WE DEDICATE TO THEE

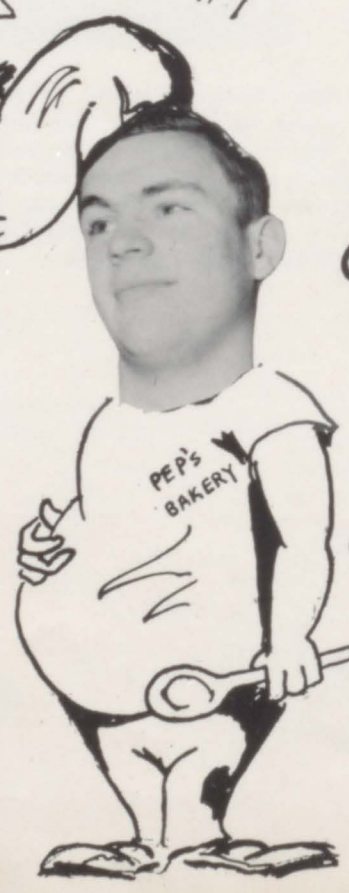

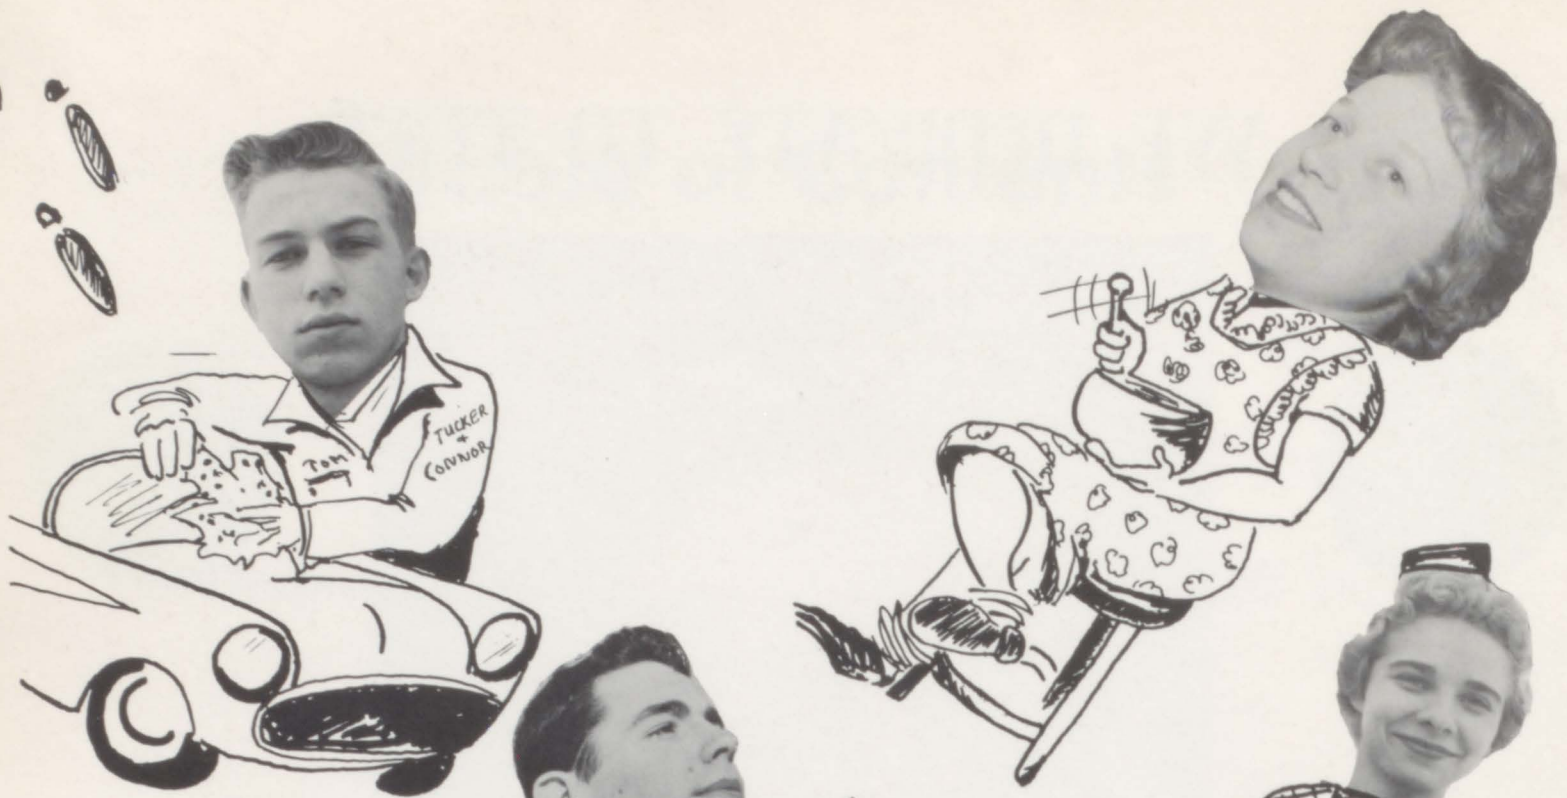

For Miss Healy, the school is the center of the stage in life. She is performing a magnificent part as a teacher at RHS; this performance will always remain in the hearts of the graduates.

We dedicate the 1959 Rohian to you for your deep, outright understanding of the high school student and for your helping hand which has inspired many young men and women, not only in their careers, but also throughout their lives.

We'll remember you as a giant of ideals, a wizard of culture, and conceiving a keen sense of humor. Needless to say—you're tops!

Art

A varied program of projects in art was offered this year, and students in Miss Ann Moberg's art classes developed many skills and hobbies. The widely diversified program of painting with oils and water colors, chip carving, modeling, and working with clay were popular. Students also learned the art of sketching with pencils, chalk, and crayons.

Students who have taken part in school activities owe thanks to the artists who have worked on the interesting posters and decorations for the events.

Midge demonstrates his ability to Pat and Janet while Jim and Carolyn try their own techniques.

Choir

Poise, discipline, reading, and appreciation keynote Mr. Burke's teaching of RHS choir students.

The reading of music is essential for anyone in choir and Mr. Burke's students get a thorough background in this particular phase of music through practical application rather than written work.

Students also learn to appreciate, and are acquainted with music from the early 600's through today's contemporary and modern trend.

Discipline and poise are gained by the students with the knowledge of a job well done.

Mr. Burke leads the altos in a difficult passage.

Languages

This year a new sound was heard in the RHS halls. Latin, a new course, was offered and the students received it with great pleasure. Most people found this "universal" language quite interesting and fun. Of course, French and Spanish were still as popular as ever. Something new in these classes were penpals from France, Belgium and Spain. Maps of these countries were filled out and colored also. This year's languages seemed to satisfy everybody.

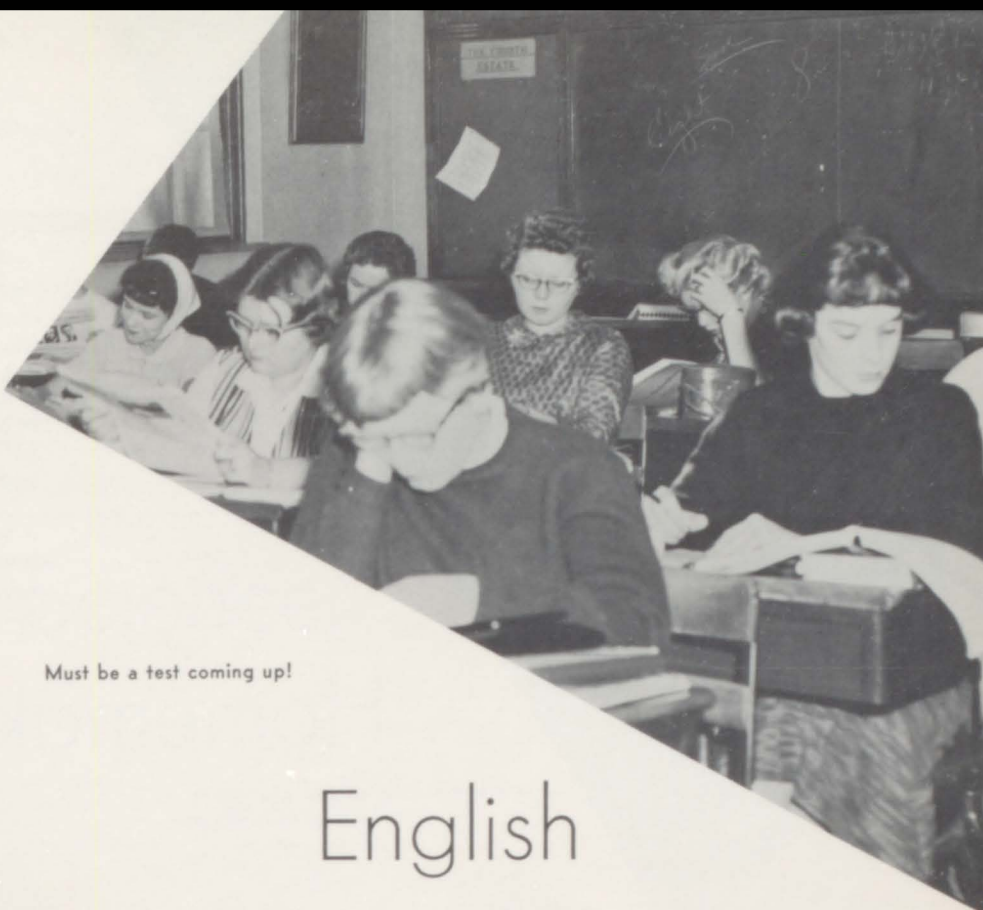

Linda, Patsy, Marsha, and Sandy admire Mr. Turner's unique bulletin board on Spain.

Journalism

Journalism, which is offered to Juniors and Seniors, is one of the most interesting classes at Roosevelt High School. There is never a dull moment with Mr. Ferguson as their instructor.

Of a certainty, Journalism is interesting and fun, but it has its practical purpose as well. The object is to learn the fundamentals of good newspaper writing.

The students have an opportunity to put what they learn into use for the Journalism classes by managing, editing and reporting for "The Star of the North" and "Rohian", our school paper and yearbook.

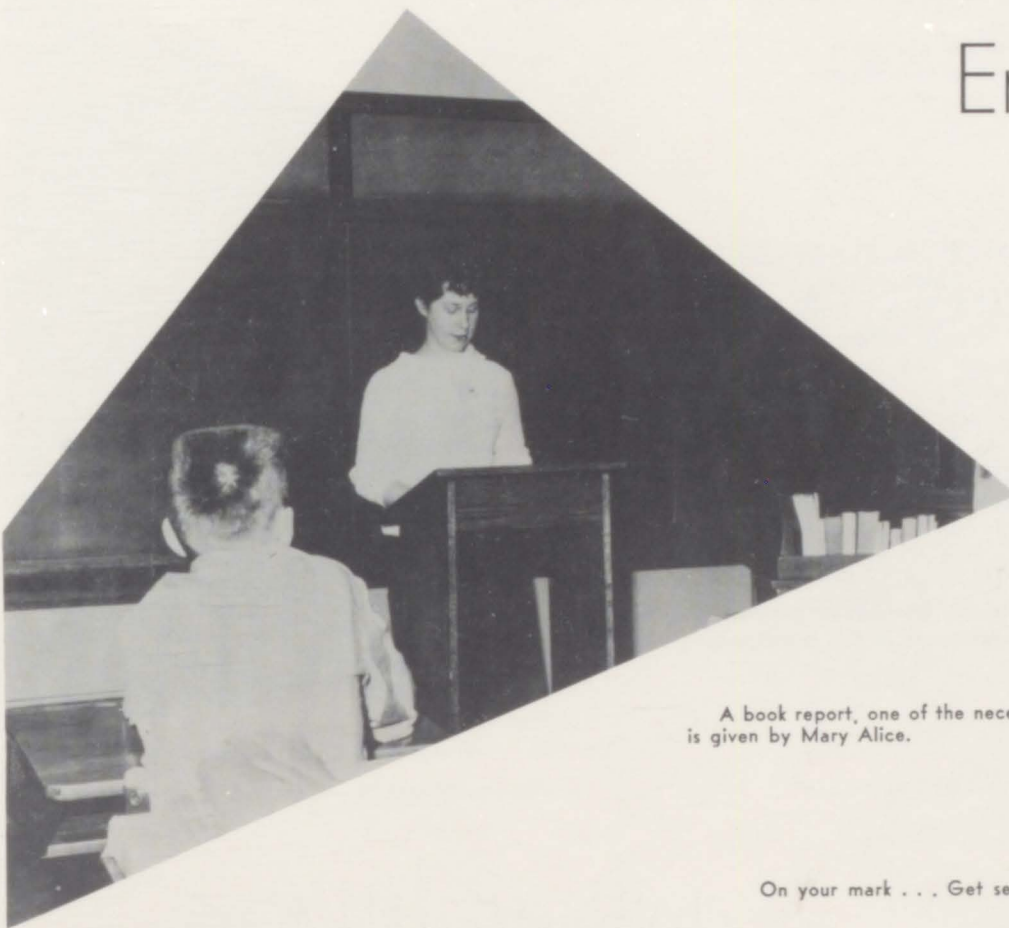

Must be a test coming up!

English

Becoming acquainted with great contemporary artists and periods of literature is the theme for required high school English.

As sophomores, students encounter Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" and George Eliot's "Silas Marner". Through the study of American literature as juniors, drama is introduced in the play "Our Town" in addition to well known American poetry. Seniors graduate into the more difficult English literature and will probably never forget trying to interpret Chaucer's Old English writings.

Grammar, writing and reading summarize the important, basic subject English.

A book report, one of the necessities in English, is given by Mary Alice.

On your mark . . . Get set . . . GO!!

Speech

The speech class started the year by learning the fundamentals of making introductions, carrying on telephone conversations and introducing speakers.

A discussion of school systems occupied the second six weeks period, followed by extemporaneous reading and speaking. From there the class went on to memorized speaking.

On Fridays the class listened to, and discussed, recordings of famous speakers.

A tape recorder was used during the year to enable students to hear themselves and correct their own mistakes.

Make them shine girls!

Textile study, clothes construction, knitting, interior decorating, wardrobe planning, and a charm course are but a few of the subjects covered by the advanced sewing classes, while the advanced cooking class offers a study of food testing, preparation of foods for teas, foods of many nations, selection and care of china, linens and silverware, and menu planning.

The homemaking class, which consists of a semester of cooking and sewing for the beginner, studies lightly many of the same subjects the cooking and sewing classes follow.

Homemaking

Joyce demonstrates the sewing machine to Joan

Roosevelt High School offers complete, well-rounded commercial courses.

In shorthand I, juniors learn the principles of the Gregg system. Emphasis is placed on speed and accuracy in both reading and writing in shorthand II.

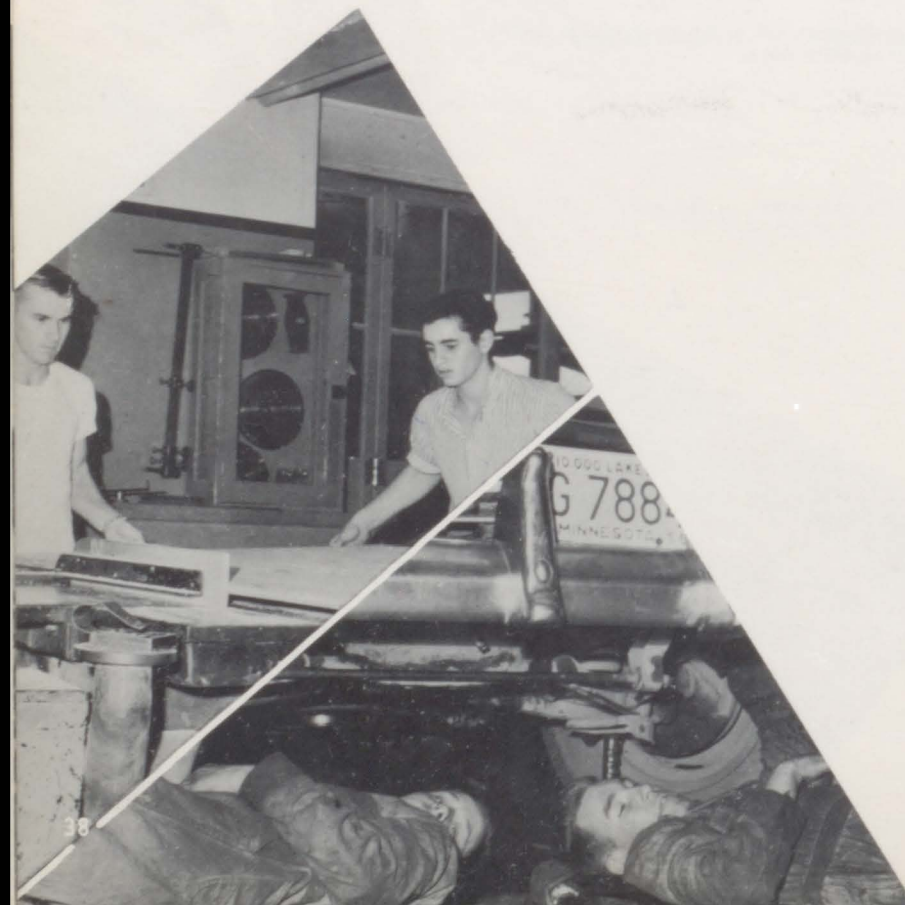

Typing students start from "scratch" and work up to speed drills and writing business letters.

Office practice includes general office procedures, advanced typing, an introduction to office machines, a short filing course, and a travel project.

Processes in the bookkeeping cycle are drilled on in workbooks in the bookkeeping course.

Commercial

Dick and George show that woodworking takes concentration.

All eyes are on books for timed writings.

Industrial Arts

Industrial Art classes are planned to train students in vocations they plan to take up in their future.

Students are instructed in woodworking, printing, welding, drafting, auto mechanics, machine shops, and electricity classes.

On the job training is offered to students to give them experience in the field they plan to go into. Smith-Hughes courses are offered and resemble on the job training except the work is all done in the school.

Students can determine whether they fit their chosen field through this class.

Auto Mechanics looks more like a rest period than work for Bob and Warren.

Just the place to bring the "devil out" in the student is the RHS science class rooms.

Three science courses are offered to the students, of which at least one is required for graduation. These are biology, which is taken by the majority of the students, physics and chemistry.

Thus one can see that RHS offers the students all that is necessary in the basic sciences and that the rest is up to them.

Science

Diane and Vonnie play the game of concentration in the Chem. lab.

Even geometry can be fun with Mr. Eide as instructor.

We find many of our future scientists and engineers in the RHS mathematics classes, where they are learning the basic fundamentals for progress toward these careers.

Most of the sophomores and few juniors take either algebra from Mr. Rowbottom or geometry from Mr. Eide or Mr. Sims. Students who have taken geometry may proceed to higher algebra taught by Mr. Sims.

Seniors and others capable of carrying solid geometry and trigonometry take from Mr. Eide one semester of each.

Math

Around the world in 55 minutes.

Social Studies

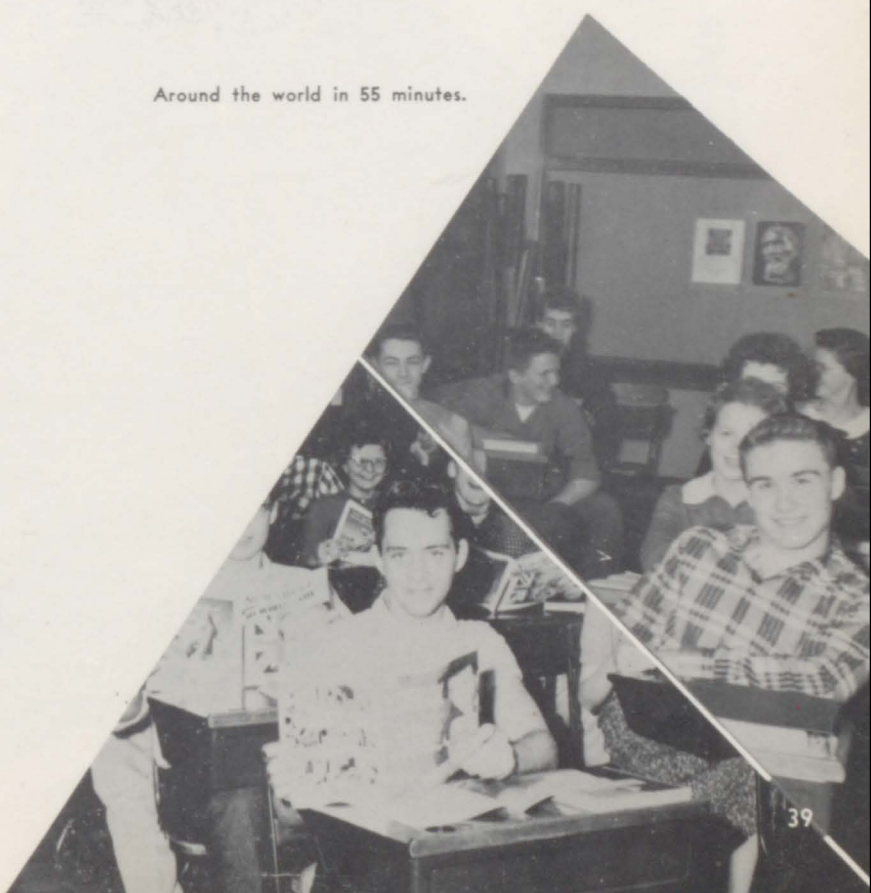

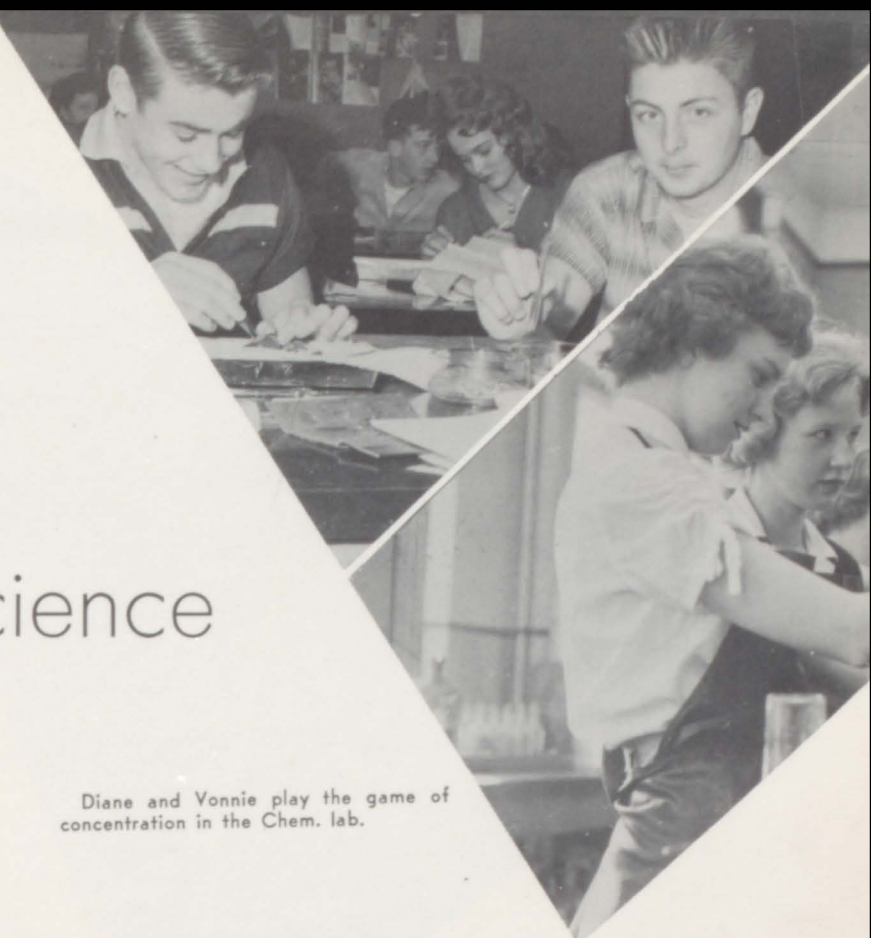

Social studies play an important part in our curriculum.

In our sophomore year, we are taught world history from the beginning of civilization to the present state of affairs.

Then as juniors, we study United States history and the Constitution.

In the first semester of our senior year, civics, the political machinery of our country, is given. During the second semester we have a choice of economics, money problems and economic conditions; or sociology, which is the study of problems of people in our social order.

Mike finds the "Newsweek" exceptionally interesting.

Good physical fitness is the main objective of the Physical Education classes in our school curriculum. This group is made up of five divisions: volleyball, basketball, individual games, tumbling, and softball.

Many moans and groans were heard after the students were introduced to the new device in Phy Ed, the trampoline. With the help and advice of their instructors, Mr. Wayne Johnson and Miss Moroni, many of the students became quite expert at it.

Physical Education

Miss Morrone shows the girls correct tactics in volleyball.

Where's the ball boys?

Life-saving is one of the many valuable lessons taught in girls' swimming.

Don sprints into his turn.

Swimming

During the school year a senior boy has a chance to improve his swimming speed, learn how to play a good game of commando polo and qualify for his junior life-saving card.

In order to get this card he must pass a series of tests including the holds for pulling a person to safety and be able to break certain holds imposed on him by the person drowning.

Two hundred and twenty girls are in the swimming classes directed by Mrs. Jaksha, a former RHS swimming star, who has previously taught gym and swimming in Gilbert.

The girls, made up mostly of juniors and sophomores, undergo entirely different curriculums.

In the junior classes, girls work on American Red Cross Swimming Skills, which after completion enable them to try for their senior life saving.

Entre Nous

Entre Nous, the girls' club devoted to vocational guidance, under the supervision of Miss Amy Beckstrom and President, Joanne Fitzpatrick, enjoyed one of its most successful years. Other officers were: Vice-President, Peggy Tuominen; Secretary, JoAnn Koroshec; and Treasurer, Marilyn Rabideau.

For the third year, the Entre Nous float won first place under the theme, "Let's Give Hibbing a Devil of a Time".

At the Christmas party the girls were hosts to four needy children. Homecoming hall decorations, Christmas card sales, girls' Christmas tea, and initiation, filled the year's activities.

The spring banquet ended a year of fun and memories.

Hae W started the year by winning third prize for their homecoming float, and introduced two projects. The first was making Octopi in different styles, second is the booth at the Miners Memorial Building. The booth was a place where Hae W and Tri-Hi sold popcorn.

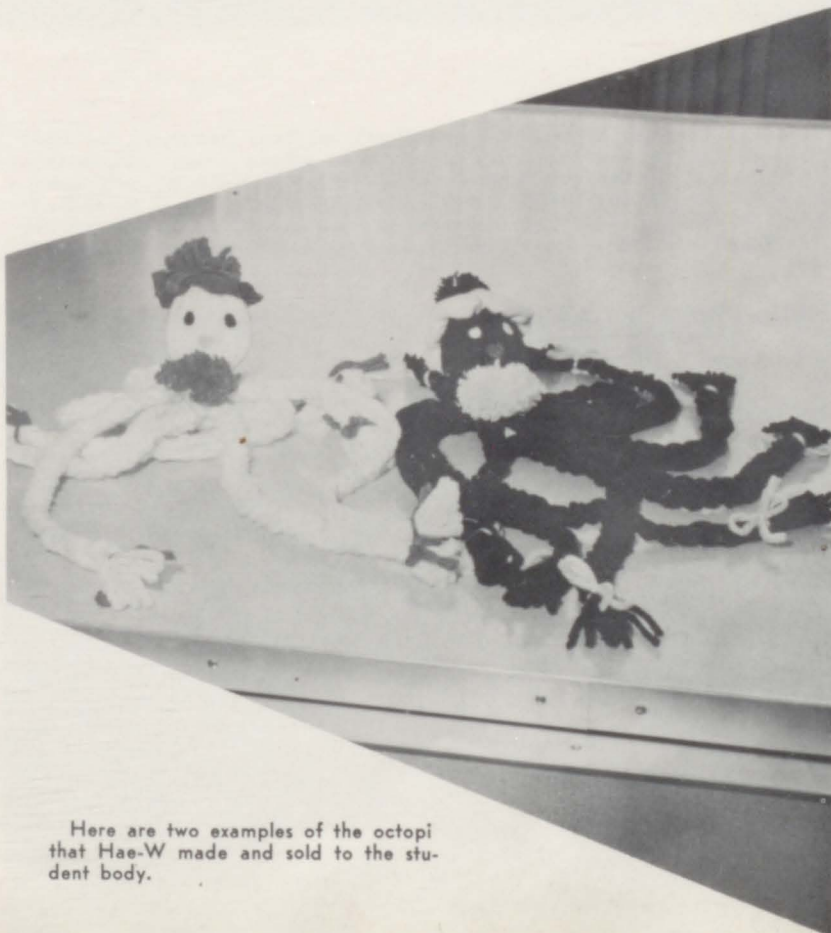

Hae W made a food basket at Thanksgiving and Christmas, that was sent to a needy family, a tradition that has been established throughout the years. The club's income came from bake sales, the booth, octopi, and Christmas ribbon.

Miss Ellig the new and active advisor led the girls to the end of an enjoyable year that closed with a banquet.

Tri Hi completed another year under the supervision of Miss Moberg. This year's officers were: Joyce Johnson, president; Renee King, vice-president; Sue Carey, secretary; and Sue Johnson, treasurer.

The outstanding event was the style show held November 1, in the city clubrooms. For days afterward, the conversation in RHS's halls consisted of the stunning creations and beautiful hairstyles.

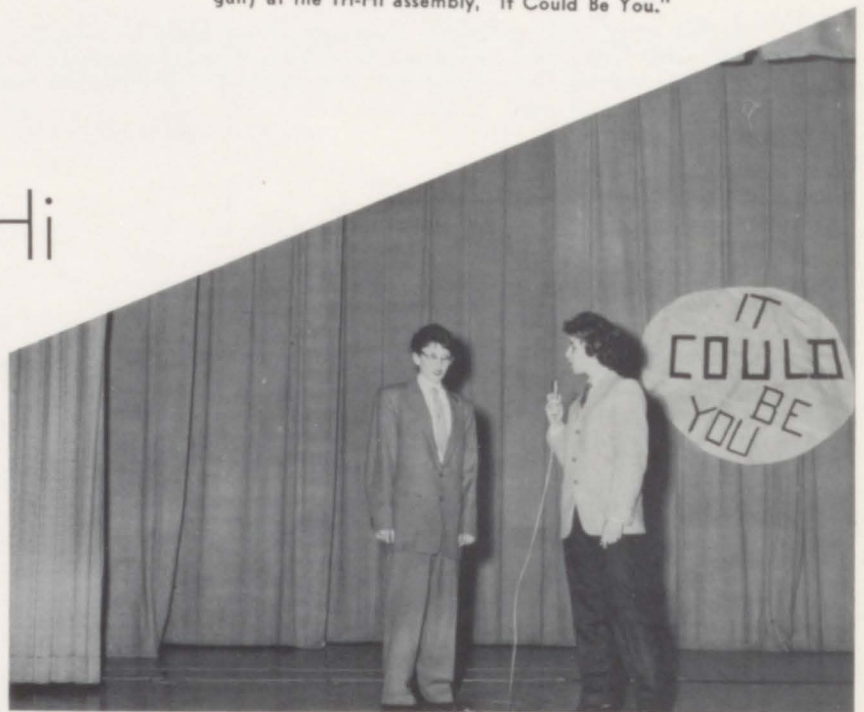

To raise money, they held a bake sale November 15, sold pins and earrings for Christmas and pompons for tournaments. In May, the underclassmen sponsored the annual Senior Girls Tea. Our final get-together was the spring banquet held at the Hotel Coates.

Membership in the Lettermen's Club is open to all athletes who are interested in promoting sportsmanship and fair play among the student body. A letter may be earned by participating in football, basketball, baseball, hockey, swimming, track, tennis, or golf.

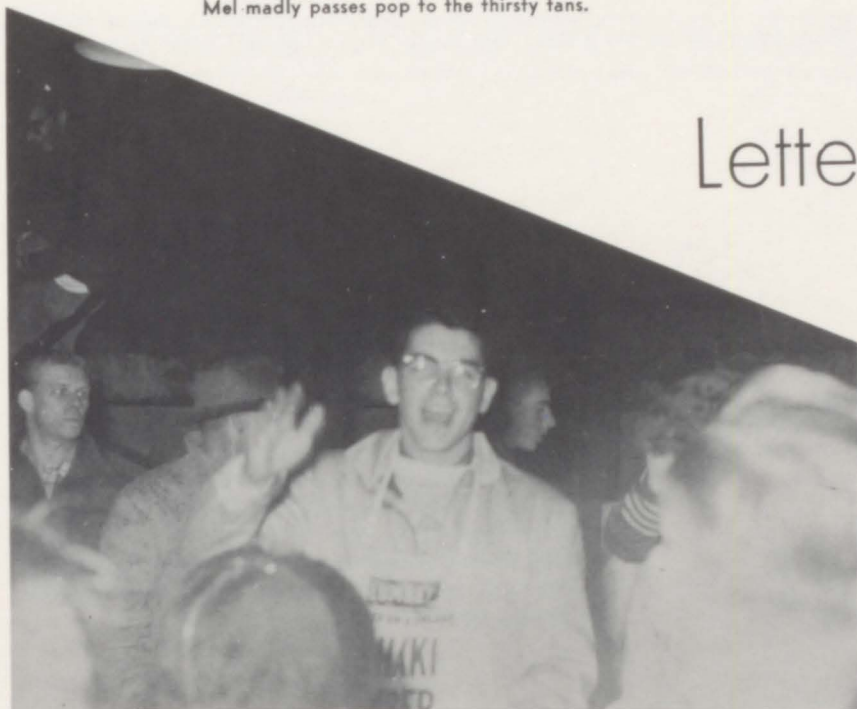

This year, lettermen operated refreshment concessions at home football and basketball games. Highlights of the year were the Lettermen's Ball, and basketball homecoming during Christmas vacation.

Club adviser was Mr. L. L. Michels. Officers were: president, Don Wicklund; vice-president, Russ Peterson; secretary, Dave Wicklund; treasurer, Paul Johnson; sergeant-at-arms, Steve Cline and Student Council representative, Peter Haarala.

GAA

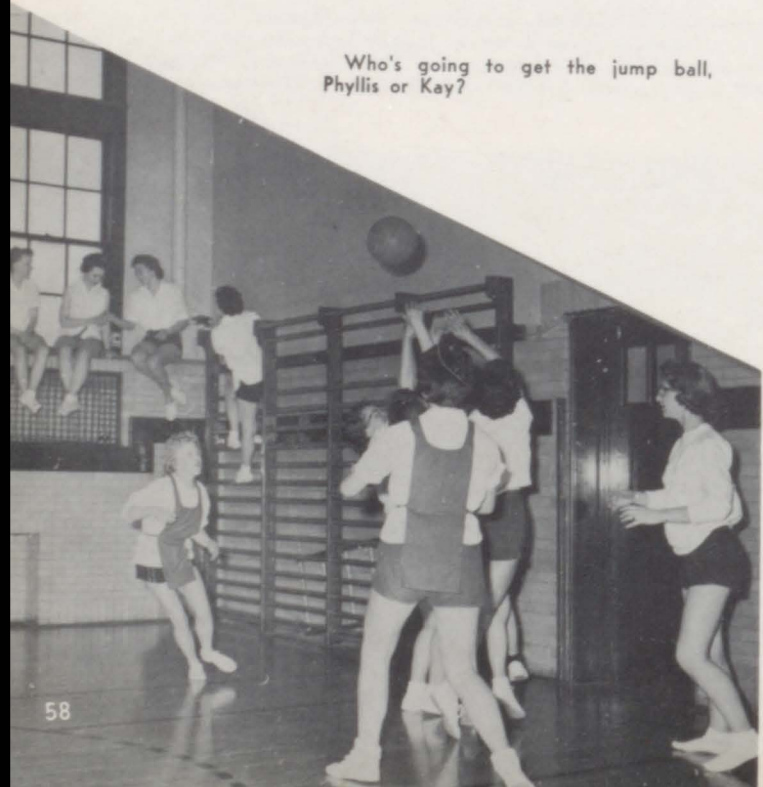

Miss Barbara Jamieson, the new GAA advisor, and Miss Theresa Moroni, opened the 1958-59 school year with a new slate of officers which included: Dianne Josephson, president; Jean Ollila, vice-president; Joyce Johnson, secretary; and Yvonne Petroskey, treasurer. GAA's purpose is to promote fair play and good sportsmanship in all sports.

A change in the organization was the early initiation of freshmen. The new point system also allows for the girls to purchase their sweaters as juniors.

Since speedball and archery were dropped, bowling was extended over a ten week period. Basketball, volleyball, and recreational sports concluded the spring session.

As we glance back over the year, we find many highlights in the activities of the Ro-Hi Thespians. Initiation of new members was given a new twist this year. Jaunts down Virginia's main street in ridiculous costumes, and "target practice" at a Youth Council booth will long be remembered.

Sponsoring and staging plays, participating in speech art contests, working on club projects, such as a series of one act plays, and working on stage crews are some of the many activities of the Theps.

Ro-Hi Thespians helps the students to demonstrate and develop their abilities, whether they be cast, or crew.

This year the Spanech Club had a busy season. The members were busy with seasonal parties, initiation, dessert meetings, and the spring banquet.

Also Spaench (from the combined words Spanish and French) welcomed a new language to their foreign language club, Latin. There were several first year students who joined the club at the close of the first semester. The Latin teacher is Mr. Wensman.

The advisor and officers who guided the club through the 1958-59 school year were Dave Neff, president; Sally Oakman, secretary; Sue Carey, treasurer; and Mr. Turner, advisor.

Red Cross is an international organization, started with the main purpose of creating good will and friendship with our neighbors and neighboring countries.

This organization under the direction of Miss Ellen Korpy, participates in many activities throughout the year. A few are: visiting the Pioneers' Infirmary, filling gift boxes and gift chests, holding a yearly enrollment drive, and various ways of raising money.

The accomplishments of the students during the year, determines which members attend the Red Cross Camps held each summer. These camps, which are held throughout the state, prove to be both interesting and enjoyable.

Choir

The Boys' Choir, directed by Mr. Burke perform in the operetta, "Down in the Valley".

A great deal of credit is due to Mr. Burke for his work with the RHS choir this year.

The choir, composed of students from sophomore through senior classes began the year by singing "Country Style" at the football Homecoming assembly.

The Christmas concert was presented December 6, with three en masse numbers with the junior college.

The spring concert, including the folk opera, "Down In the Valley," was on April 22.

The district vocal contest took place on April 28 with the entire choir participating. On May 1, a small select group was among the contestants at the regional contest.

Randy Hedican and Ruth Bjorsted rehearse for their parts in "Down in the Valley".

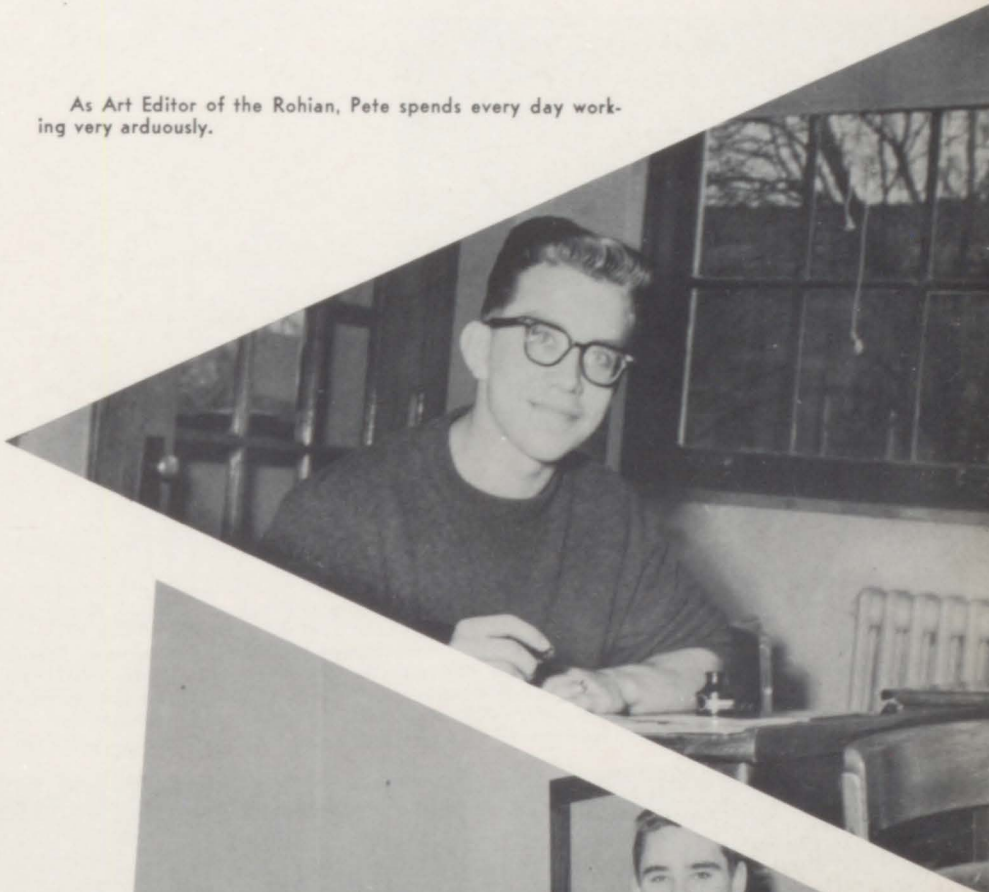

Gail Alar, managing editor, and Mary Lou Patka, exchange editor, play an important part in the "Star of the North".

Jane Koski and Yvonne Petrosky, editors of the "Rohian" take a break during a planning session.

As Art Editor of the Rohian, Pete spends every day working very arduously.

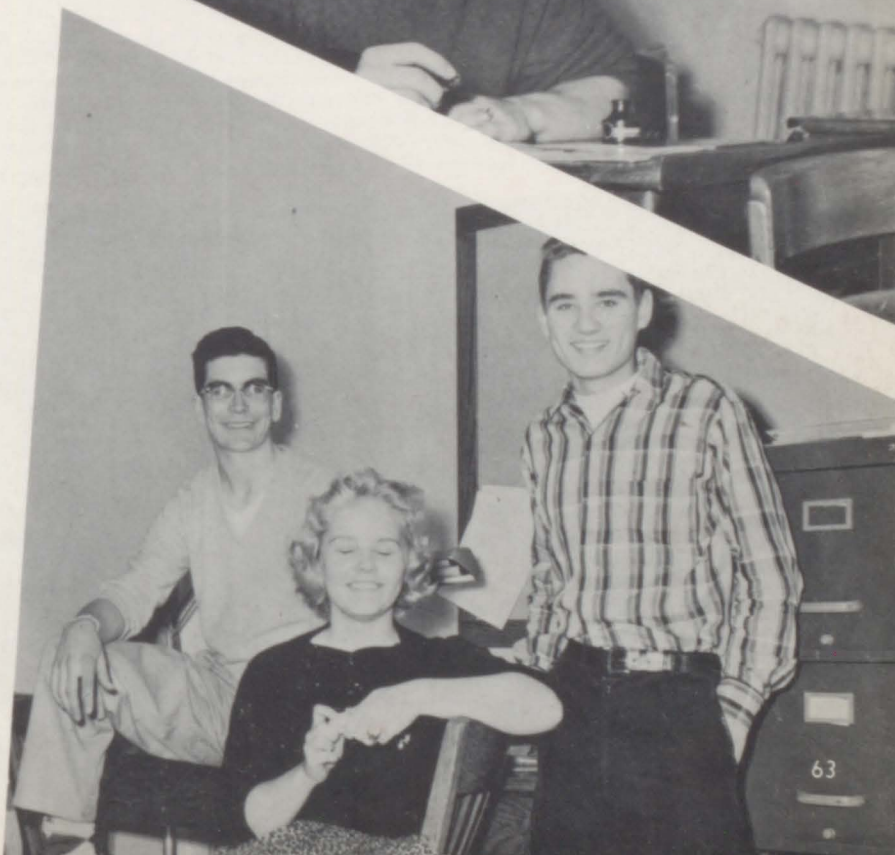

Journalism

Work, work, work, what fun is that? There are oodles when you're working on the "Star" and the "Rohian". It was tough with deadlines to meet, headlines to write, proofs to check and pictures to take. but oh, what fun!

Busiest of the 210 workers were Jane Koski and Yvonne Petroskey, co-editors of the annual, whose responsibilities included, handing out assignments, supervising the general appearance of the annual and "okaying" final layout and copy.

The "Star" is another project of the journalism classes. Much work is put forth throughout the year to have eight interesting issues out on time.

Jane, LeRoy, and Jim seem to know that a "cute" smile is always appreciated by RHS photographers.

Band

Well, let's give a cheer to the band! This past year they've accomplished two major projects with much success.

To start the ball rolling, the band members went all out to sell candy which brought a $150 profit to the till. This money will be used to make band trips.

Working hard and diligently they made "Music 1958" a wonderful success. Robert Lowry, a clarinet soloist from Sioux City, Iowa, appeared as the main attraction. A National Baton Twirling Contest winner sparked the show along with many other range entertainers.

The efforts of the band members have made this year a success and we hope that this achievement will continue.

Orchestra

One of the products of RHS' music department is its creative musical orchestra under the direction of Mr. Keith Davis.

This organization has provided music throughout the year for the more formal affairs of the school, such as plays, commencement, concerts and assemblies.

By having regular Tuesday evening rehearsals, the Virginia orchestra has maintained its high peak of proficiency along with other range schools.

The most eventful affair, which is a yearly highlight and looked forward to by each and every musician, was the annual Spring Music Festival that climaxed the work and co-operation between Mr. Davis and his students.

Student Council

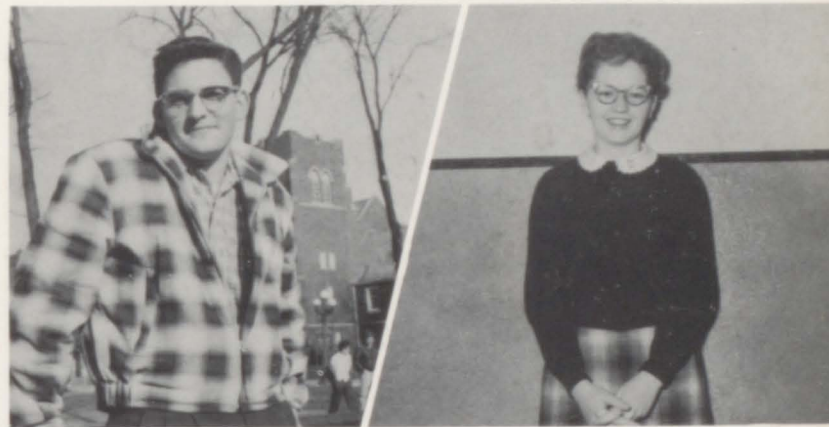

Student Council ended another successful year solving school problems in various fields. The method of electing class officers was changed, a money-making program, and a talent assembly were the high points of this year.

Tessa Morrone was our representative at the State Student Council held at Austin. Here, helpful advice was attained.

Pep Council began activities, under President Jacki Hall. Plans were made for football Homecoming with vice-president Sue Johnson in charge.

Members sold pins for football Homecoming and basketball tournaments which kept secretary-treasurer Betty Bodovinitz busy.

National Honor Society

Each year junior and senior students from the top half of their class are selected by a committee to become members of the National Honor Society. The NHS, an organization that has clubs throughout the United States, chooses its members on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership and service.

Roosevelt High School highly honors its students who were selected as members to the NHS for this past year. Officers were Sam Slade, president; George Milkovich, vice-president; and Bob Hediccan, secretary-treasurer.

Our sincere thanks goes to Mr. Truax and Mr. Oman who served as advisors.

This year twenty girls donated their study periods to aid Miss Wadd, RHS librarian through many and various services. Some of the jobs are: checking books, recording new magazines and shelving books.

The number of helpers this year exceeds last year by six. The services rendered by the girls are not required but voluntary, nor do they carry any credit for the students records. Their only reward is knowledge gained on library functioning and their only pay, the rewarding feeling of being able to help someone.

The library has always been an essential part of RHS. It is to the students a reference agency, to which they may go for help in any subject. And with Miss Wadd's willing hand they are sure to get just what they need.

Majorettes

Pretty and petite high-steppers Judy Bourcier, Sharon Cooke, Mary Sadar, and Mary Gianlorenzi, made a pretty picture at RHS sports rallies.

These five snappy twirlers have been joined by a newcomer among the regulars. He is Bob Heikkala who has been the recipient of several baton twirling honors.

Many hours are spent planning routines for half-time performances, parades, assemblies, and tournaments where their main objective has been to follow the Blue Devils through thick and thin.

Everyone should be proud of Roosevelt's majorettes and the vitality and enthusiasm they encourage among fans.

"Pretty and peppy!" These features make up this year's cheerleaders: Judie Abrahamson, Sue Johnson, Betty Bodovinitz, Cheryl Pauletti, Judie Devich, and Judy Postudensek.

In addition to giving pep and sparkle to the RHS teams, they've also made great efforts in trying to get the student body to respond to new cheers, which they learned while attending the Cheerleader's Clinic.

This year, besides practicing diligently, worrying about new formations, and trying to satisfy their spectators, they've even gone farther by making attractive pleated skirts.

Everyone I'm sure will agree that these six girls deserve some credit for a job well done.

Queen Betty Vonder Haar poses for her royal portrait.

72 Steve Pepelnjak is Queen Betty's personal chauffeur in the Football Homecoming Parade.

Sandi Neari, Joyce Johnson and Rozanne Montgomery complete the royal party in George's car.

Renee and Gloria decorate the prize winning Entre Nous float.

Steve Pepelnjak finds chaffeurung for Queen Betty an enjoyable experience.

"It's love that makes people sick like that," says Ben (Jim Welsh) in this scene from "Father of the Bride." Father (Leon Guild), mother (Sue Romer), and Tommy (Bruce Hyde), greet the statement with thoughtful faces.

November 1, the all-school play was presented, directed by Miss Jean Healy.

The hilarious comedy tells of a bewildered father upon hearing of his daughter's engagement, and the resulting events which thoroughly confuse poor dad.

Members of the cast were: Leon Guild, Father; Nancy Nelson, Daughter; Bruce Bergman, Bridegroom; Sue Romer, Mother; Bruce Hyde, son; Jim Welsh, son; Gretchen Patka, son's girl, Linda Anderson, secretary; Tessa Morrone, Diane Mageau, Dennis De Chambeau, Kathy, Marcie, and Jerry Reske, Lee Bissonette, Leonard Richards, Don Hautala, Judy Postudensek, Cheryl Pauletti, Ron Goldberg, Student director; Mary Vitzthum, Business manager; and Art Rued, Stage manager.

"Father of the Bride"

"Ellie", Sue Romer, comforts "Kay", Nancy Nelson, as "Dunstan", Bruce Bergman, stands aside.

The wedding costs of "Mr. Masula", Ron Goldberg, affect "Mr. Banks", Leon Guild, while "Ellie", Sue Romer, goes into a dream.

Nancy Nelson portrayed the character "Kay" in "Father of the Bride", this year's all-school play.

Leon rehearses the part of "Mr. Banks" in "Father of the Bride."

Ronald Goldberg and Gretchen Patka seem very much involved in the happy ending to 'The Boor', one of the three-act plays presented by Ro Hi Theps.

"I'll shoot," warns Billie Jean Serson as Leon Guild threatens her with a candlestick. Sally McKenzie appears very calm during this exciting scene from "Two Crooks and a Lady."

On February 27, the Ro Hi Thespian Club presented "An Evening of Theatre" which included the production of three one-act plays.

The first play of the evening was "Trifles" and included in its cast: Robert Medican, Jerry Reske, Linda Anderson, Arthur Rued, and Sue Carey.

The second play presented was "Two Crooks and A Lady" played with the following cast: Leon Guild, Mary McKenzie, Billie Jean Serson, Elizabeth Bennetts, and Ralph Cuppoletti.

"The Boor" was the third play with Gretchen Patka, Ronald Goldberg, and Leroy Hendrickson participating in its cast.

The directors in order were: Gael Kennedy, Mary Vitzthum, and Jim Welsh.

The entire project was taken care of by student participation and production with our supervisor, Miss Healy.

"I wonder what the motive was?" asks Randy Medican. Arthur Rued, Ron Goldberg, Sue Carey, and Linda Anderson appear to be asking the same question. This scene is from "Trifles."

One-Act Plays

"Help, water, my heart," moans LeRoy Hendrickson. Gretchen Patka rushes madly about the room looking for the maid and Ron Goldberg sneers at the helpless LeRoy in this scene from the 'Theps' production of "The Boor."
