14. Patents

Gericke, N., Van Wyk, B.-E., 1997 (filed 3 June). Pharmaceutical compositions containing mesembrine and related compounds. PCT/GB97/01493. Research work on Sceletium tortuosum (now also called Mesembryanthemum tortuosum) was part of a THRIP-funded collaboration with SA Druggists (now Aspen Pharmacare) in the period 1993 to 1999. New crop development involved a first taxonomic and geographical survey of the genus for the selection of high-alkaloid genotypes for cultivation; mesembrine and other alkaloids were isolated from various species and provenances and resulted in an international patent (innovative method to extract mesembrine and other alkaloids). The patent was transferred to a local company and further development work is underway, now expanding to several new commercial initiatives.

15. Branded medicinal (herbal) products

15.1 "Healers Choice" Branded range of African Traditional Medicines (developed by South African Druggists (now Aspen Pharmacare). THRIP-funded research on the botany and chemical variation of the plants during the period 1993 to 1999. This research has led to new crops (Sceletium, Artemisia), an expanded factory for the production of plant tinctures (Parceval) and a registered international patent (Sceletium and its alkaloids).

15.2 “Phyto Nova” range of medicinal products. As founding director of Phyto Nova (Pty) Ltd (1999-2004), new crops and new medicinal products were developed and branded, based on African Traditional Medicinal Plants. Notable examples are Sutherlandia (now a household name, copied by many other companies), Pepperbark leaf (Warburgia), African ginger (Siphonochilus) and Sceletium; the company was taken over by Thebe Pharmaceuticals in 2004 and renamed “Thebe Natural Medicine” with Phyto Nova retained as a brand name. The range of products has expanded but the original concepts were retained. The Phyto Nova brand was sold to Bioscience Brands but later reverted back to Thebe.
