high school senior prepare for the adult world.

The choral department, conducted by Warren Enrick, and members of the speech classes will present an assembly November 22. The speakers are chosen by Mrs. Jo Oesterle, speech teacher.

The assembly will be based on patriotism and Thanksgiving, 2 prominent parts of our American heritage. Members from the mixed chorus, boys glee and girls glee clubs, plus the Madrigals, will sing moving songs coinciding with the theme. Interwoven, speeches will be made by the selected high school students, from the speech classes.

The F.H.A. and F.F.A. combined for a barn dance on November 10. The dance was held in the barn of Jim Laws on Hawley road, Mason. Club members had a fun time dancing as in the early days and roasting hot dogs over a warm, cozy fire. There was only one drawback, however. Rain and cold dampened the hot dogs, though not the spirits. Mr. Mike O'Malley and Mrs. Jan Waldron are advisers to the groups. Members and faculty sponsors seem to be pleased with all the cooperation that the 2 clubs have shown in working together.

Eighteen students will be inducted into the National Thespians Society, Troupe 2916 on November 15 beginning at 7:30 p.m. Parents and relatives will witness the formal ceremonies. Mrs. Jo Oesterle is sponsor for the troupe.

The purpose of the society is to further the dramatical arts. All members have received points on a national rating scale for time and efforts contributed meritoriously in dramatics. Points are achieved through stage acting, directing, backstage crew, musical talents and public speaking in competition. Small points can be made by theater trips and dramatics aids.

Members for the 1967-68 year, beginning, are as follows: Dixie Best, Larry Bidle, Nancy Brown, Doug Dillard, Eugene Dowling, Jean Gilpin, Tom Jackson, Dawn Jacob, Steve Jewett, Dennis Mick, Jeff Oesterle, Kathi Phillips, Kathy Prudon, Ann Pifer, Jean Sparks, Robbie Tear, Jill Feraburg and Jim Powers. Members from the previous year are Randy Klemmer, Julie Seyfarth, Bruce Peek, and Sherman Birchfield.

Student Council met Tuesday during first period. Mayor Randy Kalembert brought up the activities control clause for the second time. This amendment was defeated on its first mention. Other items on the agenda were a vote on the proposed changes to the Capital Circuit Council constitution and plans running parallel to the speech and choral department's participation in the all-school assembly on November 22.

Cheerleading tryouts are scheduled for November 17, Friday, after school. Both varsity and junior varsity squads will be chosen from senior, junior and sophomore classes, with only seniors and juniors eligible for varsity. Mrs. Webster, the adviser, is hoping to have additional squad members for the varsity, consisting of boys.

The first swimming practice was Monday. Mr. Ron Meddler will be coach. Approximately 30 senior high boys are out for the team. Swimming meets with Waverly, East Lansing, Everett and Corunna, just to mention a few, are scheduled for the winter season.

Kathy Prudon, Connie Howe, and Eugene Dowling, all M.H.S. students, auditioned before the Michigan School Vocal Association on November 11. They were honored by being among the 75 students from across the state to be taken into the M.S.V.A. State Honors Choir. Each should be congratulated for his outstanding musical talents, which helped to obtain these positions of honor.

Football season ends and basketball quickly begins. Both varsity and junior varsity teams are busy with practices. This is in preparation for the first game on December 1, with Haslett. The away game will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the J.V.'s taking the floor.

J.V.'s are coached by Mr. Art Frank. He is beginning his second year as coach. Already he has chosen his 18 member team, which consists of Dave Fink, Dave Snyder, Randy Caltrider, Mike Johnson, Brian Oesterle, Al Starr, Chuck Berg, Tom Phelps, Zane Kauffman, Bob Leonard, Mark Allaire, Gary Owens, Greg Palmer, Duane Rens, Bob Lock, Dan Ware, Darryl Lauba, and Gene Battin. It's a large team with plenty of potential and drive.

Coach Bruce DePue is keeping his team to 12 men. He is beginning his second year as varsity coach, though he previously coached the junior varsity.

Remaining after the final team selection are Ron Underwood, Jim Powers, Gary VanderVeen, Dan Crowe, Pat Birney, Doug Engle, Jim Elliott, Craig Webster, Marvin Oesterle, Rick Smith, Den Dancer and Ron Perrine. The team is hungry for a victory season, and will be a threat to all.

The third issue of the Hi-Life goes on sale Thursday. Price is only 10 cents for one great issue. This week's paper has 11 pages of exciting news.

The debate team met O'Rafferty in a practice meet November 13. Mrs. Jean Zachariah, coach, is hoping that they can win their next meet, later on in the week.

It's hard to believe that school days have passed so rapidly. Already we are in the fourth week of the second period. Only 9 weeks remain before semester exams and break.

Law Covers Theft of Yule Trees

Deer hunters and others tempted to haul a Christmas tree home from the north are reminded by the Michigan Department of Agriculture that transportation of trees, evergreen boughs and some other plants is illegal without a bill of sale or proof of property ownership.

During the month of December, there is an exception to the law, and not more than 2 trees may then be transported without any bill of sale. This exception was arranged to accommodate the heavy pre-Christmas traffic in trees, the agriculture department said.

MISHAPS AT HOME
NEW YORK--Deaths in home accidents in the United States increased 5.4 per cent from 28,000 in 1965 to 29,500 in 1966, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

we care

A turkey is a turkey... not really!

Take A&P's "Super-Right" Turkeys, for example. Because we understand how important the turkey is to your dinner, we do everything possible to be sure there are none finer than "Super-Right" Turkeys.

We start by carefully selecting the growers from whom we buy. To assure perfect turkeys, we buy only U.S. Inspected Grade "A" birds. To assure tenderness, we buy only young turkeys from this year's flock. Because we care this much about "Super-Right" Turkeys, we know you can't buy better... even at a premium price.

So, we don't hesitate to offer you DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK if our turkey isn't everything you think it should be.

Now that you know you can't lose on the turkey, here's something else that's important: If you make A&P your store for all holiday needs, you're sure to be satisfied, because we guarantee everything we sell, no matter who makes it.

Isn't this the week to give A&P a try?

*Bring in the price label or register tape, of course.

4	20	34	54	72

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS: Each week (Adults only, please) pick up your Free Bingo Cards from the sponsoring merchants listed below. Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish each day of the week. THE MORE CARDS YOU PLAY THE BETTER YOUR CHANCES ARE TO WIN.

HOW TO PLAY: To play, check the ads in EACH WEEK'S issue of the Ingham County News. The ads of the merchants listed below will contain one or more "Newspaper BINGO" numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol (shown above). Occasionally numbers, in the "Bingo Bug" symbol, may be found elsewhere in the paper. IF YOU CAN MATCH (JUST CIRCLE OR "X" THE MATCHING NUMBERS) ALL 24 NUMBERS ON ONE OF YOUR BINGO CARDS WITH THE TOTAL OF THE NUMBERS PUBLISHED IN THE ISSUE OF THE NEWS EACH WEEK - YOU HAVE A "BINGO!" - AND YOU ARE A WINNER!!!

AT LEAST $50.00 WEEKLY!! Winners will share a weekly $50 Bingo Bucks prize. If there is only one winner, he wins all of the Bucks. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share the Bucks equally. If there are no winners any week, the $50.00 weekly Bingo Bucks will be added to the following week's prize fund.

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER: A new game will start each Wednesday and be completed the following Monday. A new set of Bingo numbers will be published for each week's game. A new color of Bingo cards will be available each week at the sponsoring merchant's stores. To be eligible to win, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week's game. The color of the cards for each week's game will be announced on this page.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER: If you have a winning Bingo card, on which all 24 numbers have been matched with the total of the numbers published that week in The News, write your name, address, phone number, and the name of the store where you got your winning card on the back of your card and mail or bring to The Ingham County News, 222 West Ash Street, Mason, Michigan, on or before 5 p.m. the Monday following the publication of each Bingo game.

RULES OF THE GAME

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY: There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at the office of this newspaper - also at the public library. You may play as many cards as you wish - they are free. Get as many cards as you wish - one at a time - from the friendly merchants listed below. (Adults only, please).

DIFFERENT COLOR OF CARDS EACH WEEK: The color of the cards changes each week. To be a winner, you must play cards of the correct color for that week. Mutilated or altered cards will not be honored. ALL 24 NUMBERS MUST BE MATCHED TO WIN.

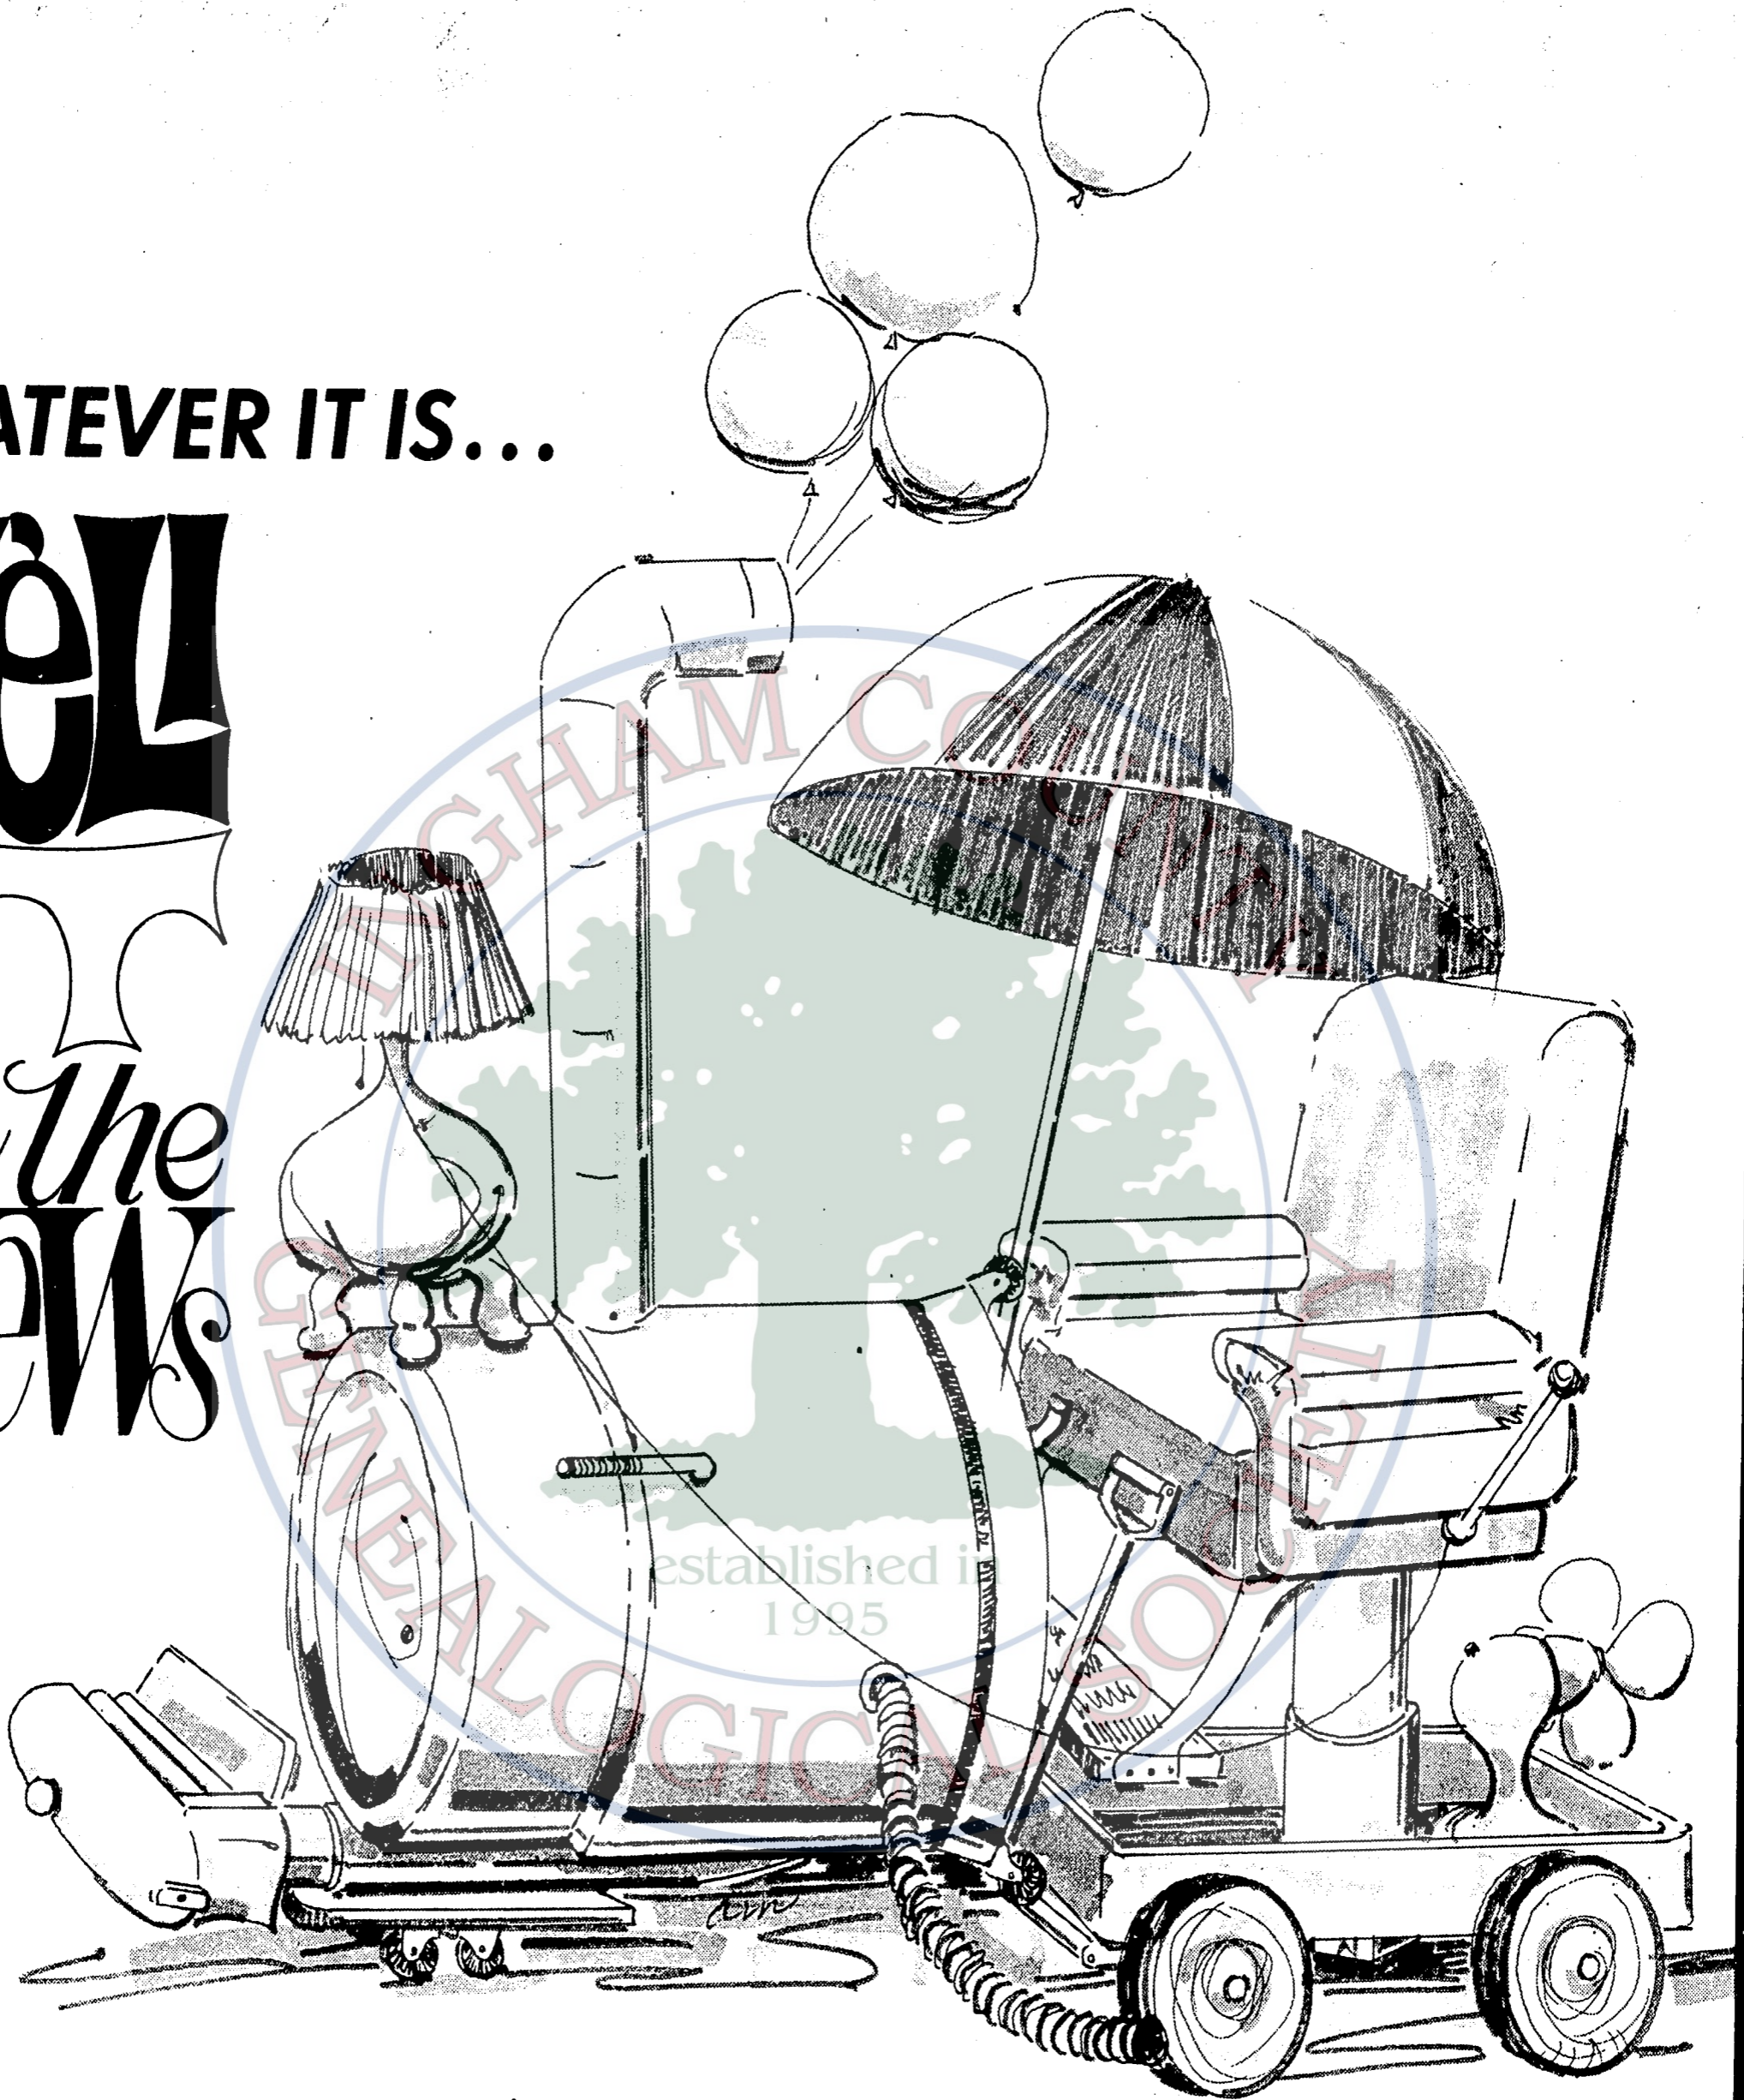

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS: The Bingo numbers for each week's game are drawn from a revolving Bingo number dispensing cage at the office of this newspaper. Some duplication of Bingo numbers may occur in sponsor's ads. This duplication does not affect the total of the numbers drawn or the game. All numbers drawn will appear in the sponsoring merchants' ads, also possibly elsewhere in the newspaper, for each week's game. Employees of The News and their families are not eligible to win any of the cash prizes.
