One Moment, Please

"An offset cover will give a touch of optimism or jubilation to THE RAINBOW, and I believe there is much for Δ T Δ to be both optimistic and jubilant about." Thus commented one of our counselors, in judgment of the suggested plan to use an illustrated cover for the current Volume of THE RAINBOW, beginning with this number. The Arch Chapter approves the change and we submit it to your critical opinion.

Speaking of optimism and jubilation, the news flash on page 2 reflects both. In the forefront in scholarship for several years among their competition, the undergraduate chapters have reached a new high record in rank, average index, and in the number of chapters exceeding the All Men's Averages in their institutions—which is the real barometer of academic performance. In the January, 1937 number of THE RAINBOW, there will be a detailed discussion by the Supervisor of Scholarship, of the Fraternity's record and future program. We couldn't resist the impulse, however, when going to press, to break the news to the Delt world, and especially to the undergraduate chapters whose traditional winning spirit and desire to excel in scholastic competition, the same as in other fields of competition, is making a signal contribution to the history of Δ T Δ. Next year we hope THE RAINBOW may salute the winner without necessity of the qualification that one fraternity is a step ahead.

We commend to you the papers by two Delt college presidents—Brown University's Henry M. Wriston and Δ T Δ Supervisor of Scholarship, who brings to you with consummate skill a stimulating thought on the practical objective, in his "The Past and the Present," and Hillsdale College's Willfred O. Mauck, a former Δ T Δ Supervisor of Scholarship, who speaks of the College and Fraternity, Incorporated, and the ultimate unity of these two kindred institutions in their common purpose.

With some misgivings we present "Delts in Football." It is fairly easy to spot in the headlines the star performers, but all top-flight performers do not always reach the headlines, which frequently submerge the many who make the results possible. But we take a chance, in the belief that the unsung Delt heroes of the gridiron have balanced their ledgers with that peerless asset—the satisfaction of doing the job—which is the fundamental requirement of a superb performance.

In the line of miscellany you will find stories and articles concerning individuals and news in the Delt world. In Around the Fireplace, there is reproduced a copy of the Fraternity Criteria of the National Interfraternity Conference, in substantial compliance with which the long-range program of Δ T Δ for many years has been in agreement.

With this brief foreword, we offer to you the November, 1936 number of THE RAINBOW.

News Flash!!!

The  $\Delta T \Delta$  scholarship average index for the undergraduate chapters for the year 1935-36 was plus 1.38. This record has been exceeded by only one of the seventeen fraternities which have fifty or more chapters. The  $\Delta T \Delta$  average index for 1933-34 was minus .49, and for 1934-35, plus .60.

The average index is computed in accordance with a system adopted by the National Interfraternity Conference and the National Associations of Deans and of Registrars, and it represents approximately the percentage by which the composite record of all the chapters of  $\Delta T \Delta$  exceeds the average of all men in their institutions.

The best records have been made by Gamma Psi, plus 22; Delta Lambda, plus 18; Delta Alpha, plus 17; Gamma Pi, plus 16; Gamma Xi, plus 16; and Rho, plus 15. The poorest records were made by Omicron, minus 28; Beta Epsilon, minus 22; Beta Phi, minus 20; Gamma Rho, minus 18; Beta Beta, minus 12; and Beta Upsilon, minus 11.

The significance of these high and low records is shown by the fact that if the six best chapters had done only average work, the record for the entire Fraternity would have been slightly on the minus side, which means that these six chapters carry the entire load of  $\Delta T \Delta$ 's good record, and if the members of the six poorest chapters had merely equaled the output of the average man on their campuses,  $\Delta T \Delta$  would have made the highest scholastic record ever made by one of the large fraternities.

By Divisions,  $\Delta T \Delta$ 's 1935-36 scholastic record reads:

Eastern	plus 3.99
Southern	plus 1.79
Western	plus .48
Northern	minus .30

The Past and the Present

By HENRY M. WRISTON, Gamma Zeta (Wesleyan), '11, Supervisor of Scholarship

COMMENTATORS upon American life may for the most part be divided into two groups. One group has its eyes fixed upon the past, and it looks back upon a golden age now unhappily ended. These men maintain that there was a time when political leaders were statesmen rather than politicians. They look back upon Washington, upon Lincoln, and compare modern presidents unfavorably with the great figures of the past. There was a time when religious leaders announced their gospel with passionate zeal and marked effectiveness. Jonathan Edwards lifted people out of themselves, and a great revival spread over America. Educators were dedicated to learning and the improvement of youth; the ideal of Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and an eager youth upon the other has become the well-worn classic illustration. Democracy in those happy days was pure and uncorrupted. Jefferson looked the monarchist boldly in the eye, and Jackson gave the rough-and-ready westerner his place alongside the seaboard planter and the northern merchant in the American system. Literature was Victorian in its morals, classical in the purity of its diction, elevating in its objectives. This group finds so much to admire in the past that the present seems utterly shoddy by comparison.

The second group is impatient of the past. It is gone, they say, and there is nothing we can do about it. But while the present is unsatisfactory, there may be a golden age in the days to come. These commentators foresee a planned system where nature does the work of mankind, and the greatest problem is the problem of

DR. HENRY M. WRISTON recently accepted an appointment as president of Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island, and will take office February 1, 1937.

He became president of Lawrence College in 1925. His administration at Lawrence has brought the college to an enviable position in the academic world as he has inaugurated several innovations of unusual interest. In 1929 he became the director of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, a graduate school which he assisted in founding as an affiliate of Lawrence College.

Dr. Wriston served as president of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1933-34; as president of the Association of American Colleges, 1935-36; as president of the Educational Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1933-34; and he has been a trustee of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching since 1933.

leisure. Mankind itself will have been disciplined into orderly progress through Communism or Fascism or some other system which molds men into an army with its face to the future. The Utopia described may be political or social; it may be mechanical or commercial, as the tastes of these several prophets vary; but one thing they have in common. They urge us to live for the future and to plan for the future. It is true that most of their plans levy a heavy tribute upon the future by piling up debts for our children to meet. Sometimes one is fain to question whether the enrichment they plan can outstrip the impoverishment they impose. Their response is that money can be managed in such a way that Peter will never have to pay Paul so the robbing of Peter will stop.

Both these groups of commentators have a single quality in common. Both are totally dissatisfied with the present. The first group insists that the present is not as good as the past; the other that the present is not as good as the future. We can make a kind of chart showing the descending curve of the pessimists and the rising curve of the optimists crossing at the present moment. Now the striking thing about these commentators is that they have had their prototypes in earlier ages. By a species of non-Euclidean geometry that makes the Einstein principle seem simple, the present changes with the changing times, but the line of the pessimist looking back on a golden age always crosses the line of the optimist looking forward to the golden future at the present, whether that present occurred a hundred years ago or today.

For hundreds of years men have moaned about the present. They have insisted that the schools mislead and betray youth, and voices cry aloud in America today that the educational system has failed. They forget that centuries ago Socrates drank the hemlock because he misled and betrayed youth. Yet the pessimists now look back upon Socrates as one of the greatest of all teachers, though to the commentators of his own time he seemed a traitor to his calling. The politicians have always been denounced as without scruple or statesmanlike grasp. We forget that Thomas Paine could not decide whether Washington was "an apostate or an impostor," and that Stanton called Lincoln "a great baboon." Those figures, which seem so heroic in the perspective of the present, in their own days were mocked and derided.

The writers of today bungle their prose and mangle their poetry, and that was the contention centuries ago. Taste is low; art is dead; music is trivial and shallow; religion is sterile. Through all the ages the pessimists and optimists have joined in that chorus. The economic and social orders are matched in undesirable characteristics only by the utter ineptitude of the political structure. Thus the commentators have gone wailing through history, standing back to back, each with his eyes focused on a distant point. As one wails for the glories of the past, the other is yearning for the visioned splendors of the future. But all about them everything is miserable. I was interested recently to hear one of the greatest industrial figures in America begin an address by asserting "our generation has failed."

Both sets of commentators are wrong. The past, indeed, has its great moments. There have been noble figures; there has been a great literature; the arts have given us a great inheritance; science has enriched life; and the structure both of society and of politics has exhibited magnificent developments. As the past has had its great passages, it has equally its black pages. There is the story of civil war which has riven mankind from age to age. There is the story of international war since men first knew the difference between brother and stranger. There have been squalor and filth; there have been exploitation and slavery; there have been ignorance and superstition. The man who would turn back the clock is either a coward or a fool, and those who bemoan the present because of the lost glories of the past are blind to some of the most significant facts touching both.

Those who look only to the future are equally foolish. You will remember that in Through the Looking-Glass the White Queen said that they had jam "every other day," and so they never had it, because "today isn't any other day." The "other day" of the optimist never comes. As one looks back upon the commentators through the years, one finds many guesses regarding the future, and nearly all of them bad. It was asserted within a century that men could not travel at sixty miles an hour because at that pace they would be unable to breathe. It was asserted within our own generation that if man succeeded in destroying one atom, the destruction of that atom would release so much energy that it would destroy the next atom, and all the atoms would go to pieces like a row of dominoes falling when one is touched. This bad guessing is inevitable, for if one could envisage the future, if one could imagine what is to come with any degree of accuracy, then the word "future" would cease to have any meaning whatever. The very idea of "future" involves inevitably the element of surprise, of novelty and unexpectedness.

I suggest that we follow the lead of neither of these groups. Why not plant our feet firmly in the present and recognize that this age, even as we climb from the depression, is the best and the most civilized of all history? Why not meet our own issues and solve our own problems and cease worrying about the relative merits of the past or the prospective glories of the future? These flights to the past or to the future are simply escape mechanisms, which is the psychological term for "passing the buck." Such escapes from reality have their proper use in relaxation, but they have their improper uses when they fasten unreality upon one as a continuous state of being. The people who flee from the present are not very courageous. They find it easier to insist that the past was better than to make today better. They find it easier to draw blue prints of some future; it looks enticing because there is no chance of its being tried, and they can concern themselves with its unrealities rather than with the problems of today. Thus it is that we have the enormous following of that group whom Westbrook Pegler called the "modern Mahatmas," like Dr. Townsend.

The fraternity man may well apply this to himself. It is often said that you are preparing yourself for the future. That is the common theme of curriculum builders. It is the usual formula of the Commencement speaker. In that way they are suggesting that the future is more important than the present.

Whenever anyone tries to persuade you that you are getting ready for something, whether to earn a living or to manage the city or to bring up other children, he is insisting by inference that those things are more important than the self-development which should be your present preoccupation. It is denying the reality and the significance of the current day-to-day experience which is all you have now, which is all you ever had before, and which is all you can ever hope to attain. The past is gone, and while it is not insignificant, and your own past and that of the race should contribute to your experience, it is nonetheless irretrievable. The future you cannot count upon, and those who use the word "security" with reference to the future simply mislead a gullible people.

The Lawrence Chapel

The Institute of Paper Chemistry Which Dr. Wriston Assisted in Founding

You cannot count upon your own fitness for the job you dream of. You cannot foresee the accidents which will deflect from one job to another. You cannot foresee the technical and social developments. There are millions of people living today in Soviet Russia who were born and brought up in Czarist Russia, and the plans which are made today may be overthrown tomorrow. Millions of men who were trained to be clerks, lawyers, doctors, and mechanics found themselves in the World War carrying guns instead of following their vocations.

This has one implication for your work. If you concentrate on the present as you should, you can never give an alibi for laziness by saying, "I shall go to work when the real job starts." Your present job is as real and as exigent as any you will ever have. You must interpret everything you do in terms of your present life, for if you train yourself for a vocation you cannot expect that vocation to stand still and receive you into it.

Your job, then, is to develop yourself in personality, in intellect, in emotional sensitiveness and control; and that is no mean enterprise. The values which emerge are not dependent upon the future. They are intrinsic in the effort and the achievement itself, for growth is its own justification. As the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said in the midst of a judicial decision: "Life is action, the use of one's powers. As to use them to their height is our joy and duty; so it is the one end that justifies itself."

Self-realization, therefore, is its own justification, and it is the best of all guarantees of future effectiveness. Techniques will change; procedures will become obsolete; the tricks of the trade will yield to better and more difficult tricks; but significant people, effective man power, have never yet become obsolete. If you meet today's problem effectively, the experience gained adds power to solve tomorrow's problem with better efficiency. If you slide over today's problems by talking about those of tomorrow, then tomorrow will find you wanting to talk about the problems of the next day, and you proceed through life forever dodging the issue.

The secret, then, for the fraternity man is to learn from the past and to hope for the future but to live completely, vigorously, and wholeheartedly in the present.

Elmer Scott: A First Citizen of Dallas, Texas

By JOHN A. RAWLINS
Gamma Iota (Texas), '18

ELMER SCOTT, executive secretary of the Civic Federation of Dallas, was educated at Ohio Wesleyan University between the years 1885 to 1889, during which time he was a member and president of Mu, and a leader in school activities as well as in scholarship.

After a long business experience with Sears Roebuck & Company, first in Chicago, beginning in 1895, and later in Dallas, Mr. Scott resigned in 1913 to devote his time to the development of Dallas. At the request of Henry D. Lindsley, then mayor, he became the first director of the department of public welfare of the city of Dallas. He had long felt the need of a place where interested men and women might gather to discuss and learn of matters of civic, national, and international concern. In 1917 the idea took the definite shape of the Civic Federation of Dallas, a unique institution devoting its energies to the development of civic and social consciousness through the channels of adult education. During its twenty years of existence under Elmer Scott's leadership, the Civic Federation has prepared social studies on varied topics, such as wages and hours, newsboys in Dallas, negro housing, and marriage and divorce. He has personally codified and annotated in two handy volumes the laws of Texas relating to social problems. Outstanding educators of the nation have been presented in informal classes and seminars covering a wide range of topics. A library of the best books in the fields covered has been gathered.

Ten years ago the Civic Federation laid the foundation for the training of social workers in Texas by establishing the Southwestern Social Service Institute.

Feeling the need for a more popular medium than the study group, two years after founding the Civic Federation Mr. Scott was instrumental in the development of the Dallas Open Forum, which has for eighteen years presented the foremost speakers of the day to Dallas audiences with no charge.

He is a member of the American Association for Adult Education. Other Dallas institutions which Mr. Scott has helped to organize and of which he remains an officer are the Dallas Little Theater, the Child Guidance Clinic, Bradford Memorial Hospital, University Club, and Dallas Alumni Chapter of  $\Delta T \Delta$ .

Mr. Scott has the keenest interest in all types of community development, and in 1924 made a walking trip through Denmark and England to study the developments of adult education. He has recently returned from an extensive trip through Nova Scotia, where he studied the adult education movement sponsored by St. Xavier College.

Elmer Scott has been listed in Who's Who in America for many years.

In 1924, in recognition of his outstanding services, he was awarded the Linz Cup, offered annually "for the greatest personal service to the general welfare of Dallas."

The Dallas Morning News, on the occasion of Mr. Scott's seventieth birthday, carried the following editorial April 14, 1936:

"As long as the fundamentals of real Americanism are honored, the work of such a man as Elmer Scott of Dallas will continue to command the approval of his fellow citizens. Liberty of conscience, freedom of speech and press, the safeguarding of all civil liberties, and a democratic approach to the solution of problems confronting the people are as worth fighting for today as they were one hundred years ago at San Jacinto or one hundred sixty years ago at Valley Forge.

"The nineteenth annual luncheon of the Civic Federation of Dallas will be held today with two distinguished speakers from a distance on the program. The gathering happens to fall on the seventieth birthday of the founder of the organization. Inevitably it becomes an occasion of honor for the individual who has been such a potent factor in the life of Dallas and the Southwest since he first came to live here more than fifty years ago.

"First as an executive of an important mercantile house, then as creator of the public welfare department of the city of Dallas, during the last two decades as a driving force in the adult educational movement, Elmer Scott's fame has spread far beyond the borders of Texas. The Encyclopedia Britannica states that the Dallas organization has become the outstanding example of a privately supported institution in the field of adult education.

"Modesty bordering on selflessness has been a dominant trait in Mr. Scott's character. Yet the community wants him to know on his seventieth birthday that it fully appreciates his virtues of old-fashioned Americanism, his sane vision, and his unfaltering humanity, even though it may not tell him so to his face again until he reaches his eightieth birthday."

Here's an Inkling of Karnea Plans from Pittsburgh

By W. STEWART TOWNSEND, Tau (Penn State), '32

PITTSBURGH, the workshop of the world, the city of bridges, a hotbed of Deltism, and the site of the 1937 Karnea, will be the  $\Delta T \Delta$  Mecca, August 26, 27, and 28, 1937.

In outlining  $\Delta T \Delta$ 's Fifty-fourth Karnea, in the August, 1936 number of The Delta Tau Delta News, Norman MacLeod, former President of the Fraternity and Chairman of the 1937 Karnea Committee, wrote:

"Back to the Birthplace of the American College Fraternity" might well be adopted as the slogan for the 1937 Karnea, which is to be held in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, August 26, 27, and 28, 1937. . . . As far as  $\Delta T \Delta$  is concerned, of course, everyone knows that fifty miles from Pittsburgh, at Bethany College at Bethany, Virginia (now West Virginia), in 1859,  $\Delta T \Delta$  was founded.

. . . "In the history of our own Fraternity, a few miles directly west of Pittsburgh is Ohio Wesleyan University, seat of Mu Chapter, rich in historical lore of  $\Delta T \Delta$ , and one hundred miles north of Pittsburgh at Allegheny College is the seat of Alpha Chapter. The oldest continuous chapter of the Fraternity, Gamma, is situated twenty-five miles from Pittsburgh at Washington and Jefferson College.

"In Pittsburgh,  $\Delta T \Delta$  entered what is now the University of Pittsburgh as early as 1864. The present chapter, Gamma Sigma, at the University was installed in 1914. At Carnegie Institute of Technology, Delta Beta Chapter was installed in 1923.

"Pittsburgh entertained the 1909 Karnea, and there are hosts of alumni in this section who actively managed that event. Many old-timers will recall the gathering at the Fort Pitt Hotel, the famous boat-ride down the Ohio River, and the mammoth banquet. . . ."

Next August, Pittsburgh again will be host to the Karnea.

"Hitch your wagon to a star" is a mighty fine slogan, whether you do or do not reach the heights. But Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania Delts are hitching their wagon to an accessible star, for they mean to make the convention more than a mere success. The Pittsburgh Karnea in 1937, because of the historical setting of Deltism here, because of the fine program it will present, and through the efforts of a wonderful group of Delts, should set and will set new attendance records not only for  $\Delta T \Delta$ , but for all college fraternity conventions.

It was into such a quietly determined atmosphere that President N. Ray Carroll stepped during the busy vacation days of early July to confer with Chairman MacLeod. At almost a moment's notice more than fifty undergraduate and alumni members gathered to hear the initial Karnea plans.

Stressing the fact that the August Delt gathering will present the Fraternity with an opportunity to tell of the work and progress of  $\Delta T \Delta$  in being an "integral part of the whole system of higher education," to a wide territory highly populated with university and college people, Chairman MacLeod announced tentative plans which are now under way.

Although the business sessions of the program are of vast importance, and a number of national educational authorities will be on hand to take part in the discussions, the entertainment features will be molded to conform to everyone's desire.

With some nationally known band to provide the best of modern dance rhythm, tentative plans call for the erection of a mammoth dance platform on the lawn of the Hotel Schenley, which is almost in the center of the campuses of both Pitt and Tech. The city which produced Miss America last year can certainly provide the necessary ravishing beauties for this Karnea ball.

"Watching the wheels go round" is always fun, so tours are being scheduled to initiate the guests into the industrial and cultural life of the city. These trips will include the skyscraper building of the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, a trip to Bethany College, the birthplace of the Fraternity, and such famed industries as the picturesque steel mills, the H.J. Heinz Company, and the Westinghouse plants. Perhaps a moonlight (we have not checked the moon's phases as yet) boat-ride down the Ohio River will be included in the entertainment plans.

Arrangements are under way to engage one of the Metropolitan Pittsburgh's leading golf clubs for alumni and actives attending the Karnea who believe they can break par on a real, snappy course. Splashing and swimming around in the club pool will also be a feature.

The Executive Committee of the 1937 Karnea is headed by Chairman MacLeod and includes Earle R. Jackson, Edward T. Leech, Mark M. Grubbs, Harry R. Birmingham, Charles F. Lewis, George A. Doyle, Paul E. Hutchinson, and Charles R. Wilson, Jr. All of these men are well known to the Fraternity, as having taken an active interest in its affairs, and their leadership in the 1937 Karnea is an indication of promised success.

In addition to the Executive Committee there soon will be appointed a Karnea Council made up of twenty-five or thirty persons in the Pittsburgh district who will compose the major committees. Also, there will be a large General Committee appointed representing the entire tri-state area.

The undergraduate chapters of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, Washington and Jefferson, West Virginia, and Allegheny will be organized through representatives from each of these chapters into an Undergraduate Committee which will serve as hosts to the other chapters attending the Karnea.

The words are "Pittsburgh in August." Undergraduates and alumni alike should start planning now to attend this Fifty-fourth Karnea where  $\Delta T \Delta$  will gather in bonds of old and new friends.

The College and the Fraternity

By WILLFRED O. MAUCK, Kappa (Hillsdale), '21
President of Hillsdale College and Former Supervisor of Scholarship

JUST outside my window, sometime between midnight and breakfast, bedlam broke loose. Voices yelled, car doors slammed seventeen times, I identified that mongrel wreck that disgraces our streets by its peculiarly vicious backfire, and with a series of grindings and roars a parade shot past. I was used to it, and in less than two or three hours I had gone back to sleep. It was nothing more serious than a sudden mass hunger in the fraternity house on the corner for hamburgers and hot dogs.

It is not far short of a century now that there has been a continuous, sharp difference of opinion between fraternity men and human beings as to the correct uses of the hours of darkness—or for that matter, to the uses of some other hours. Just before taking my typewriter on my lap (a hang-over from college days, when there wasn't a decent desk in my fraternity house room), I had been on the telephone connecting us with a certain fraternity house, inquiring whether a certain man who was supposed to be attending classes were ill, or just devoting some class periods to physical recuperation. And at the beginning of this very year an anxious father who was entering his boy in college had an earnest talk with me as to the advisability or otherwise of his son accepting a pledge pin. His idea seemed to be that a fraternity would lead the youth into devilment and possible scrapes, ruin his health, teach him to drink and gamble, cause him to neglect his studies, and place him in a group which would be looked upon with disfavor by professors and authorities. He seemed greatly surprised when, after talking with him and his son, I advised him to allow his son, for the sake of his education, to join a fraternity. He was fortunately not a difficult man to convince, being open-minded and only solicitous for his son's good.

It is not so many years since fraternities were, indeed, looked upon by college authorities with a certain lack of enthusiasm, to say the least. They were a sort of social excrescence, a disturbing influence, a sedative influence on the intellect, a problem in housing and social control, and the average of scholarship among fraternity men made deans shake their heads in mournful resignation. That was the Era of Exasperation. It took many generations to erase that exasperation, generations of silent and not-so-silent antagonism between fraternal groups and college administrations.

But most of us today have no personal recollection of that Era. Most of us went to college in the next period, the Era of Toleration. Fraternities had come to stay. They might be annoying, like the weather; but like the weather, not much could be done about the situation. Boys would be fraternity men. And even college presidents learned to hide an occasional smile at the antics of pledges and the seriousness with which actives took themselves. There was a certain friendly-enemy give-and-take between college and fraternity, and we got on pretty well, everything considered.

That Era was fairly brief, and we now live in another, the Era of Cooperation. For fraternities have outlived their infancy, and colleges have outlived their shortsightedness. The potentialities of using the fraternity as an adjunct of higher education were always there, but they are only now being realized. Today, instead of the fraternity and the college being rival organizations on the same campus, we realize the possibility of College and Fraternity, Inc., as a united educational institution. Every college could benefit by cooperation with fraternities, as fraternities could unquestionably benefit by cooperation with colleges.

There is the vexed question of social control, for instance. Perhaps it is not surprising that, during the Era of Exasperation, when fraternities felt the active disapproval of the college, there should be a tendency to "get away with something" by abusing the freedom which residence in a fraternity house can bestow, by doing things which, while demonstrating the independence of the fraternity man from the restraints imposed on residents of college dormitories, also inevitably affected physical and mental efficiency of the individual fraternity man, and caused fraternities to get a bad name for low scholarship and for playboy nonsense. The attitude is different today. Not long ago, one college, for instance, adopted the policy of requiring house mothers for each fraternity house, to be selected by the chapter, but to be appointed by the college, and responsible to it for proper conduct of the house. The policy was promptly backed up by each fraternity group, which welcomed it as an aid in maintaining the standards which the fraternity itself has set. The social regulations adopted by each house on the campus are such that the administration itself might have written them, and there is ground for fruitful coöperation between college and fraternity in enforcing them. The advisers of two of the groups on the campus have especially requested this year the aid of the college authorities in warning them of any shortcomings, disciplinary or otherwise, among members of their groups, so that they may take instant action. And conversely, the college is in the habit of calling upon chapter advisers to handle many matters within the groups which would otherwise be a matter for the student-faculty discipline committees. In an Era of Exasperation the system of dual control makes for anarchy; in this Era of Coöperation it frequently makes possible a more efficient handling of delicate situations.

Perhaps it was when fraternities awoke to their obligations in the field of scholarship that the Era of Coöperation dawned. When fraternities began to demand of their members that they prove their vaunted superiority over barbarians by demonstrating that fraternity men can excel them in the classroom, the colleges looked on with mild surprise, and with some scepticism, then with interest, and then with real satisfaction. The fraternity was becoming a stimulus to academic effort. Scholarship chairmen of fraternity chapters began to notice welcoming smiles when they consulted deans, registrars, and professors on the shortcomings of their brothers; college presidents watched with pleased surprise as chapter houses installed supervised study halls, libraries and chapter rewards for high scholarship. The National Interfraternity Conference, when it began requesting scholarship averages for fraternity groups from the registrar's office, met with indifference, for experience had not proved that these requests were anything more than a gesture—perhaps a fad—on the part of the Greek world. But today an increasing number of colleges are co-operating in the movement, and those who do coöperate are finding that it pays dividends in the form of a higher standard of scholarship among the fraternity men. The influence even extends to the non-fraternity group, whose pride is being touched as Greeks begin to excel them in scholarship. The college may now look with confidence to the fraternity to aid it in establishing ever higher academic standards.

There is a third field in which the Era of Coöperation is making its influence felt. It is that of the real intangible in education—the development in the individual of his latent personality possibilities, of social adjustability, and of social poise. Save in very exceptional cases, higher education is sterile without this intangible. The classroom can produce, or at least develop, the brilliant scholar, the bookworm, the highly intellectual hermit. But the social usefulness of such an individual is limited, at best. If education is, as it should be, a preparation for life, it must be a preparation for a socially useful life, or education has betrayed its trust. There are men and women to whom the social graces come naturally, or who have had, in their social background, the all-important give-and-take that is necessary if one is to play his part among his fellow men. But there are many others who possess these graces only in the larval stage, and it is extremely difficult for the college to create the maturing agencies which are necessary to their development. But lo! here is the fraternity, ready-made and right at hand, to assist. There may still be, in these days, some men and women for whom fraternity life is a detriment, due to defects in their own personalities or background, or to a failure of college and fraternity adequately to understand them. But there is a much larger group for which the fraternity is the needed reagent. And the college is coming to realize the fact. I know a freshman of this year's class whose family background is exceptionally good, whose personal appearance leaves nothing to be desired, whose high school record was admirable; but I was very much pleased when I learned that he had been pledged to a fraternity, not because of what he might do for the fraternity, but because of what the fraternity might do for him. He needs one touch to bring out his possibilities, and that is the self-discipline which the fraternity will not be long in causing him to impose upon himself. I know a student who, because of an accident, is being aided by the state rehabilitation commission to obtain a college education. When that student entered, the agent of the commission consulted the college authorities on his desire to join a fraternity, and on the basis of their recommendation the commission included the payment of fraternity dues and initiation fee in the aid which was being extended. The results are obvious, the student being today a campus leader, whereas his physical disability, when he entered, had made him so diffident that no potentialities of leadership were very apparent.

The effectiveness of the fraternity as an educational factor must depend, of course, largely on the local and national group itself. But the college makes a great mistake if it fails to take advantage of the opportunities which a strong and disciplined group affords. It is distinctly to the interest of the college that the fraternities on its campus be strong groups, and that a spirit of coöperation with the college be fostered among them. It is most interesting to watch leadership being forged in the heat of chapter activity; it is stimulating to see the keen rivalry among fraternity groups for scholarship cups and campus achievement

Henry F. Campbell

By PERL S. MILLER, Beta Phi (Ohio State), '12
Former President of the Northern Division

Henry F. Campbell

HENRY F. CAMPBELL, Beta Lambda (Lehigh), '07, died very suddenly on September 4, at the University of Pennsylvania Club in New York City.

Delts throughout the world who have heard of Henry's passing mourn the loss of one of the finest Delts who ever lived. Not only during the years of his active membership on the Arch Chapter of  $\Delta T \Delta$  as its Treasurer, namely, from June, 1914 to May, 1924, but before and after, his charming personality, constant willingness to assist and serve and his intense loyalty to the ideals of  $\Delta T \Delta$  endeared him to all with whom he came in contact.

I met Henry, first, at the Indianapolis Karnea in August of 1913; who attended that Karnea who does not remember the great fleet of brand new Stutz motor cars painted purple, white, and gold which were placed at the disposal of all the Delts attending this Karnea? Who but remembers the tireless energy and the gracious hospitality which Henry was so handsomely able to and did dispense?

And then, a year later, he took his place as Treasurer. For ten years, during which he served, there was no time that found him unwilling to tear himself from his business from which, by the way, he made millions, to attend to the request of each chapter of the Fraternity or of an individual of the Fraternity who called upon him.

Henry was generous with his time and money not only to Delts, but to all who knew him. During all of these years, he was a civic leader of Indianapolis, where he lived. The beautiful Indianapolis Athletic Club stands as one of the monuments of unselfish energy to which he was accustomed to devote himself. There are many in Indianapolis who are proud to say that Henry Campbell's tireless leadership in the various civic campaigns of Indianapolis, such as the erection of the Indianapolis Athletic Club, led them to success.

It seems that in every enterprise to which Henry lent his support, he was inclined to give his all. The men of Beta Lambda Association who were associated with Henry for many years not only speak of Henry's interest in this cause but of his financial support, his leadership for many years and the success that was theirs, always giving due credit to the inspiration and the enthusiasm furnished by Hank Campbell.

How inspiring it is to think that Henry takes his place among those other good Delts who have gone before. I almost wonder if we dare not say the "Arch Chapter Eternal." Yes, there would be James B. Curtis, Beta Zeta (Butler), '80; "Sunny Jim" Wakefield, Alpha (Allegheny), '89; Frank F. Rogers, Beta Rho (Stanford), '99; Frank Wieland, Eta (Buchtel), '90; E. J. Henning, Beta Gamma (Wisconsin), '94; Ira B. Blackstock, Beta Beta (DePauw), '86; Kendrick C. Babcock, Beta Eta (Minnesota), '89; Stuart Maclean, Beta Theta (Sewanee), '97; W. Lowrie McClurg, Alpha (Allegheny), '79; Henry T. Brück, Rho (Stevens), '78; Sherman Arter, Zeta (Western Reserve), '86; and John R. Scott, Beta (Ohio), '64. Of course, there are others, but these men come to my mind and I am pleased to think that Henry F. Campbell, Beta Lambda (Lehigh), '07, is there among them, many of whom loved him as we did.

As I have written these few words regarding Henry Campbell, I have searched for an expression to describe a characteristic of this man of whom I was very fond. I knew him very well. I knew him in success, and I knew him in adversity. I knew him in private life, and in public life. I believe that those who knew him will agree with me that there was one characteristic, just as obvious to all of us, as his loyalty, his integrity and his honor, and that was the sparkle of his lovable disposition.

The friends of Henry Campbell throughout the world, have lost a good friend, a splendid companion, and a loyal Delt.

George H. Dern Secretary of War

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY
Beta Pi (Northwestern), '21

Secretary Dern (on the left) with Oliver O. Kuhn, Beta Zeta (Butler), '07, Managing Editor of the Washington Evening Star, at the Washington Alumni Chapter's Founders Day dinner last spring.

THE life of George H. Dern, Beta Tau (Nebraska), '97, Secretary of War, who died in Washington August 27 at the age of sixty-three, was one of those real-but-unusual success stories of a man who rose to leadership in every situation which came to him during the remarkable era from 1872 to 1936.

From the time he entered the University of Nebraska in 1893, George H. Dern exhibited the qualities of one born to be a leader. He took an important part in the organization of the fraternity chapter which was to become Beta Tau of  $\Delta T \Delta$ . Then he captained the championship Nebraska football team of 1894, which won the Missouri Valley title.

His Beta Tau background was one of the prides of his life. He delighted to recall that of the charter members of that chapter, all succeeded beyond average expectation, and that two besides himself became governors of their states. It must have been an unusual group which produced besides Dern, Adam McMullen, and Arthur J. Weaver, who both were governors of Nebraska, and several other Deltas of marked distinction.

Moving to Utah with his parents, he became a leader in the mining industry, directing the extensive operations of the Consolidated Mercur Gold Mines. He was general manager of that company, which then operated the largest gold mine in Utah, and coinventor of the Holt-

Dern roasting process for reduction of refractory ores.

In 1914, Dern turned from his collegiate and business successes to the political field, and began a career which carried him to the governorship of his state—one of the few non-Mormons to serve as governor of Utah, elected in 1924 on the Democratic ticket, when President Coolidge carried the same state by 24,000 votes.

During his two terms as governor, from 1924 to 1932, Dern displayed his rare quality of leadership on numerous occasions. He was twice chairman of the national governors' conference and declined election for a third term, although Utah is one of the less populous states represented in that body. He was the choice of Democratic delegates from western states for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination in 1932, and is rumored to have been the personal choice of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Accepting the President's offer of a cabinet post in 1933, he directed the War Department during one of the most important interludes in its history. He supervised an extensive program of military modernization, made necessary by developments since the World War, in which the land forces of the United States were brought abreast of the mechanization of armies throughout the world and army air strength was reorganized and increased to a point which places the United States on a par with other great powers.

To his brothers of  $\Delta T \Delta$ , the most pleasing side of Secretary Dern's fine character was his never-failing loyalty to his Fraternity. Just as his tremendous success in life made no change in his kindly, genial personality, so he never had to be reminded that he wore the Square Badge.

The Washington Alumni Chapter had striking evidence of George Dern's delight in his fraternal association on the occasion of its Founders Day dinner last March, which Dern attended as guest of honor. He found at the last moment that his engagement list called for attendance on the same evening at a diplomatic reception of some importance, but the reception could wait, he told Toastmaster Camden R. McAtee, until he had opportunity to meet his fellow Washington Deltas.

The Secretary never got to the reception. As the evening's program got under way, and he received a roaring ovation, Dern seemed to forget all about his social obligations. And his own speech was one of the highlights of that memorable occasion.

Not many Deltas have attained the high position which came to George H. Dern, and none has borne his honor with more modesty. His country, his state, and his Fraternity have lost a son who served each with loyalty, courage, sincerity, and high purpose.

A New York Letter

By GEORGE TUCKER, Beta Iota (Virginia), '29

NEW YORK—This is a New York letter inspired by sundry appeals from the Central Office and also by a rather startling display of three Delt badges in a DeLancy Street pawn shop window!

What made this display so singularly gratifying was the prominence given it by the pawn shop proprietor, obviously a man of superior taste, for practically the entire center of the window was devoted to this triumvirate of concave squares.

There was, in addition, a nondescript collection of jewelry, binoculars, and similar bric-a-brac, but this was utilized only towards a background for the central treasures, arranged, by the way, most appetizingly on a cushion of green velvet.

Somehow or other you don't pass by a pawn shop display of old  $\Delta T \Delta$  without breaking stride. And even if you do, you always stop and go back again. It's the "cat" in us, I suppose, the macabre side of our natures that asserts itself when a deed or a circumstance applicable to ourselves manifests itself and invites curiosity.

They were there, all right, a trio of Delt pins isolated in the center of the finest pawn shop window on New York's East Side. The one in the middle was jeweled and a honey, with a chapter guard—only, the guard had been destroyed or carried away. Probably destroyed, for the initials on the reverse side also had been thoughtfully expunged. The other two badges, small and of a simpler pattern, carried no marks of identification whatever.

Who were those anonymous Greeks who, embarrassed for the moment, left their badges in DeLancy Street?

Where are they now?

Well, their anonymity is still intact, if that's a satisfaction. The boss of the hock shop declined to reveal his clients' names, even though their pledges remained unredeemed, and despite the probability that the names they gave him were spurious in the first place.

He would, however, agree to sell one or all of the badges "at so cheaply it dunt cost nudding almost," though obviously such a concession would necessitate a complete rearrangement of the remaining merchandise. Here indeed was magnanimity towards which only the veriest of ingrates could remain indifferent. I bought the three badges for the total sum of $4.75. And happenchance youse mugs who left them there should see this note, and want them back, all you need do is write Hugh Shields, at the Central Office.

And that's that.

This, however, is a personal billet doux to all members of D K E who plan to visit New York this season:

Drop around to the Lexington Pharmacy, in the Lexington Hotel, on Lexington Avenue, and get a whiff of that nostalgic Deke atmosphere that you've been missing since you left college.

You'll like the coffee (always an item of major importance). You'll like the buns, hot and savory with golden butter. And you'll like the little blonde who takes your money when you pass by the cashier cage. But best of all you'll like the knives, the forks, and the spoons.

According to the waiter who works the "dog" shift from midnight on, the pharmacy got them at auction sale when D K E closed its house at Columbia University, up on Morningside Heights. Anyway, even the soup ladle is engraved with "D K E."

"We, growing old, grow stranger to the College,
Symbol of youth, where we were young together,
But you, beyond the reach of time and weather,
Of youth in death forever keep the knowledge."

—Fraternity Handbook

Published by the Interfraternity Council, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

THE 1936-1937 edition of the Fraternity Handbook at the University of Pennsylvania was dedicated to William E. Housel, Gamma Sigma (Pittsburgh), '37, who died at the R.O.T.C. Camp, Fortress Monroe, Virginia, July 8. Last spring William was voted the outstanding junior on the Pittsburgh campus. He was the president-elect of the Interfraternity Council.

awards; it impresses one with the richness of college traditions to see fraternity and sorority men and women vying with one another in their efforts to add to the picturesqueness and enjoyment of college life, without which college life would be one long grind.

On the hillside on the campus, sometime between dusk and midnight, a great crowd stands in the shadows. And above them a procession of white-clad figures winds along in solemn procession, gleaming in the moonlight. The procession halts, the figures move together, silence settles over the crowd, and suddenly, but very softly, there is music in the air. It swells forth and dies away, song follows song—songs of fraternal devotion, of college loyalty, and of college romance. Only a formal fraternity serenade, that has become an annual tradition, but as the crowd reluctantly melts away at the close, someone says, "What a beautiful college tradition! It must be fine to go to a college which has a life like this!"

Loyalty Fund Founder Awarded Court of Honor Citation

CARL F. KUEHNLE, JR., Omicron (Iowa), '19, who gave the idea of the Loyalty Fund to the Fraternity, was presented with a Court of Honor Citation at a meeting of the North Shore (Evanston, Illinois)

Alumni Chapter June 7 at the Beta Pi chapter house. Mr. Kuehnle is a former President of the Western Division. Francis F. Patton, also a former President of the Western Division, made the presentation.

Dave Reeder Likes to Organize Things

By OWEN C. ORR, Beta Gamma (Wisconsin), '07
Secretary of Alumni

David K. Reeder

THIS is a picture of David K. Reeder, Omega (Pennsylvania), '12. He won't tell what the "K" stands for. He is a pretty shrewd fellow and it may be his way of spelling "careful."

He came to New York a couple of years ago and found 1500 unorganized Delts who wanted to get together. That was right along his line so he gathered a small group who lunched informally. From this group, under Dave's guidance and enthusiasm, grew a real, live, active alumni chapter.

Early last spring he decided Founders Day ought to be celebrated appropriately. Some of the men thought so too, so Dave rounded up a committee and had the Waldorf-Astoria get out its good tablecloths and napkins and put on a banquet on Founders Day, March 6. In such surroundings, he had to have the proper line-up at the speakers' table. Ray Carroll was asked to come with his new tuxedo. Colonel Frederick Palmer was there, and after Ray told us how the Fraternity was getting along and what he thought of it after looking at the various fellows face to face, the Colonel told us all about his visit with Alf M. Landon. Then, Bruce Bielaski, former President of the Fraternity, told us, as only Bruce can, what was what. Frank Cornell,

President of the Eastern Division, came up from Philadelphia to preserve order and to get some pointers on how to run a banquet. Bruce, instead of having G-men on hand to watch the brothers who are in the bond business, and to fingerprint them, had a photographer, so the occasion is now preserved in the archives. Jimmy Melton came down and sang. Many of the older Delts turned out and said they had a good time. They looked it and acted it.

Now, to get back to Dave Reeder, who engineered the whole thing, just like he used to when he was in the University of Pennsylvania. There he was captain of the basketball team. His modest, unretiring manner, naturally caused his selection as a cheerleader; and you may not believe it, but he was president of the Y.M.C.A., but it is said he is not in good standing now.

Dave went with the Liquid Carbonic Company in Lincoln, Nebraska, after graduation. At the Delt house there where he lived, he was interested in Beta Tau. It was during Prohibition days and we understand he sold soda fountains. At least, that was his story. Coming back to Philadelphia, he dusted off his spats and got to be a "city feller" again. They still sit around the fire and tell about Dave as adviser of Omega and speak of his enthusiasm and how successful he was in imparting it to the graduates and undergraduates. Dave and his spats moved on to Wall Street about the time of the depression and he started to work, as usual, for the Fraternity. Rumor has it that he knows as many people, Delts and otherwise, in New York as anyone since Jimmy Walker retired from politics, and rumor also goes on to say that like Jimmy, he used to browse around a little after electric lights were turned on.

It took an organizer like Dave to get the alumni of  $\Delta T \Delta$  in New York together, and his success has been only a continuation of the good work which he has done along similar lines with the Philadelphia group. Those boys admit, Pittsburgh to the contrary, that they are one of the most successful of the Fraternity's alumni chapters. Due to Reeder's efforts the Greater New York Alumni Chapter is up and going and continually increases in attendance at each meeting, which is a tribute to the untiring zeal of Dave. He says it is not zeal—that it comes from eating fish soup with Bob Travis, Omega (Pennsylvania), '20—but whatever he eats, it produces real results.

Maybe some day he will get confidential and tell us what the "K" stands for.

Delts in Football

By DUDLEY COLLINS, JR., Pi (Mississippi), '32, and HARRY G. GREEN
Gamma Mu (Washington), '31

Paul Tangora

To Mr. Delt Alumnus in Seat 23, Row R, of the packed Alma Mater stadium comes the thought—who is that No. 55, the “iron man” in the secondary making tackle after tackle in backing up the line? He is stopping the opponents’ gains at one, two, or three yards!

No. 55 is now leading his team on the offense; he is the quarterback. Mr. Delt Alumnus, in an exciting moment shouts, “There goes 55, leading the interference, what a team man he is—who is he?” A fellow spectator volunteers an answer, “His name is Smith—that fellow who carried the ball behind him is Jones, one of the undergraduate members of my fraternity.” The next spontaneous question, “What is Smith’s fraternity?” In answer, “Why, he is a Delt.” Mr. Delt Alumnus proudly returns, “That is my Fraternity—I’m going over to the house after the game and meet that fellow.”

Fortunate is Mr. Delt Alumnus in being in the stadium for the game, rather than following the “play-by-play” via the radio back home. He is on the campus, and a visit at the chapter house after the game will give him an opportunity to have first-hand answers to his questions at the game. But for Mr. Delt Alumnus back at the radio, similar questions must go unanswered until some reporter for the campus is in town. It is for you in particular, Mr. Delt radio fan, that we want to identify  $\Delta T \Delta$  members and pledges to many of the phrases spoken by your announcers during some of the many games available on your dial.

First, the formal opening of 1936 football—the All-Star game. Did you hear the name “Tuffy” Leemans? “Leemans runs around right end; Leemans is out in the open.” “Tuffy” wears the Square Badge and hails from George Washington University (Gamma Eta). He was picked as All-American quarterback in 1935—his senior year.

Do you remember the announcer saying, “Paul Tangora, Northwestern’s All-American guard, is making it tough for the Lions”? Paul, a member of Beta Pi, graduated last spring from Northwestern.

In this All-Star game you also heard the name Hugh Duvall who served as fullback for the Stars, as a representative from Northwestern.

Although the Lions’ line-up contained no Delts, there are several former Delt college football stars now accepting cash for their services. “Doc” Morrison, 1932 All-American center from Michigan, and Ralph Kercheval, former Kentucky kicking star, spent the past season with the Brooklyn professionals. George Sauer, Nebraska’s 1934 All-American halfback, spent last year with the Green

Ray Fox

Bob McClure

Bay Packers. Edgar Manske, 1934 All-American end from Northwestern, is now a star with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Now on into the 1936 college football season.

From Champaign came the Illinois-U.S.C. game. Much attention was given the kicking and all-around play of Quarterback Ken Nelson for Illinois. Ken had two fine seasons at end as a sophomore and junior, but his ability as team general along with his kicking prompted his being changed to the quarterback position. Ken is a Beta Upsilon Delt. You will also often hear Dick Fay mentioned by your announcer in an Illinois game.

There was the Northwestern-Ohio State game. Quarterback Vanzo for Northwestern came in for high praise by all radio announcers. Play after play was announced, "Vanzo made the tackle." Fred is a Beta Pi Delt.

We heard Nebraska and Indiana in battle at Lincoln. For Indiana, Captain Dal Sasso, tackle, was outstanding. Ray Fox, quarterback, directed a share of the Indiana attack. Dal Sasso pledged Delt this fall. Fox, an outstanding student, is a senior at Beta Alpha. For Nebraska, John Howell, young brother of Nebraska's 1929 All-American "Blue" Howell, quarterbacked his team to victory and passed for the deciding touchdowns. Along with Howell, was Paul Amen at end. John and Paul are members at Beta Tau.

Did your dial bring the Kansas-Oklahoma game? Big Clarence Douglass, Kansas fullback, made victory tough for the Sooners. Douglass is a member at Gamma Tau.

The California-U.C.L.A. game report was that Captain George Dickerson was playing another outstanding game at tackle. George is chapter president at Delta Iota.

Have you heard a Kansas State College game this fall? Ivan Wassberg, center, is a Delt at Gamma Chi.

Did you pick up the Virginia-Maryland battle—with Clark Martin, Beta Iota, handling the quarterback job for Virginia?

The next time you dial for a Pittsburgh game, remember that Arnold Greene and Bob McClure, quarterbacks, represent Gamma Sigma on the gridiron.

Should you pick up a Stanford game you will hear about the line plunging of Fred Williams at fullback. Fred hails from Beta Rho.

At this early stage of the 1936 season we have been unable to pick up all the games in which  $\Delta T \Delta$  is represented and of course some Delt's playing, who were not in the starting line-up, we no doubt failed to note at the time of substitution. The way football is played today very often the substitute is just as capable a performer as the man in the starting line-up. If one of your favorites has been missed we hope our dial will bring him to our attention in the "front row" of the now popular "radio stadium." Likewise, we hope that in identifying some "Delt's in Football" we will make your observation from your "front row" more interesting.

John Howell

Their new venture is expected to fill a long-felt need among Wisconsin's thousands of outdoor sportsmen, bringing to them news in which they are interested. Mr. Ross is holding a ten pound muskellunge and Mr. Jackson displays a twenty-six pound musky. Both fish were caught in the Chippewa Flowage near Hayward, Wisconsin.

'89—Dr. H. Eugene Stafford of Baguio, Philippine Islands, is receiving world-wide attention as a writer, physician, and Mason. One of his most prized possessions is a solid silver cigarette case, bearing the personal coat of arms of Edward VIII, King of England. The case, which is gold-plated inside, bears the inscription: "Presented by H.R.H. Edward, Prince of Wales to Dr. H. Eugene Stafford, May 15, 1922." It was Dr. Stafford who took the stitches in the wound which the Prince, now King, suffered while playing polo at the Manila Polo Club in 1922. Dr. and Mrs. Stafford assisted in entertaining Vice-President and Mrs. Garner and the group of congressmen who recently visited the Philippine Islands. Recently, Dr. Stafford, ex-captain and assistant surgeon, U.S.A., was presented with the Order of the Purple Heart by Brigadier General C. H. Conrad, Jr., of Ft. McKinley in Manila. The citation dwelled upon Dr. Stafford's valor in saving the lives of patients at San Fernando, Pampanga, August 9, 1899. An article, The Sun God's Lady, written by Dr. Stafford and published in the Manila Tribune has caused much favorable comment. COACH E. C.

Track coach of Indiana University and 1932, 1936 Olympic Coach

One Delt described Coach E. C. Hayes, Epsilon (Albion), '10, as "Gentleman" Hayes. This opinion is reaffirmed by John F. Sembower in August in the Indianapolis Sunday Star:

"Hayes defies all the time-honored prerequisites of the big time coach. . . .

. . . "There is no bluster of shouting in his coaching, yet he can key his men to a point where they do things which surprise themselves, but seldom him. . . . He is the only athletic coach ever to be honored with election as president of the Indiana University Faculty Club. . . .

. . . "Along with year-round training, which Hayes maintains is better for a man's physique than anything else, must be not only running work and practice in their specialty if they be field men, but also general body work to help develop lung, heart and other auxiliary muscles. Hayes is a master trainer, and at no time is this conditioning technique more evident than when his star distance men, such as the current Olympic hope in the 5,000 and 10,000-meter distances, Donald Lash, finish their races. They never collapse or stagger about. . . .

"The American Olympic Committee in picking Hayes as one of the trio of mentors for the United States team this year had all these facts before it. The job of coaching the Olympians is a difficult one, and not merely honorary designation as the layman often believes. All the competitors finally selected are stars in their own right, and present a collection of athletic prima donnas. . . . There are almost as many different training techniques involved as there are athletes, and the few weeks before the Olympics is no time for a meddlesome coach to start criticizing these methods. Yet, there must be some guidance. It must be so tactfully administered, and with such friendship and understanding that no upset nerves are caused. The excitement of the trip is enough, let alone any dissension between a star and a strange coach.

"Hayes' system of coaching fits into any coaching plan used on the men. His tolerant and understanding attitude makes him a true diplomat in handling men. Above all, he is a student of human nature, a master psychologist and as good a physical trainer as is to be found in the country. These combine to make him an extremely fortunate selection for the important Olympic post. After he has done his part, he goes into the stands and assumes the rôle of an interested spectator, while the athlete does his part."

President of National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men

"To Dabney Stewart Lancaster, Dean of Men, is dedicated this, the forty-first volume of the Corolla as a humble tribute to his fine qualities as a man, his patient tolerance as an administrator, and his sincere understanding as a counsellor."

The Birmingham Post recently said about him: "As evidence of his popularity on the campus, Dean Lancaster is commonly referred to only as 'The Dean,' although there are no less than nine other deans at the University. To fellow faculty members he's known as the University's No. 1 trouble-shooter—a sort of big brother and kindly police judge rolled into one." These word pictures accurately portray the man, Dean Dabney S. Lancaster, Beta Iota (Virginia), '11.

To all entering the Dean's office comes a cheerful greeting. To an old friend; an official visiting the campus; a student seeking the wisdom of his counsel; or, on that inevitable occasion in the career of the undergraduate, to a student answering the Dean's request for conference; comes a feeling of comfort upon accepting his invitation for a chair.

The room, not large, is furnished in a manner which is like the simple dignity of the Dean. In the conversation the guest hears the creak of the swivel chair as the Dean leans back, absorbing all comments, as he strikes and brings a match to his pipe. As the dead match pings into the coffee can cover, which serves as an ash tray, the Dean's dog opens one eye as if ready to follow, should that ping mean that his master is ready to start home.

To understand the love and loyalty which is the Dean's one must but stroll through the campus with him and note the greeting which he receives from all who pass. The answer, often by name, is always with a smile and wave of the hand.

An apostle of Fraternity loyalty, Dean Lancaster recently wrote the lead editorial in the Bama Delt, the Delta Eta publication, asking of the Alabama alumni, support for their chapter. Dean Lancaster once summarized his fraternal beliefs: "Pledges, remember that the Fraternity is a bigger thing than you are. It offers you an unequalled opportunity for friendship, for training, for happiness. It owes you nothing. You owe it your devotion and your loyalty. Remember always that what you do reflects credit or discredit upon your Fraternity. Your honor is the honor of the Fraternity. Be loyal."

Akron

THE Akron Alumni Chapter feels proud because it believes that it is one of the first Delt alumni chapters to effect a definite charity program. Jim Fitch suggested that we adopt a service work program to help Akron blind people. President Walter Keith appointed Jim to take charge of a committee, including Rev. Walter F. Tunks, C. D. Russell, Dr. George Whiteside, Robert Fitch, Russell T. Hankins, William McIlwain, John Wolcott, and Robert Stopher, to investigate such work.

The committee studied the possibilities of the project, assisted by Miss Ruth Billow of Akron, who, blind since childhood but financially fortunate, has devoted her life to the aid of the blind who are less fortunate. We learned that through the American Federation for the Blind, a new talking machine, which plays talking books, had been developed and could be purchased. Talking books are especially prepared records which when played on the talking machines, read aloud to blind people, the books, plays, and stories, that sighted people are able to read. For blind people, who cannot read Braille and who are without the talking books, improvement of the mind is almost an impossible accomplishment.

The talking books, owned by the U. S. Congressional Library, are lent free to any blind person owning a proper talking machine. The talking books are mailed first class, free of charge, to and from blind persons. After obtaining all available information, our committee decided to purchase one or more of the talking machines, so that some Akron blind folks might have the advantage of the talking books.

To obtain the money, it was decided to give a dance and Monte Carlo Party. The price of one dollar per couple was made possible by John Wolcott's donation of his Silver Lake Country Club, June 19.

The problem was presented to the chapter, was received with enthusiasm, and the committee was authorized to proceed with the plans. The party was a big success, and at the next meeting definite disposal of the funds will be made, and ninety-five Delt will be proud that they assisted a number of Akron blind folks to have a new avenue of learning.

It is our hope that this action will start similar work among other alumni chapters. We shall be glad to lend assistance in assembling data necessary to begin such a program.

Buffalo

THE Buffalo Alumni Chapter had a golf match with the Rochester alumni Delt at the Stafford Country Club, Stafford, N.Y., in August, and it was a very successful party. These golf matches have developed into yearly affairs, and are looked forward to each year with much interest.

The usual weekly luncheons have been changed, and they are now held at the University Club on Delaware Ave., where the attendance has been better.

Our president, Dr. Curtis C. Johnson, entertained the Delt alumni and their wives at his summer home at Crescent Beach the first part of August. This was a very fine party and thoroughly enjoyed by all, and we are hoping that during the coming winter months we will be able to have more of these mixed parties.

Cincinnati

TO MEMBERS of the Delt alumni who were so unfortunate as to be compelled to remain the past summer in Cincinnati were offered two treats—the Golf Party and the Coney Island Party. This year the Golf Party was held during June at the Twin Oaks Country Club and it was attended by thirty-four Delt. Low gross honors were tied by Dick Farrell and Jack Boyle at 79, and in the 18-hole playoff Dick took the cup with a 77. Three first places are necessary for permanent possession of this trophy, competition for which was begun in 1935. Both Boyle and Farrell have a first place to their credit.

This year a trophy for high gross was requested by the high-handicap contingent and was won for the first time by Al Porter with 117 blows. Although this score is entered on the official record, Al says that in the confusion he neglected to count 12 or 15 out-of-bounds penalties, not to mention a pocketful of lost balls.

G. GLENN NEWELL

Albion College granted him a degree of Doctor of Laws at its 101st Commencement

One of America's foremost landscape painters, G. Glenn Newell, Epsilon (Albion), '91, stands preëminent in the field of animal life. He maintains a farm at Dover Plains, New York, and a herd of Holstein cattle as a source of subject matter. His most famous paintings have been exhibited in the National Academy of Design and in other national and international exhibitions. In 1906 he was awarded the first prize in the Salmagundi Club Exhibit; in 1923 the Speyer Prize of the National Academy of Design; in 1925 the first prize of the National Arts Club; in 1927 the gold medal of the Allied Artists of America; and in 1929 a $2,000 prize in national ranch life competition. For six years he was president of the Allied Artists of America. In appreciation of his enjoyment of his visit to Albion last June, Dr. Newell gave a dinner for the faculty and old friends. Characteristic of his warm and fun-loving personality, he gave photographs of some of his paintings to those attending the dinner who could rise and tell the biggest lies.

Cincinnati's great amusement park, Coney Island, was the scene of the final summer party on September 1. Ed Schott always manages to outdo himself in hospitality on each succeeding occasion, and this year's affair was no exception. Dinner was served in the clubhouse to forty Delts, their wives, and "dates." Following dinner the entire party watched the famous fireworks, after which free tickets to the "rides" were distributed. For the next hour an interested observer would have been able to catch only an occasional glimpse of "Delts-in-the-raw" as they made the rounds of Wild Cat, Tumble Bug, Loop-De-Loop, Laff-in-the-Dark, Scooter, and The Palace of Wonders.

After energy and tickets ran out, the couples strolled back to Moonlite Gardens where dancing was the order for the rest of the evening, with Art Kassel and his band furnishing the music.

Cleveland

THE Cleveland Alumni Chapter, under the very efficient and active leadership of President Harold C. Hopkins, continues to roll along in high gear with a program of activities which keeps all Cleveland Delts intensely interested in the affairs of  $\Delta T \Delta$ .

There has been no summer "let-down." The luncheon meetings, held every Friday in the Spanish Room of the May Company were well attended, with President N. Ray Carroll and Comptroller Hugh Shields being among the guests who paid us a visit. Our Bulletin has been published regularly. A basket picnic and beach party and several rushing parties were held at Ruhlman's home. We joined with the Akron Alumni Chapter in a snappy party at the Silver Lake Country Club, and a number of our members enjoyed the successful Fallen Arch meeting at Russells Point. A fall golf tournament and a clambake are on the calendar for the very near future.

MARK EGAN

Under his direction, 169 conventions, 274,685 convention delegates, and $12,688,580 have come to Cleveland in 1936

Mark Egan, Beta Pi (Northwestern), '27, manager of the Cleveland Convention and Visitors Bureau, has a very definite objective—to make Cleveland the convention capital! This year he was influential in obtaining for Cleveland the two of the largest conventions in the country—the National Republican Convention and the National American Legion Convention. In a publicity circular from the bureau is the following information: "A parade in files eight persons wide, of the number of convention delegates coming to Cleveland in 1936, would reach from Cleveland's Public Square to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The expenses of the bureau in 1936 will be about $60,000; the return of over $12,000,000 means a substantial dividend for the city of Cleveland."

Mr. Egan came to Cleveland after he had spent five years as manager of the Pittsburgh Convention Bureau. Prior to that time he had varied experiences in the same field as a worker in the Cincinnati Convention Bureau, sales and advertising director of the St. Clair and Eastgate Hotels in Chicago, assistant manager of the Chicago Beach Hotel and the Morrison Hotel in Chicago, and sales and advertising manager of the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh. Just after leaving college, he was employed by the Chicago Crime Commission to raise money needed to investigate the Capone régime.

mother, for the state senate. All three won nominations in the Republican primaries, and they stand excellent chances of election. C. W. Portmann, our ambassador to Massillon, is a candidate for common pleas judge in Stark County and looks like a sure winner.

We want all Delts in the vicinity to participate in our activities. We are enjoying  $\Delta T \Delta$ , keeping old friends and making new ones. If you will send the secretary your name and address, we will be pleased to notify you of our activities.

RANDALL M. RUHLMAN

LEONARD A. MAYNARD

"The Cordelt" says, "Who's Who neglects to state he's a swell gent."

Leonard A. Maynard, Gamma Zeta (Wesleyan), '11, chapter adviser of Beta Omicron and treasurer of the Beta Omicron house corporation, is called "Stub" by the chapter members; it is a nickname born of respect and affection. Dr. Maynard has taught at Iowa State, Rhode Island State, and Cornell. During the World War he saw active service on the Verdun front with the Chemical Warfare Service. Three years ago he was engaged in research in Nanking, China, at the University of Nanking, by invitation of the Chinese government. He made a survey of diets of Chinese farm families and worked out a research program for improvement. He was chosen to assist in the direction of the research at Cornell University concerning a study of diets which will prolong life, sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation which gave $42,500 to Cornell University to finance the study. Time, the weekly news-magazine, said of Dr. Maynard and his associates in this work: "All are learned, industrious biochemists. None is a doctor of medicine qualified to apply his findings to the physiology of human beings. The trio hopes to validate 'the theory that the characteristics of youth can be retained . . . by special diets.' This they expect to prove by feeding mature rats a great variety of foods."

Dr. Maynard is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, American Chemical Society, American Society of Biological Chemists, and a Fellow of American Association for Advancement of Science.

Fargo

NO SUMMER meetings were held by the Fargo Alumni Chapter, but fall meetings started in early October.

President Albert N. Hallenberg attended the dedicatory opening of the Eastman Dental Clinic in Stockholm, Sweden, last spring.

Dr. Hallenberg was interested particularly in Sweden's economic, educational, and public health programs.

He and Mrs. Hallenberg attended State banquets at which were both royalty and commoners. They were entertained at the American Legation.

MONROE BERG

Indianapolis

THE Indianapolis Alumni Chapter, like all good chapters, has been engaged busily in fall rush.

Several delegations of the brothers visited the Butler, DePauw, and Wabash chapter houses to do their bit in entertaining rushees. Not a meeting has gone by without some member advising another of the names of possible Delt material going to the latter's Alma Mater. Several rushees have been the guests of Fred Tucker at the regular meetings of the chapter.

In spite of the extremely hot summer months and the fact that many of the members were away on vacations, the chapter continued to meet every Friday at the Columbia Club for lunch.

Now that Prexy Hueber has returned from his lengthy vacation trip through the eastern states and Canada, the chapter is in high gear and ready to start another winter of Delt activities.

Remember, you alums, a good place to see your friends and state your election forecasts to a congenial crowd of listeners is the Columbia Club every Friday at noon.

FRED G. JOHNS, JR.

Kansas City

OUR most recent event, the annual rush party sponsored by the Kansas City Alumni Chapter, took place Thursday evening, September 3, at Indian Hills Country Club. About forty alumni and actives were hosts to twenty-five rushees, who contemplated enrolling at one of our near-by universities this fall.

Besides a very enjoyable chicken dinner, we were entertained in various ways by several of the more talented members. The principal address was given by Carl Brick, secretary of the Coöperative Club International, who as usual, made an impressive talk for men of college age. We thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity of hearing Carl in a rôle for which he is so well equipped.

We were also fortunate in having Eugene Hibbs with us at this meeting. He told us first-hand of the fine progress being made by active chapters in this Division where he, as field secretary for the Fraternity, spends some of his time. Everyone enjoys flattery; therefore, Hibbs' remarks were received enthusiastically.

Attendance at luncheons every Thursday noon at the Kansas City Athletic Club is now increasing, and we predict a successful fall season for our local organization.

KENNETH BATES

Knoxville

MOST of the activities of the local alumni chapter in the recent months have been directed toward the acquisition and furnishing of a new house for Delta Delta. The combined effort of the alumni and undergraduate chapter has been highly successful, for Delta Delta now prides itself on having the finest fraternity house at the University of Tennessee. The new Shelter at 1501 Laurel Ave., has been arranged in modern fraternity house manner, with chapter room and sleeping dormitory on the third floor, second floor devoted entirely to study rooms and the first floor occupied by spacious lounges, the house mother's room, and the dining room facilities. The lounges have been completely refurnished and much additional equipment has been added elsewhere. It might interest the old boys of years past to know that Delta Delta now has a house mother living in the Shelter.

The Delta Delta house corporation was reorganized during the summer into a more compact and efficient body. It is now under the leadership of five alumni: Douglas S. Sterner, president, George G. Henson, Alvin J. Weber, John L. Kind, and Howard F. Jarvis. The efficiency of this body was proved by the rapidity and completeness with which the new house was purchased and prepared for the present school year. Many other worthy alumni attested their interest in the local chapter by paying up old obligations and some made additional donations. It is hoped that others may manifest their loyalty in a similar manner.

A get-together of the alumni chapter is planned for the near future, and the regular meetings on the first Monday of each month will be resumed.

Lexington

DURING most of the summer and early fall, the Lexington Alumni Chapter largely rested on its oars. It seems in view of the success of its big spring enterprise that such a vacation was earned.

The alumni chapter believes it played a large part in developing the most successful Founders Day observance ever staged by Delta Epsilon at the University of Kentucky. Personal letters were written to all alumni, telling of the Homecoming plans. The night of May 10, practically all the actives and pledges of Delta Epsilon and enough alumni were present to bring the total attendance at the banquet to one hundred.

Dave Difford, retiring president of Delta Epsilon, presided and introduced the actives and pledges, and "the seketary" took care of the "old boys" joining in the celebration. The principal speech was given by Johnny Bullock, long one of Delta Epsilon's brightest lights and now a Cincinnati attorney, whose interesting message was one of real inspiration. The inimitable Bert Stansbury was present, representing the Louisville Alumni Chapter, to announce that John Calvin Cramer of Louisville had been chosen by the Delta Epsilon actives as the year's "most valuable man to the chapter," thereby winning a place for his name on the honor plaque presented by the Louisville group. The sophomore honor key, another annual award, was presented to Harlowe ("Tinker") Dean, Lexington.

Out-of-town alumni registered at the banquet included William Patterson, Ashland; Carlos Jagoe and Bill Kirtley, Owensboro; Len Weakley, Fort Thomas; Nando Kelly, Hazard; George R. Kavanaugh, Berea; Ben Thomas Cooper, Benton; Noel W. Engel, Dixon; Bill Jacobs, Cumberland; Lawton Daly, Covington; Walter D. Vest, Walton; Warren A. Price, Georgetown; C. D. Blair, Ewing; Bert Stansbury, James Miller, Bill Greathouse, Temp Thorn, and Cameron V. Coffman, Louisville; Walter R. Bender, Hamilton, Ohio; Robert W. McVay, Bloomfield, N.J.; John R. Bullock, Cincinnati, Ohio; W. T. Fowler, Jr., Indianapolis, Ind.; Kenneth B. Baker, Alcoa, Tenn.; and Clarence S. Moore, Jr., Wilmington, Del.

Lexington alumni in attendance included Roy H. Owsley, John Thorn, George T. Skinner, W. E. Davis, Robert D. Hawkins, Ralph Kercheval, William D. Trott, Laurence Shropshire, Russell Lutes, Dan E. Fowler, Ollie Williamson, Bob Odear, O. B. Coffman, Bob Welch, James Shropshire, Bill Bryan, Billy Curry, Jack Crain, and Angus McDonald.

The Lexington Alumni Chapter has mapped out a full program for the winter season, and before long will begin work again in preparation for another great celebration of Delta Epsilon's Founders Day.

Former President of  $\Delta T \Delta$  and 1937
Karnea Committee Chairman

For six years, 1927 to 1933, Norman MacLeod, Gamma Sigma (Pittsburgh), '17, was President of the Fraternity. Previous to that time, he had been Vice-President for four years. Mr. MacLeod served as a lieutenant in the ordinance corps from 1917 to 1919. He has been a member of the Pitt alumni council since 1922, now holding the office of first vice-president; served as a member of the Pitt athletic council 1924 to 1926, was a member of the Stadium dedication committee in 1925, and recently he was elected trustee of the University of Pittsburgh. He is vice-president of Ketchum, MacLeod, & Grove, advertising firm, Pittsburgh.

the new meeting time. Every third meeting has been a dinner at one of the local hotels or cafes, and on the other evenings we are the guests of some Delt at his home. Along this line we are rather fortunate as several of the fellows have just completed new homes and are anxious to show them to the admiring group. Our city prosecutor, John Hull, was recently returned to office for another term and, of course, we haven't seen him at a meeting since. Our October meeting was held at "Rip" Deatherage's where we enjoyed a barbecued steak dinner and were entertained by A. I. Adamson who talked about China. Adamson is an engineer and has spent most of his time in the Orient.

Two new members have joined our group, Paul Hiller, living in Wilmington, also P. G. Powell, superintendent of the Long Beach office of the Natl. Life Insurance Co.

Although we started late, we assisted several of the undergraduate chapters in rushing.

Bob Taplin, our genial president, with Don Equals, has collected donations for the purpose of giving a chair to the U.C.L.A. chapter house. The money was turned over to the President of the Western Division, L. N. Fitts, who is seeing that the hand-carved dining room chairs arrive at their destination.

Louisville

THE Louisville Alumni Chapter has not been particularly active this summer due to absence of its members from the city. However, a new organization has been effected recently and coöperation of our sixty members has been assured.

On September 1 a rush party was organized by Fillmore M. Slater aboard President Miller's yacht Delight. Fifteen rushees were present, seven of whom ultimately took the pledge button at the University of Kentucky. Returns from other schools are not yet available.

Football parties are being organized.

W. P. HURLEY

Milwaukee

THE Milwaukee Alumni Chapter held a rushing party September 9 at the Milwaukee Yacht Club for the benefit of the Wisconsin and Lawrence Chapters of the Fraternity. Approximately fifteen rushing prospects were present with twenty-five undergraduates and alumni members of the Fraternity. The party was in the form of a banquet and the main features of the evening's entertainment were a football talk by Coach Blackburn of Washington High School and moving pictures of the Boulder Dam construction, showing its progress from the time it was begun up to the present time.

Bert Nelson was toastmaster and Darrell Johnson was master of ceremonies. The evening was a successful one from all viewpoints, and it is felt that it enabled both the rushees and the actives to obtain the basis necessary for close fellowship.

National Capital (Washington, D.C.)

THE National Capital Alumni Chapter is out this year to exceed its history-making accomplishments of last year. Over two hundred alumni entered into the activities during the past year and it is hoped that some three hundred of the 360 members will participate in events during the current year.

The regular Wednesday lunches at the National Press Club were resumed September 30. The alumni were hosts to Gamma Eta and its rushees, and the affair met with so much favorable comment that the alumni intend to make this an annual function. This is in line with the progressive and active work of the older men of  $\Delta T \Delta$  to assist and influence those just coming into the Fraternity.

and Mine Car Company

Wilbur D. Hockensmith, Alpha (Allegheny), '99, recently elected a trustee of the University of Pittsburgh, was graduated from the Pittsburgh school of engineering in 1901. He played football during his undergraduate days and served as graduate coach in 1901. Since 1916, he has been president of the Hockensmith Wheel and Mine Car Company, founded by his father in 1876. Wilbur D. Hockensmith is a Delt father; his son is Franklin C. Hockensmith, II, Gamma Sigma (Pittsburgh), '36.

In addition to the luncheons, a regular monthly evening get-together is being worked out, and it is hoped that before long the Delta Women's Club will be organized and functioning effectively.

The National Capital Alumni Chapter wishes to take this opportunity to serve notice to the alumni and undergraduate members of  $\Delta T \Delta$  all over the country that we are preparing to attend the Pittsburgh Karnea en masse, not only to enjoy the hospitalities of the great and hospitable city of Pittsburgh and  $\Delta T \Delta$  alumni, but also to invite the Fraternity to hold its next biennial convention in Washington, D.C.

"Time Marches On," and the National Capital Alumni Chapter is keeping just ahead.

HENRY E. PRICE

Philadelphia

THE Philadelphia Alumni Chapter discontinued the holding of meetings during the summer months. In a few weeks, meetings will be held regularly.

Pittsburgh

ABOUT the only activity in the Pittsburgh Alumni Chapter during the summer months was that of Karnea planning. The committee, under the general chairmanship of Norman MacLeod, has been appointed and is beginning to function in anticipation of one of the finest Karneas in the history of the Fraternity. The program itself will be something to which we all can look forward.

In the latter part of August the alumni chapter, working with all of the undergraduate chapters in the tri-state area, held a large picnic just outside the city to which they invited the freshmen who were entering the respective schools in this vicinity. This was more or less in the form of a rushing event, and it proved extremely successful in that it made possible the opportunity for the undergraduate rushing chairmen to meet the respective rushees.

Stark County (Ohio)

for the first week in October, at which time new officers will be elected. Due to the fact that the members are scattered throughout the county, we do not have frequent meetings. We have, however, maintained the organization and have been adding to our membership roll since we organized.

Fallen Arches at Ohio Clinic

Among the Fallen Arches who met at Beatley's Hotel were T. H. Evans, Beta (Ohio), '32; J. L. Finnicum, Beta (Ohio), '11; W. H. Martindill, Beta (Ohio), '32; and E. V. Henckel, Jr., Zeta (Western Reserve), '28.

Fallen Arches Hold Clinic in Ohio

By J. L. FINNICUM, Beta (Ohio)
'11, President of the Northern Division

REGISTRATION of the loyal Delts who met for the First Biennial Clinic at Beatley's Hotel, Russells Point, Ohio, August 29 and 30, began Saturday, August 29, and the first patients arrived about noon. General health conditions being the uppermost requirements for the course of treatment, food was had, good and in abundance. Exercise was also prescribed: talking for the jaws and tongue; mental communion for the soul. A summer resort, Beatley's was well supplied with feminine distraction; and since all bills were paid in full, evidently no one in attendance was on his uppers.

Bonds of  $\Delta T \Delta$  were tied just a little tighter by this assembly, and plans were laid for making this a regular event in off-Karnea years.

The individual members have submitted names of boys entering school this fall to the various chapters.

Portland

OUR alumni organization has just completed a very successful year during which time, in addition to our annual Christmas dance and the initiation banquet, we have held numerous bridge parties, stag parties, and rushing parties. We are indebted to Art Carlson for the use of his home on Lake Oswego for the rushing parties, and to the various members who offered their homes for bridge parties.

As first reports come in from the undergraduate chapters we find that at least seven men were pledged as a result of the activity of our members. We were materially aided in our rushing program this year by a visit from Les Wilkins who met with us prior to his trip through Oregon where he met with other alumni groups.

As a service to our members, we reserved, through Gene Dyer, a block of almost 150 of the most desirable seats in the stadium for Delts and their families, for the Oregon-Washington game, one of the biggest games in the Northwest football season. Among those present at the game will be two prominent Delt authors, Robert Ormond (Bob) Case, and Ernest Haycox, whose names have recently been added to Who's Who.

The results of our recent election of officers, were as follows; Jim Brattain, president; Neal Troch, vice-president; Bill Todd, secretary; and Jim Ryan, treasurer. These men, together with Chris Fariss, Mark Gill, Bob Case, Bob Rankin, and Herb White, other members of our board of governors, will guide the destinies of our organization for the coming year.

Rochester

IT SEEMS a long time since the 1936 celebration of Founders Day, but our meeting on that occasion was so enjoyable that we are looking forward to next year's Delt Night. At the meeting March 6 Ben Larrabee gave a very interesting talk on his teaching experiences in the Ozarks. Field Secretary Frank Serviss visited the officers of the Rochester Alumni Chapter several weeks after Founders Day and enlightened them on Delt affairs.

Our picnic at Churchville Park, May 24, was well attended and Chairman Eddie Marth saw to it that everyone had a fine time.

President Warren Parks, Rochester's most enthusiastic Delt, and Mrs. Parks together with Mrs. Wallace J. Stakel, chairman of the woman's committee, planned the most successful Delt party of the season, which took place June 20 at the Parks' home where badminton, bowls, clock golf, and other games provided pleasant entertainment which was topped off by an equally enjoyable picnic dinner.

About a month later a golf match and dinner were held at the Stafford Country Club with the Buffalo Alumni Chapter.

For the fall season we are planning a series of contract bridge parties. With over sixty members in the alumni chapter, thirty-two chapters are represented, Beta Omicron leading with ten.

We have heard that John Moreton is moving to Chicago, which gives us an idea. If, when a member moves to another city, the secretary of the alumni chapter would inform the secretary of the chapter in the other city, such information would be appreciated—at least by this secretary.

EDGAR O'NEIL

Tulsa

THE Tulsa Alumni Chapter started an auspicious year with the regular monthly meeting and dinner at the University Club September 11. In spite of the hot weather a good number was out, and with some new Delts moving to the "City of the Hour," and practically everyone back from vacation, we hope to have even a greater turnout at the October meeting.

Plans are under way to have a special alumni committee to promote RAINBOW subscriptions, an alumni rushing committee, and a closer cooperation with the Arch Chapter and Central Office for the promotion of the best interest of the Fraternity.

Those members who were here during the opening of school did what they could in rush for Oklahoma, Stanford, California, U.C.L.A., Missouri, Colorado, and Dartmouth. We have reports that some of the prospects we recommended have been pledged, others yet to hear from.

The Tulsa Alumni Chapter was honored April 23 by Delta Alpha's presentation of a model initiation. The ceremony was held for us at the University Club in Tulsa. There were forty-six alumni present, some of whom had not seen an initiation in twenty-five years.

Delts in this area were happy to learn that Frank B. Long was elected president of the Rotary Club of Oklahoma. Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri was a Tulsa visitor recently when he was the principal speaker at the annual American Legion Convention.

J. Ronald Johnson has returned to the Sooner State from a Denver hospital.

President Bob Bates has returned from an extended fishing trip and vacation in Colorado and Wyoming. Come on up and hear a good fish story at the next meeting. Again, let us remind you that our dinners and alumni meetings are held the second Friday of every month at the University Club at 6:30. All out-of-town Delts will be welcomed cordially.

LAWRENCE H. WILSON

Founders Day Celebrations Will Be Held March 5

☞ Owen C. Orr, General Chairman of the Founders Day Committee, has announced that the Arch Chapter has designated March 5, 1937, as the date for the next Founders Day.

☞ An effort will be made to have a national radio hook-up as a feature of the program for the observance of  $\Delta T \Delta$ 's anniversary. Members of the Committee in charge of the plans are Norman MacLeod, Chairman, Roy Petty, L. N. Fitts, J. L. Finnicum, F. M. Cornell, and L. Allen Beck.

☞ Detailed information concerning the plans for the event will be announced in the January number of THE RAINBOW.
